Needlecraft / —For The Home

The best dressed girls in the grammar school crowd are wearing jumpers. And your little daughter will walk away with the fashion honors if you make her this trim jumper with its amusing "ice cream cone" pockets. It has a smart raised waistline, too, that prevents the blouse from riding out. The useful blouse that's included in the pattern can be made with either long or short sleeves, and is an ideal complement for her other skirts and jumpers.

Style No. 3227 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Sibe 8 requires 1 1-4 yards 54-inch fabric for jumper; 1 1-8 yards 39-inch fabric for blouse.

Send twenty cents (20) coin preferred for pattern. Write plainly your Name, Address and style number. Be sure to state size you wish.

Touch Typing Aid in Business Life

jjjjffffkkkkddddllllssss;;;;aaaa
juj aqa kik sws lol ded ;p; frf

Simple Exercises Give Start

Typing by "hunt and peck" methods is a handicap in business. To type fast and accurately you need to learn the touch system.

You can start learning at home! A chart shows you where to put your fingers; exercises get you used to the keyboard.

The idea in touch typing is for each finger to have a "home key" from which it reaches to other keys. "Home keys" for left hand are a, s, d, f; for right—semi-colon, l, k, j.

In your first exercise you strike each "home key" sharply but lightly with the finger assigned: "jjjjffff" and so on, as shown in our sketch. Without shifting your fingers out of place you can type simple sentences like "all lads add."

Now each finger learns to reach for another key, as in our second exercise line. The "j" finger, for instance, types "juj" (the "u" key is just above the "j" key) returning always to its "home key."

Our 32-page booklet, with a keyboard chart, explains how to operate the typewriter, has exercises to teach keyboard, speed, English typewriting usage. Shows correct forms for socal, official and business letters; statistics can be used as an aid to a business college course

Send 20c in coins for your copy of "Teach Yourself Touch Typewriting" to The Guardian Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your Name, Address and the Name of booklet.

YOUR COMPLEXION SHOULD MATCH YOUR NEW WARDROBE

Now that you have your new clothes for work and play in the brisk seasons, how are you wearing them? The answer is: not well enough, unless your skin, too, is prepared for the fresh weather.

A girl whose skin is unusually oily ought to cleanse it with soap and water at least three times a day, use a greaseless foundation lotion, and pay more attention to her diet. Very often, cutting down on fatty foods will persuade the pores to secrete less oil.

Contrarywise, the excessively dry complexion should be washed only once every other day during the winter months. The girl with this kind of skin should clean her face several times a day with cream. She needs a foundation which creates a moist appearance, and night cream every night. And perhaps she needs more fatty foods in her meals.

Every woman who wants to look her best must find makeup to suit her skin sooner or later—and of course the sooner she does it, the better.

Curiosity about creams, face powders, rouges and lipsticks is worth cultivating, and the time you spend experimenting with new ones will be more than repaid by the time saved in making up with cosmetics which you're sure are for you.

Dorothy Dix Says—

WAYS OF MAN ARE MUCH LIKE HEATHEN OF FICTION

In Courtship They Want To Be The Pursuer They Admire Beauty, But Duck Dumb Women, Then Forget To Be Complimentary

Men are always complaining that women do not understand them. Small wonder at that, for a woman would have to be a trained psychologist, a mind-reader, a prophetess and to be possessed of occult powers of divination to even make a good guess at what makes men do the way they do. For instance: At no stage of life are men willing to be their age. When they are young, they want to be thought old and sophisticated, and when they are old they desire to be treated as mere lads. It is always a safe play to call an adolescent "Mister" and ask his opinion about the real meaning of life, but the way to make a hit with a bald-headed Grandpa is to chuck him under the chin and call him "Johnny Boy." Even the most astute men appear to bark their brains when they deal with women, and we daily behold mere girl babies selling gold bricks to men whom no other man could take in in a trade. Old millionares, tottering on the verge of the grave, many girls young enough to be their granddaughters in the fond belief that they are loved for themselves alone. The most cynical and suspicious of men think it is just childish artlessness that makes little gold-diggers roll their eyes at them and ask for diamond bracelets and streamlined cars.

BEAUTIFUL BUT DUMB

Any woman under 30 can get away with murder if she has a peaches-and-cream complexion and large blue eyes, provided she is tried by an all-man jury. Men whose business it is to pick out the personnel of big firms throw all of their knowledge of human nature and experience out of the window when they select their own mates. And men whose breasts are covered with medals for bravery are afraid of their own wives.

In courtship every man wants to be the pursuer instead of the pursued. He wants to think that he discovered the girl and did all of the wooing, and that it was only because of his technique as a great lover that he finally won her. But every woman knows that if she sat on the sidelines and waited for some man to come along and find her, she would end her days in the Spinsters Retreat.

She knows that long before the man she married saw her she had her eyes on him and that, while she pretended to flutter away from him like a frightened bird, she measured her distance and never got out of sight. There is nothing that men resent more than having a woman openly chase them, but they fall for it, and like it, when she does it under cover.

MEN SLAVES TO BEAUTY

Theoretically, men are slaves to beauty. The first thing they ever notice about a woman is her looks. Tell a man about a strange woman and he doesn't ask if she is clever, or accomplished, or an interesting conversationalist, or amusing. All he wants to know is whether she is pretty or not.

Yet when they come to marry they rarely throw the handkerchief to Miss America, as you can see if you will observe the wives in your circle. Maybe it is a man's guardian angel who steps in at the crucial moment and makes him see that a living picture doesn't fit into a kitchen, and that it is better to have a wife who will burn incense before him than one who will expect him to keep the punk sticks alight before her. Anyhow, it is a truism that the men who pay lip service to Venus generally marry plain Marias.

Men like for women to have brains, but to keep them hidden and only bring them out in times of emergency. No man can abide a woman who knows more than he does and who argues with him and corrects him, but he wants a woman to know enough to understand what he is saying and yes-yes him. A really smart woman never lets a man see how smart she is.

HE IS SELDOM COMPLIMENTARY

But it is in the domestic circle that the peculiarities of men are hardest for a woman to understand. A husband expects his wife to know that he still loves her and thinks she is the greatest woman in the world, *although he never mentions the state of his affections after the honey-*moon or pays her a compliment.

He expects her to do the work of half a dozen servants, yet because he gives her her board and clothes he considers that he supports her and expects her to be grateful to him. He thinks that, although he grows old and fat and paunchy, she should stay a perpetual Glamour Girl. He thinks that she should buy her clothes in the basement bargains, let look like a million dollars in them.

He thinks that she should be true and loyal to him, yet not be foolish enough to object to his philandering, and that when he gets tired of wandering she should forgive and forget his faithlessness and trust him as she did when they were married. He thinks that she should be blind to all his faults, but keep the spotlight turned on his virtues, and that no matter how he treats her she should love him still.

These things being true, is it any wonder that women don't understand men?

* * * * * *

PERIOD OF MOURNING

Dear Miss Dix—When a man's wife dies, leaving his home and his heart empty and him lonely, why should society decree that he should not take another companion to fill her place for a year after the time of her death? On what grounds can such a rule be defended? What sentimental devotion can justify it? I. M. LOANSUM.

ANSWER—None, except the generally held theory that if a man loved his wife he would not want to take on a new love before she was fairly cold in the grave and that if she had been a good wife to him he would want to make a gesture of respect to her memory.

It is merely a matter of sentiment and there is no reason a man shouldn't marry as soon as he desires to if he doesn't mind the comments of his friends and neighbors. DOROTHY DIX.

THE COOK'S CORNER

CHRISTMAS WREATHS

Cream 1 cup butter, add 2 cups sugar and blend well. Add the grated rind and juice of 1 lemon. Then add 3 beaten egg yolks and 3 stiffly-beaten egg whites and when well blended add enough flour to make a dough that can be kneaded. Roll into a very thin sheet. Cut into rings with doughnut cutter and decorate with finely-chopped green pistachios or angelica and a little finely-chopped candied cherry. Bake in a moderate oven, or at about 325 degrees.

RICH CHOCOLATE FUDGE

1 cup evaporated milk (or cereal cream)
2 cups fine white sugar
4 squares of unsweetened baking chocolate
Few grains of salt
1 tablespoon butter
1-2 teaspoon vanilla

Add sugar to milk, and stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Add chocolate which has been grated or broken in small pieces, stir until it melts, then bring mixture to boil without stirring. Boil hard without stirring until mixture reaches soft ball stage—240 degrees. Remove from heat; add butter and vanilla and beat until cool and thick. Pour rapidly into buttered tins, and allow to become quite cold. Cut in squares, and serve. Note—chopped pecans chopped blanched browned almonds, raisins or chopped glace cherries may be placed in bottom of pan before pouring fudge in.

CHERRY CAKE

One small cup white sugar, 1-4 lb. butter, 3 eggs, 2 cups flour, juice and rind 1-3 lemon, slightly rounded teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 cup or more candied cherries, cut in half.

Cream butter and sugar; drop each egg separately into creamed butter and sugar and beat after each addition. Add flour, baking powder, lemon juice and rind and cherries. Batter will be very stiff, so spread with knife in pan. Bake in slow oven for an hour.

If kept in covered tin, this cake keeps almost indefinitely.

CRANBERRY CRISSCROSS PIE
(Serves Eight)

One and three-quarters cups sugar, 3-4 cup water, 4 cups cranberries, 4 tablespoons quick tapioca, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 recipe pie crust, 2 egg whites, 4 tablespons sugar.

Boil sugar and water for 5 minutes. Add cranberries and boil, without stirring until skins break (about 5 minutes). Cool. Add tapioca, salt, and butter and let stand for 15 minutes. Line a 9-inch pie plate with about 1-2 of pastry, rolled 1-8 inch thick, allowing pastry to extend 1 inch beyond edge. Fold edge back to form standing rim. Fill with cranberry mixture. Moisten edge of pie with cold water and arrange lattice of pastry strips across top. Flute rim with fingers. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 15 minutes, then decrease heat to moderate (350 degrees F.) and bake 25 minutes longer.

Living & Leisure —The Woman's Realm

A King might miss the guiding star,
A wise man's foot might stumble,
For Bethlehem is very far
From all except the humble.
But he who goes to Bethlehem
Shall hear the oxen lowing,
And, if he humbly kneel with them,
May catch far trumpets blowing,
From far away, on Christmas Day,
May hear God's trumpets blowing.
