MOTHER'S DOMINANCE GALLS GIRL

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: What can a grown girl do with her mother who thinks that she is still a toddler in rompers, who has to be held by the hand and told what to do and what not to do about every act in life? My mother is a fine woman and I love her very much, but the situation between us is becoming a very strained one because she still persists in treating me as if I were a baby and supervising my every movement.

She tells me what I shall eat, what I shall wear, where I shall go, what I shall do, whom I shall know, what I shall read, and as I am of a very independent nature this galls me beyond endurance. I don't mind doing the things she tells me to do, but I don't want to be told to do it. If you get what I mean. We have gotten to the point where we conflict continually. What can we do about it? M.M.

ANSWER: One of the mysteries of life is that so few mothers ever realize that their children ever grow up. They can look at a six-footer who weighs 200 lbs., who is even getting bald and who has achieved fame and fortune, and still thinks that he has to be told to come in out of the rain.

I once asked a mother, who was a dead ringer for yours, why she always put her daughter, who was a mature woman, through a questionnaire about everything she did when she knew it irritated the daughter so, and her reply was: "It is because I am a mother, and when you are one, you are so in the habit of thinking for your children and feeling that they are dependent upon you, and will do something wrong if you don't watch them, that you say 'do' and 'don't' to them before you realize it."

Half the girls in the world marry the first man who asks them just to get away from their mothers' dominance. True, they generally jump from the frying pan into the fire, for most husbands also feel that they have a right to tell their wives where they get off, but the wife has at least the pleasure of fighting back, and sometimes she wins out.

LAUGH IT OFF

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: What is the best attitude for a wife to adopt when her husband and his friends reminisce before her about their former girl friends and the good times they had before marriage?

ANSWER: Laugh it off, or counter with a few stories about your boy friends. When husbands tell about what evils they were among the ladies before they married, they are just trying to showoff before their wives and make them see what Clark Gables they got.

RESERVE TO DAWN

(Written after listening in to the broadcast of bells from Westminster on Sunday, Nov. 15, 1942)

Rampart on rampart the battle-mens fall Stone by stone the contours fade; The Axis castle and the wall Vanish and the winds are played.

Upon no longer by the roar of mighty guns and shells; Instead waiting from the shore The morning song of bells.

Trembles the air to tears Of joy unexpected-gaily! Every tone of laughter clears The woe from yesterday.

The bells of London, rejoicing Not only the news from Sahara, But triumphantly voicing The dawn of a golden era!

Egg Price Differentials Established

OTTAWA, Nov. 23-(CP)-Specific price differentials between grades of eggs are established by the Prices Board in an order issued today covering the period from Nov. 21, 1942.

By a previous order, effective Aug. 29, maximum wholesale price of grade "A" large eggs were set for irregular Canadian markets and these continued in force and the new order. They range from 47 cents a dozen on Prairie markets to 43 cents on Toronto, 39 at Montreal and 34-4 at Saint John, N.B., Halifax and Sydney, N. S.

Today's order specifies that the maximum wholesale price of grade "A" medium eggs is to be not less than two cents a dozen lower than the price for grade "A" large. The price for grade "A" pullets' eggs is set at not less than five cents less than grade "A" large; for grade "B" eggs not less than eight cents less and for grade "C" not less than 10 cents less than the grade "A" large level.

Other grades or sub-grades are to be sold at wholesale prices bearing proper relationship to those set out above.

A large of two cents a dozen above the maximum wholesale price for the particular grade may be added to the established prices when a dozen or more are contained in a dozen or half a dozen eggs.

The Board said that to his wholesale price of grade "A" large eggs, the mark-up he used in the basic price period from Sept. 15 to Oct. 11, 1942, but this must not exceed 20 per cent in any case, whichever is less.

Any seller of "quality premium" eggs is permitted to sell at the premium he obtained in the basic period, but this is not to exceed four cents a dozen above the price for grade "A" large.

During his illness he was frequently visited by his pastor who brought to him all those consoling rites which the Catholic Church bestows upon its devoted members.

There are left to mourn, besides a sorrowing widow, seven sons: Earl Lawrence, Elmer, Edmund, Edgar, Alfred and Walter, and two daughters, Bernice and Delma all at home.

Besides the family he also leaves his sorrowing father and his mother, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gallant, Plussville, three half-sisters, Mrs. Mrs. Charles Gallant and Philip Gallant all residing in Plussville and two half brothers Joseph and Richard of Moncton who attended the funeral.

The funeral took place Nov. 2 to St. Anthony's church, Bloomfield where Rev. Father High Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Rooney assisted by the Holy Name choir of which the deceased was a member.

The pall bearers were: John Jones, George Gallant, Emmanuel Gallant, Fred Arsenault, Jimmy T. Gallant and Charley Gallant. May his soul rest in peace.

MR. BENJAMIN L. MCWEEN

The community of West St. Peter and vicinity were shocked and much grieved at the news of the sudden death of Mr. Benjamin L. McEwen on the morning of October 11th. He retired to his room the evening before in his usual good health, after attending to his family work and chatting with his family. His wife retired early in the evening and he was awakened the next morning to find that he was cold in death. The cause of death was pneumonia and he passed away in his sleep, hours earlier.

Mr. McEwen was born on the 10th of August 1877, seven years ago when he resided the greater part of his life. He was a kind and obliging neighbor, always ready to lend a helping hand to anyone in need. He was a very industrious man and in all his years he never knew the taste of alcoholic liquor, anything he undertook he always tried to make a success of it. He was a master workman, which he followed for many years, and his advice in equipping a good work shop was sought after by men engaged in the starch business.

In the year 1899 he married Janie Coffin of Savage who was his first wife. They were blessed with three sons, Lloyd, Emery and Ray. Several grandchildren, and two great grandchildren, and their widowed mother are left to mourn a loving husband and very affectionate father.

In the year 1939 they celebrated the anniversary of their golden wedding, and many expressed the opinion as well as the wish, that they would live to celebrate their diamond wedding.

His brother, Hon. H. D. MacEwen, predeceased him two years ago, and now out of a family of eight only two survive, Caroline, Mrs. William Pigott of Victoria, B. C. and I. W. MacEwen, Mercant, Lot 40.

He never passed a practice year, but always made a practice every year to lay something for the rainy day. After providing for his family he retired about a year ago, and he had many years yet to enjoy the fruits of labour, but God willed otherwise, and on Sunday morning he quietly passed away. He was a very zealous Christian, always an adherent of the Presbyterian Church and died in that faith.

The hymn sung was held from Lot 40 church, was one of the largest ever seen in that locality. The church was crowded with sympathizers and friends.

The funeral services at the church and grave were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Bank, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Mercer.

The hymn sung was his favorite "The Love is My Shepherd". After the service the undertaker

Princess of Grazen

By Louis Arthur Cunningham, author of "Marionette," "Fog Over Fundy," "Of These Three Loves."

Driven from her kingdom somewhere in war-torn Europe, lovely Princess Meridel of Grazen, with her two young cousins, goes to Canada to seek the protection of their uncle, the Baron de Morpin. She insists that he continue the deception while she plays the rôle of his housekeeper at the château. By chance the princess has met Madame's nephew Michel before leaving Europe, and she continues to love him even when he appears as a Nazi soldier escaped from a Canadian prison. Disclosure that he has been working for the British Intelligence is followed by plans for their marriage.
