SOME MAINLAND VIEWS OF MARITIME UNION.

Many newspapers in Canada have discussed Maritime Union lately. The Toronto Globe rather neatly makes the point that as the three Provinces were one under the old French regime and known as Acadia, their coming together now would be a reunion. Also that the separation was mainly due to difficulties of transportation, and that had not Acadia been thus divided there would be no suggestion looking to dismemberment now. The Globe further recognises that the question of union is a domestic one for the three Provinces to determine, and that other parts of Canada have only a sentimental interest in it.

The St John Standard says the argument for union of the three Provinces on the ground of the general benefit is irresistible, but dips beneath the surface to show certain inevitable results, which it will not say are arguments against union. We quote:

"But it is useless to ignore the sacrifice of sectional advantage and of local patronage. Of the three capitals, two at least, and perhaps all three, would cease to be capitals. We should have only one-third of the number of governorships. Half the provincial ministers would disappear, and there would probably remain not more than half the number of seats in the Legislature. The Nova Scotia legislative council would go. The chances of appointment to the bench would be reduced by say thirty per cent. About half the departmental clerkships would be unnecessary. One normal school might be closed. Every saving in expense by consolidation would mean the loss of patronage and reduction of the chances to the office seeker."

BETTER CROP REPORTS FROM THE NORTHWEST.

The Winnipeg Telegram of August 16 contained an extended report of the crop conditions in the prairie Provinces. These reports are gathered from more than three hundred points and we are pleased to note are much more favorable than those which had been last received in the east in so far as at least as the damage by hail storms are concerned, while the best earlier news as to the large volume and good quality of the crop seem to be confirmed.

Two, hundred and seventy-one reports from different points in the grain-growing districts are tabulated. Of these 191 report no damage from any case, 51 report a slight damage ranging from 10 to 25 per cent and 13 report damage ranging from 10 to 25 per cent. Of reports on the yield per acre 113 report 22 bushels or over, 70 report 20 to 22 bushels, 48 report 18 to 20 bushels and 39 report under 18 bushels. The average yield is high when the large areas under grain crop are considered. It will be a good thing for the Northwest and for the Dominion, if the Telegram's forecast is realised by the harvest now in progress.

Tongues; great eloquence. Knowledge learning. Vanish; disappear, when their work is done. Nothing in part; Love lasts only partly understand God's mysteries. Prophecy in part, partly able to explain these mysteries. 10. That which is perfect; a complete knowledge of God. 11. Put away childish things. So, when we love God with all our hearts, we shall know Him perfectly, and shall no longer be like ignorant children. 12. A glass; a mirror. Ancient mirrors were of polished metal, and reflected objects dimly. So we know God dimly, as objects were seen indistinctly in those dim mirrors. Darkly; not clearly. Then face to face. Some day we shall see Jesus Himself, not the dim reflection of Him we see in those about us. Then; when we see Jesus in heaven. As also I am known; as Jesus knows me. 13. Abideth liveth in the hearts of all Christians; Faith, hope, charity; the three Christian graces. The greatest; because it goes deeper, reaches higher, and lasts longer than do the others.
