The troops which have been sent there have gone at the instance of the municipalities, the militia act providing for such steps automatically when assistance is called for.
The instructions are not to interfere with the strikers, but to order or damage to property develops.

Newsprint Likely to Go Up $5 to $10 Per Ton

(Special to The Guardian.)
MONTREAL, Aug. 18.—Whether the price of newsprint will be raised to $75 a ton, where contracts have expired, by the first of October for the final quarter of the year, or whether there will be a postponement of the advance until the first of next year, is the question of the moment in newsprint circles here, and on the street.
The reason behind the question is somewhat different, in the latter case investors or speculators in the "paper" stocks desiring of course, an immediate advance in order to stimulate prices, not being content with the fact that the paper stocks for some time past have been the most active in the market and have experienced the only consistent rise of any group for some time.
Summer business was stirred a little this week by the publication of an opinion by a New York financial paper to the following effect:
"The increase in the price of newsprint to $75 a ton by the International Paper Company, with an $80 figure in prospect at no very distant time is a very decided bullish development for the Canadian newsprint companies. While it will have no immediate effect, inasmuch as practically all the important Canadian mills, except Spanish and Abitibi, are running on a yearly contract basis at $70 a ton, the importance of this decision lies in the fact that the trend of paper prices is now definitely upward."

Agricultural Education And Canada's Opportunity

Subject of Address by Hon. Duncan Marshall, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Canada, at P.W.C. Hall Last Night.

The importance of agricultural education was the subject of very interesting and eloquent address by Hon. Duncan Marshall, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Canada, at Prince of Wales College Hall last evening. Mr. E. H. Beer presided and there were present many leading citizens, though the attendance on account of the wet weather was smaller than the importance of the subject deserved.

Never in the world's history has there been greater competition along agricultural lines and never before has such vast opportunities of leading the world's markets been presented to Canada than at the present time, declared Mr. Marshall. The agricultural development of Europe is progressing at a tremendous rate and if we in this country are to keep pace with it, it will only be by scientific and highly specialized production, which will only be possible through greater agricultural education of the boys and girls on our farms. Everything produced in this country should not only be a credit to the producers but an advertisement of Canadian farm products all over the world.

Not only is agricultural education necessary to improve the opportunities of the rising generation but it is absolutely necessary to fit the people of this country for the competition threatening in the immediate future. This education should be broad and comprehensive for while a farmer should have some one product he makes his hobby, it is not practicable to specialize too much. Agriculture is something that cannot be governed by the rule of thumb and in this country diversified farming is the only kind that can continue to be successful. In the West it has been found that failure very often attends a too intensive cultivation of wheat to the exclusion of other crops and in this part of Canada where there is plentiful supply of water and other facilities, the breeding of stock and the raising of poultry in co-operation with general farming has been attended with very encouraging success. There are none of the little side products that can be altogether neglected by the farmer of this province, and it is here than the benefits of wider general agricultural education should prove of very practicable assistance.

Mr. Marshall charged the newspapers of the great American cities with much of the responsibility of depicting the farms by ignoring or holding up to ridicule the rural life. It was aware that the press in this province has on the other hand the warmest sympathy for agricultural activities.
But the large city dailies and comic supplements have evidently not yet realized that the "Gosh all hemlock" type of rube farmer has no assistance outside of the imagination of our reporters and cartoonists. This style of propaganda has done more to lampoon boys off the farm in America than anything else and this has been going on for the last half century.

The speaker wished to appeal to the people living in the city as well as in the country to bring pressure to bear on all the governments of Canada to spend more money than they are spending for the purpose of bringing scientific training home to every boy and girl on every Canadian farm. He congratulated this province on the agricultural progress it has made in the past twenty-five years, comparing his impressions of the island a quarter of a century ago and his experiences on his present visit after making the 115 miles of the country, he could not but be struck with the improvement. He sees now better farms, more good live stock and greatly improved flocks and he believes the establishment of the Agricultural School in the province was an excellent step and one which should be backed by generous and enthusiastic support. The day should not be far distant when there would be anywhere from 500 to 1000 boys attending this institution.

heartedly engrossed. He wished he could inspire in the hearts and minds of the boys and girls of Canada some of the enthusiasm of these veteran breeders. He hoped for an ever increasing realization of the importance to Canada developing to the highest extent her field products, her dairy, industry, her poultry and her live stock, in the production of every marketable foodstuff in the land, until we have excelled every nation in the world.

The address of Mr. Marshall was warmly applauded and a vote of thanks, moved by Premier Bell, seconded by Mr. S. A. Macdonald and supported by Hon. W. M. Lea, was tendered him by the chairman.

Thirty Persons Miraculously Escaped Death

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 18.—Between twenty-five and thirty persons miraculously escaped death today when a Washab freight car standing on a switching track in front of the Ford Motor Company's plant, started and crashed into a Tecumseh interurban car. Approximately twenty-five persons, mostly women, suffered minor injuries, mostly from flying glass and bruises, as the big car was thrown over on its side. A 15-month old child, Martin Eggart, now in Hotel Dieu Hospital is the only one seriously hurt. Early reports said that this child may not recover.

Only that presence of mind of Motorman James Sullivan, a veteran with 27 years railway service by his credit, prevented the interurban car from being struck squarely in the centre. Motorman Sullivan, seeing the freight slowing moving in his direction threw his major into full speed ahead. Had the freight car hit the interurban squarely in the middle it is believed that the loss of life would have been heavy. As things worked out, the street car was struck near the rear and turned over.
