BISHOP'S PLEA FOR SUNDAY

The Bishop of Willedeen presided over a conference called by the Harrow and District Free Church Council to consider the question of Sunday defence. The Bishop said that it was absolutely necessary to stir up a large body of opinion in favor of keeping Sunday as a day of rest, for owing to the apathy of electors, time after time the legislation on the subject was not being carried out. With regard to the question of Sunday cinema in Middlesex, he rejoiced at the action taken by the county council, and could assure the members that they had the solid support of all the religious bodies behind them. In Canada public opinion had been so far influenced as to preserve the Sunday for the working man, and the churches had successfully protested against the opening of any places of amusement.

They wanted to see to it that in England Acts of Parliament were carried out, so that the working man should have his recognized day of rest. The appalling monotony of going on day after day without a break led to terrible results, and he welcomed the proposal to form a committee for Sunday defence.

Mr. John Durrant, of Weybridge, aged one hundred and three, was probably the oldest voter in the local elections throughout England. Mr. Durrant accepted a lift by motor car to the polling booth, but he marked his paper without resorting to the aid of glasses.

A Long Acquaintance

A celebrated actress tells an amusing story of a young "cut" who fell in love with a certain leading lady who was appearing in a provincial town. He sought out the manager of the company—a fine-looking, bearded man—and tried to get an introduction to the lady. "I expect you, who see her so often, are very fond of her," he suggested. The manager admitted that he was; he had known her for a long time. "But it can't be so very long," protested the other; "she's little more than a girl." "Well, I've known her ever since I was born," replied the manager. "You see, I'm her son!"

Death Follows a Scratch

A slight scratch on the heel has led to the death of Robert Edward Smith, a six-year-old Grimsby child. While putting on his boots he complained that his heel hurt him, and the mother found a small inflamed wound. He died of blood poisoning.

Masquerading as a Man

A case of an unusual character was heard at Forfar, when a woman hailing from the neighborhood of Albroath was charged with assaulting another elderly female, a married woman, by striking her on the face and head with a stick. The remarkable feature of the assault was that in order to escape observation the accused donned male clothing and sallied forth in the early hours of the morning. A fine of $25 was imposed.

Origin of Greenbacks

Few people, perhaps, are aware why the national American currency is printed with green backs. Ever since the adoption of paper currency it has been the constant study of bank-note engravers to get up some plan of printing bills that could not be counterfeited. In this they only partly succeeded till as late as 1857, when a man named Stacy J. Edson invented a kind of green ink, which he patented June 30th of that year. It is called anti-photographic ink, because it cannot be photographed and cannot be discolored with alkalies by counterfeiters to get a complete facsimile of the bills. As it is a secret known only to the American Bank Note Company and the inventor, it is impossible to counterfeit the greenback money. Even if the composition of the ink was known, it would be of no use, as the work could not be copied from the genuine bills with any other kind of ink.

REMARKABLE CASE of Mrs. HAM

Declares Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her Life and Sanity.

Shamrock, Mo.—"I feel it my duty to tell the public the condition of my health before using your medicine. I had falling, inflammation and congestion, female weakness, pains in both sides, backaches and bearing down pains, was short of memory, nervous, impatient, passed sleepless nights, and had neither strength nor energy. There was always a fear and dread in my mind, I had cold, nervous, weak spells, hot flashes over my body. I had a place in my right side that was so sore that I could hardly bear the weight of my clothes. I tried medicines and doctors, but they did me little good, and I never expected to get out again. I got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier, and I certainly would have been in grave or in an asylum if your medicines had not saved me. But now I can work all day, sleep no hot flashes or weak, nervous spells. All pains, aches, fears and dreads are gone, my house, children and husband are no longer neglected, as I am almost entirely free of the bad symptoms I had before taking your remedies, and all in pleasure and happiness in my home."

Mrs. JOSIE HAM, R. F. D. 1, Box 22, Shamrock, Missouri.
