"DR. KILDARE GOES HOME" BEST IN SERIES AT PRINCE EDWARD

"Dr. Kildare Goes Home" moves the scientific thrills and funmakers of the Dr. Kildare series from the big city hospital to a country town in the latest of the Max Brand medical mystery pictures, now showing at the Prince Edward Theatre.

A small town goes broke. Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore start a clinic with the aid of John Shelton and others. The natives object to health measures that would close swimming holes and old wells. There are battles and wrangles amid which Ayres and Laraine Day plan to elope. Then Citizen Number One is infected by the swimming hole. The young doctors, after a desperate struggle, but save his life and the clinic rides to triumph. Treatment of a strange ailment, an emergency operation on an ironing board, hilarious comedy moments between Barrymore, internes and Alma Kruger, chief nurse, interlard the thrills and romance.

Ayres plays Dr. Kildare more seriously than in former stories, Barrymore barks orders and draws laughs and Shelton, a new discovery who "arrived" with Lana Turner in "We Who Are Young," handles his character skilfully. Gene Lockhart plays a neat character role as the gruff "mystery patient." Others in the cast are Samuel S. Hinds and Emma Dunn as Ayres' parents, Marie Blake, Nell Craig, Frank Orth, Horace McMahon and George Reed.

Included on the program is the latest News from the front and a special Canada Carries On Featurette entitled Wings of Youth.

"RIVER'S END" RUGGED TALE OF NORTH, AT CAPITOL

"River's End," the most action-jammed adventure story to ever come from the pen of James Oliver Curwood, made its local bow at the Capitol Theatre last night. America's greatest story-teller reached the peak of his career when he wrote "River's End" and Warner Bros., have brought the thrilling tale to glowing life on the screen.

Starring Dennis Morgan, George Tobias and Elizabeth Earl, the picture relates the story of River's End, Dodge City of the North . . . hide-out of murderers . . . where civilization ends and adventure begins. Handsome Sergeant Conniston, of the Mounties, is sent out to bring back John Keith, wanted for murder. The chase leads the Red-Coat beyond the furthest reaches of civilization along a trail two years long and a thousand miles wide. There, when the hunter and the hunted meet, the two discover the striking resemblance in their appearance, and the most gripping drama in the history of the Northwest Mounted begins. And at the end of the trail is the girl, fearfully awaiting the winner . . . wondering whether it will be her sweetheart or her brother.

Dennis Morgan is excelletn in his dual role as Sergeant Conniston and John Keith, and turns in a very virile, convincing performance all the way through. Elizabeth Earl, as the girl torn between love for her sweetheart and for her brother, proves that this lovely English actress is destined to be a great star. As the French-Canadian woodsman, George Tobias again comes through with one of those perfect characterizations he has made famous. Other capable performers in the cast include Victor Jory, James Stephenson and Steffi Duna.

Included on the program is the 14th thrilling chapter of Flash Gordon's Trip to Mars. Also a three Stooge Comedy entitled How High is Up.

U. S. Continues To Prepare For Pacific Crisis

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—(AP)—The United States Navy continued today to prepare for a possible emergency in the Pacific, but a slackening of diplomatic activity appeared to reflect diminished tension generally in administration quarters over the Far Eastern situation.

Navy Secretary Frank Knox announced after talks with high naval strategists during the week that the personnel of the fleet now in the Pacific would be reinforced immediately to raise it to full strength. He said 4,200 men would join the fleet at once and sail back to Hawaii with the warships now on the west coast undergoing repairs.

He said he did not concur in a published statement that the administration feared war with Japan in 15 days. "I don't think anybody knows," he added.

A number of officials showed lessened preoccupation with the Orient as a potential danger spot.

Responsible in some measure for this was Japans reaction to the British notice that the Burma Road would be reopened for supplies to China and also Japanese reaction to the State Department's advice to Americans in the Far East to consider coming home.

There was no apparent tendency in Japan to magnify the Burma Road decision as an incident likely to lead to immediate drastic reprisals.

At the same time the Tokyo Foreign Office spokesman, Yakichiro Suma, expressed surprise at the American move to get nationals out of the Far East.

Holds One Of Toughest Jobs In The Navy

(By Frank Flaherty, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA, Oct. 10—(CP) —"I think we are getting on top," remarked Vice-Admiral Alfred Evans today as he stood in a simple office and looked out over the swirling waters of the Ottawa River.

He spoke about the war and when he said "we" he meant the British Empire for his job is to harness some of Canada's unused industrial capacity to the support of the Royal Navy.

"I think Dunkerque was the turning point," he added. "Since we got that army out we have been coming up. The navy has always been on top. The airforce is getting there. The more stuff they get the quicker they will be there. The army is coming up and up."

Two months before the outbreak of war Admiral Evans went on the retired list. Had it not been for Hitler his day afloat would have been finished but the outbreak of war brought him back into the service and landed him in one of the toughest jobs navy men have to perform, Commodore in charge of convoys.

For months this 56-year-old man whose red hair shows no trace of grey sailed the seas aboard merchant ships, lived on the bridge for weeks at a time without taking his clothes off.

Must Stay on Bridge

While a convoy is at sea the Commodore must stay on the bridge. The longest stretch was a trip across the Atlantic to Quebec which lasted 16 days. The Commodore of a convoy travels on one of the merchant ships, usually one chosen because its bridge is suitable for signalling and offers some little accommodation for the naval officer on his sleepless vigil.

From his post the Commodore leads the group of merchant ships and keeps in communication with escorting warships. Several times Admiral Evans' convoy was attacked and on two occasions the attacking submarine was sunk.

Beyond admitting it was not very pleasant Admiral Evans had little comment on the time he was torpedoed. He had an escort of two French destroyers but they became separated from the convoy in a storm. The freighter on which he was travelling was hit and went to the bottom with eight firemen. All the others aboard, about 80, were saved.

Seven Set Plats Seven Set Plots

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—(CP)—Who says women's hats are crazy? Eve Tarter analytical hat designer, has figured that just as there are only seven basic story plots, so there are only seven basic plots for hats. The most talented designer in the world can do more than play variations on the seven themes, she contends. The seven are corn, toque, turban, beret, pillbox, brim and calot.

One NewYork designer shows a true tricorn in a black diamond velour. It depends for variety on grosgrain banding and a new-looking masque veil attached to the hat.

A variation of the toque is a sheared beaver. It has characteristic toque dip over the forehead, but takes on calot traits with a jersey back-of-the-head cap. A towering toque effect is echieved with a feather.

On one turban the designer piles the drapery high, toque fashion, and, as a revolutionary touch, he makes it cover one ear, reveal the other. It is in absinth green jersey.

WHIMSICAL? WELL NOW— —

A beret is shown pulled into every sort of shape by whimsical hat desingers. The model is a black felt beret, pulled sidewise with a red velvet band, and fastened so with a gold clip.

The Pillbox often appears unadorned, in classic form, but may take on new glamor with a tiny braid-trimmed brim, a cluster of mink tails swooping down from the crown.

Then there's the hat with brim—but what a brim. One designer says it's both, and typical of this season's pompadour hats. It combines a baby cap calot with the traditional black Persian lamb Cossack hat (a version of the toque).

The Horse, The Plough And The Horse Shoe

Most men may admire machinery, but they love a horse. This thought may occur to visitors at the forth-coming international ploughing match which will be held at St. Thomas, Ont., under the auspices of the Ontario Ploughmen's Association on October 15 to 18 inclusive. The meeting will be truly representative of modern agriculture as heretofore, and it will be noted that, although more than $600,000 worth of the latest types of agricultural and domestic time-saving machinery will be shown, the ancient arts connected with the horse and the plough have their own important place. There are the ploughing matches, two horse shows with over 700 fine animals on exhibit, and there are the horse shoeing and horse shoe making competitions.

The horse is still an important factor on the farm. The onrush of a mechanical age has not relegted him to obscurity, nor has it stilled the brawny arm of the farrier-smith, as will be seen when horse shoes are forged and fitted within a time limit of 55 minutes on the third day of the horse shoeing competitions which will be held on October 16th, 17th and 18th. From the day the first horse was imported into Canada on June 20, 1647, at Tadoussac, Quebec, horse shoeing has been a Canadian specialty, and no country in the world has supplied more famous horse shoers and harness-horse champion racers than Canada in proportion to population. In short, the Canadian horsemen always has had in mind the fifteen points of a good horse laid down by Wynkyn de Worde, the second great printer and assistant to Caxton, in 1496.

De Worde wrote: a good horse sholde have three propyrtees of a man, three of a woman, three of a foxe, three of a haare, and three of an asse. Of a man, holds, prowde, and hardye; of a woman, fayre-breasted, faire of heere, and easy to move; of a foxe, a fair taylle, short eers, with a good trotte; of a haare, a grate eye, a dry head, and well rennynge; of an asse, a bigge chynn, a flat legge, and a good hoof."

JOHN D. MacPHEE

It is with deep regret the Guardian chronicles the unexpected death of John D. MacPhee, a respected farmer of Souris Line Road.

On Monday, Sept. 23, he had been assisting at some repair work on St. Mary's Church in Souris. On Tuesday he did not feel well and a doctor was summoned, who informed his family that he had not long to live.

Fortified by the last rites of his church administered by his pastor Rev. D. P. Croken, he passed away on Thursday morning, and his death coming so suddenly, was a distinct shock, not only to his family, but to the whole neighborhood. How true it is "That in the midst of life we are in death."

The late Mr. MacPhee was a devoted member of St. Mary's Church, and it seemed fitting that his last day's work was performed on that church where he had worshipped all his life. He was noted for his honesty and sobriety, and in his kindess of heart, he could never refuse help to the needy or unfortunate.

His home was always open to the wayfarer, who was sure of a hearty welcome. He took an active interest in the political and educational affairs of the community and his word was as good as his bond. He always had a pleasant word and a joke for all, even the young people, with whom he was a general favorite.

The sympathy of the community goes out to his bereaved widow, formerly Mary A. McKenna, of Kelly's Cross, and son Charles Jr., so suddenly bereft of a kind husband and father.

Besides the above mentioned there are left to mourn three sisters, viz: Mrs. Teresa MacDonald, South Lake, (Anna) Mrs. Leslie in Saskatchewan, and (Minnie) Mrs. Chamberlain, Boston. One sister (Jane) Mrs. George Leslie of Souris Line Road, predeceased him some years ago. There are also a number of nieces and nephews.

His earthly labors are ended, and may be now reap the reward which the Lord has promised to the good and faithful servant.

His funeral, which was attended by a large concourse of sorrowing friends and neighbors, took place on Saturday to St. Mary's Church Souris, where Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. D. P. Corken, while the funeral rites were performed by the curate, Rev. William MacDonald.

The remains were laid to rect in the adjoining cemetery there to await a glorious, resurrection.

His pallbearers were his immediate neighbors: Andrew McInnis, Michael McInnis, Malinus MacLean, Joseph MacDonald, Donald Whitty and Peter Gillis.
