ROUMANIAN ARMY RETIRES IN SAFETY

Extricated Themselves from Perilous Position After Destroying a Million Hundredweights of Grain. In Dobrudja Roumanians Have Checked Germans Who Crossed Danube.

(Special to the Guardian) LONDON, Nov. 26.—Roumanian troops operating on the Eastern left of their line in Wallachia have extricated themselves, after destroying a million hundred weights of cereals, according to a wireless despatch from Petrograd.

GERMANS CHECKED. (Special to the Guardian.) BUCHAREST, Nov. 26.—The war office announces that the advance of German troops which crossed the Danube river has been arrested. The crossing of the Danube was effected at Islaz near the mouth of the river Alt, as well as at Selnitz.

ROUMANIAN ARMY. (Special to the Guardian) PETROGRAD, Nov. 26.—The war office announces that the Germans have made a crossing of the Danube near Zimnitsa, seventy miles southwest of Bucharest. The Roumanians have been pushed back toward the south of the Altman Chu on the river Alt, south of Rothenthum pass and of Maldaracht twenty miles west of Alt.

"THE RESERVES OF THE ALMIGHTY"

Brilliant Sermon Preached in St. James' Church Last Night. First of Series of War Sermons.

Last evening in St. James' Church, to a large congregation, Rev. Dr. Fullerton preached the first of a series of War Sermons, his subject being "The Reserves of the Almighty." He took his text from the 6th chapter of the second book of Kings: "And Elisha prayed and said, Lord I pray thee open his eyes that he may see." The preacher in opening dealt with the public proclamation in Britain issued recently calling on the people to join in daily prayer in behalf of the soldiers and sailors. A nation at war is an imposing spectacle, but a nation at prayer is vastly more interesting. It is a call to the citizens to see the spiritual forces lying behind all external movements. This was the case in Israel. When the King of Syria realized that his chief opponent was in God's representative, Elishah, he believed that his capture would be the turning point in the campaign and would issue in complete victory. For this reason he invested the hill Bashan where the prophet was with his servant. When morning broke on the hill the servant, and looking down saw the gleam and glitter of spears and swords in the rift of the lifting west. Only that and nothing more. His vision was limited to the foreground, hence the bitter cry "Alas! my master, what shall we do?" This was the appeal of the earthly to the heavenly Almighty, and the master's answer was an assurance of the overwhelming reserves of the Almighty. The prophet was in the background, and with the instinct of a true man he prayed that the same vision might be given to his trembling servant. This should be the prayer of our Empire today. There is more in God's universe than earth and sea and sky; more in this great conflict than men and weapons of war. There is the call of God; there is the presence of the Infinite. The truest classification in religion is that of men who have the vision and men who have not. It is by its vision that a nation as well as any individual lives, and by its fidelity to its loftiest and noblest vision a nation alone can endure. Once let it fill its gaze with the splendour of material resources, then will begin the story of its decline and fall. Let us have dimness of moral vision and blindness of our high duties and holy responsibilities and the health, stability and progress of our race must cease. More than two years have elapsed since this unparalleled storm broke out on Europe, and its violence is even now reaching its climax, as from which nations are being tested as to their fitness to survive. Without minimizing our national faults, we may claim we have increasingly felt that we are fighting in the strength of and inspiration of a noble and lofty vision. This has sustained us in our most terrible and terrifying hours. This has given conviction and fervency to our prayers for victory and (Canadian Press Despatch.) LONDON, Nov. 26.—The Teutons are making vigorous efforts to make their winter quarters nearest Bucharest, or probably reach the Roumanian capital itself before winter sets in. Mackensen tried to make a drive to the city from the south, but he stopped between Hirsova and the upper Danube, apparently because Falkenhayn had been unable to get through the Transylvanian pass in the north.

There has been little change in the situation in Transylvania. The Roumanians have retired slightly on both banks of the Oltetz River. They have taken another strong offensive in Gelengic, Bazaralia, Ester, Parazulmie and Tachaul fifteen miles north of the Tchernavoda, Constanza railway. The Russians are also advancing in this region, and have reached the district of Lake Tachaul and crossed the Kartal river at several points.

The Germans claim they crossed the Danube for the Zammutsa and that advance in Wallachia has taken them to the Alt River.

SHOOTING AFFRAY IN CAPE BRETON

(Canadian Press Despatch.) SYDNEY, N. S., Nov. 25.—In a fracas in a shack at No. 12 Colliery, New Waterford, between 10 Italian named Paul was shot and wounded in the leg by a compatriot named Primo Tonatello.

It seems that Tonatello was attacked by an injured man, who slashed out with a knife. Tonatello fired into the air several times hoping to scare his assailant, but in the end was forced to shoot his assailant through the leg.

VILLA REPULSED AT CHIHUBAHUA

JAUREZ, Mexico, Nov. 25.—Francisco Villa renewed his attacks on Chihuahua city today and was again repulsed and his forces driven from their positions outside the city. It was announced at military headquarters here today. The fighting was for the possession of the first and second line of government trenches. It was announced officially, and resulted in a victory for the de facto forces.

ROUMANIAN SITUATION STILL A MYSTERY

(Canadian Press Despatch.) LONDON, Nov. 26.—(By Arthur S. Draper)—The situation in Roumania is still veiled in mystery, with the fate of King Ferdinand's troops at Orsova still in the balance. But from Berlin comes this very significant announcement. "On the eastern border of Transylvania the Russians have been reinforced."

This statement may explain the confidence in high circles here despite the serious situation created by the German occupation of Craiova and the swift advance that cut off the Roumanians on the west. For Roumania, in the hasty withdrawal in Western Wallachia, may be pursuing the same tactics that studied the Austrians in their retreat last summer before the Roumanian invaders of Transylvania.

CONFLICTING REPORTS FROM BALKAN FRONT

Berlin Reports Bucharest Likely to Fall into Hands of Central Allies. Successes Claimed Elsewhere by Both Sides. Comparative Calm on West.

(Special to the Guardian)

LONDON, November 26.—With the armies of the Teutonic Allies advancing towards both fronts, west and southwest, Bucharest, the capital of Roumania apparently is in peril. Field Marshal Von Mackensen's troops have crossed the Danube from Bulgarian territory to Zemitz and are in touch near Alexandria, forty-seven miles southwest of Bucharest, with the forces of General Von Falkenhayn's army from Craiova. An advance of the Teutons on the Wallachian Plains east of the Alt River, the Roumanians are in flight burning towns behind them, says Berlin. To the north on the heights of Curteanu Bearages, in the region of Dragoslavele, northeast of Campulung, in western Moldavia, near Oltuz the Roumanians are offering strong resistance.

To the southward, the advance of the Teutons on all the sectors, and all attempts by the Austro-Germans to advance have been held back by Roumanians. As yet there has been no indications of the arrival of Russian reinforcements to aid the Roumanians on the Wallachian Plains but Russian and Roumanian troops in Dobrudja are active, possibly in an endeavour to push back the invaders to the Tchernavoda Constanza railway line.

Sofia reports that this reinforced army intended a general attack along the entire front but has been compelled to confine itself to partial attacks in the Macedonian theatre. Bad weather prevails and there has been no infantry action except on the left wing of the Entente allied lines where the Italians have made further progress toward Tarnova, near Monastir and Presha Lake road according to Paris. This statement as regards gain is contradicted by the Sofia war office which says an Italian attack here was repulsed and that the attackers lost a large quantity of war material.

TWO KILLED AND OVER A SCORE INJURED

(Canadian Press Despatch.) KANSAS, City Mo., Nov. 24.—Two men were killed and more than a score of persons injured, many of them it was stated, dangerously, last night, when a passenger train south-bound on the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad collided head-on with a Rock Island freight train in the suburbs east of Kansas City. The men killed were Joseph Harris and J. W. Ambrose, engineer and fireman of the "Frisco" engine. Both lived in Springfield, Mo.

PROPOSED EMBARGO ON U.S. FOODSTUFFS IS A GERMAN MOVE

(Canadian Press Despatch.) NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Most of the prominent New York newspapers have taken a strong position editorially against the proposed embargo on the exportation of foodstuffs on the ground that the measure was an obvious political move. "The New York World is most outspoken in this matter. "Defeated in all its other plans," the World declares, "the German propaganda still adheres to the embargo. When strikes and terrorism managed by German agents failed the movement became political and economic. The re-election of President Wilson leaves nothing to the German agitators but the forlorn hope that Congress will forbid the export of foodstuffs. Members of Congress who may innocently have fallen into the trap should be warned not only by our obligation as neutrals but by the experience of our own American predecessors in 1897-1905. The World predicts that the stoppage of exports would cause a slump that would paralyze industry and enterprise from coast to coast in the United States. The injury inflicted upon our selves would be infinitely greater than the injury suffered by Great Britain and France."

TWILIGHT RECITAL

That the Twilight Organ Recitals are growing in favor was again evidenced on Saturday when the fourth of the series held in St. Peter's Cathedral attracted a gathering which almost completely filled the church. Mr. L. W. Watson in his interpretation of the works of the world's greatest composers, such as Mozart, Handel, Gounod, and others, showed wonderful technique and proved himself a master of the keys. Needless to say, everyone was delighted. Prof. Vinnicombe in his violin number, Ave Maria, with organ accompaniment, proved that he has lost none of his genius in that line, the selection being decidedly well rendered. The programme was as follows: Organist, Mr. L. W. Watson. A. Kyrie (12th Mass)—Mozart. B. Shepherd's Song—Wilson. C. Angels ever bright and fair—Handel. D. Nazereth—Gounod. E. Offertory—St. Saens. G. La Serenata—Braga. Violin Solo—Mr. Vinnicombe. Ave Maria—Bach-Gounod. A. March from the Martyrdom of St. Polycarp—Sir Fred A. Ousley. B. Song of the Magi—Ashford. C. I know that my Redeemer liveth—Handel. D. Ave Maria—Kahn. E. Oh rest in the Lord—Mendelssohn. F. The Home Song (Transcription) (For the War). G. Russian National Hymn—Lwoff. Hymn des Marsellais—DeLisle. Recessional (Kipling)—DeKoven. A Song of Canada—Semen. The Island Hymn—God Save the King. (Excerpt)—New Wedding March—Horace Hill, M. B.

WHO WERE THE CONSIGNEES FOR LINDSEY'S BIG NICKLE ORDERS?

OTTAWA, November 24.—Hon. Arthur Meighen this afternoon was shown the statement by G. G. S. Lindsey, K. C., in which Mr. Lindsey said that the inquiry which he made for supplies of nickel for private Russian trade and not in behalf of the Russian government. Mr. Meighen observed that Mr. Lindsey appeared to be getting deeper in and to be taking Hartley Dewart with him. The solicitor-general referred to Mr. Dewart's statement regarding the nickel exports recorded in the Toronto Globe of November 20th. Mr. Dewart was there quoted as stating in March, 1915, G. G. S. Lindsey was asked by a representative of the Russian government where he could get quotations for nickel for shipment to Russia. Mr. Lindsey was in New York at the time and wrote the International Nickel company. It is assumed here naturally that Mr. Dewart secured his information from Mr. Lindsey himself, but his statement of Mr. Lindsey's position is in somewhat startling conflict with Mr. Lindsey's more recent version. Mr. Lindsey's request for quotations on thousand ton lots appears to be in itself an extraordinary thing. It would mean a million dollars' worth of nickel in each lot, and practically the whole of the statement regarding the nickel exports recorded in the Toronto Globe of November 20th. Under these circumstances it would be of interest to know who were to have been the consignees of Mr. Lindsey's thousand ton lots. So far as Ottawa is concerned, it is very much up to Mr. Lindsey.

GERMAN DESTROYERS RAID ENGLISH COAST

Six Destroyers Participated Firing a Dozen Rounds. One Small Vessel Hit but Only Slightly Damaged. No One Hurt. Berlin's Lurid Account of the "Victory."

(Special to the Guardian.) LONDON, Nov. 26.—A raid by German torpedo boats on the English coast, which took place on Thursday night, was announced officially on Saturday. The raid was ineffective, according to the statement which declares that the six destroyers participating in it steamed away quickly after firing a dozen rounds, one shell striking a small vessel but causing little damage and no injury to the crew. Apparently the raid is operating in the vicinity of Ramsgate on the coast about fifteen miles north of Dover. The announcement reads: "Six German destroyers during the night of Thursday attempted to approach the north end of the Downs but were seen by a patrol vessel. The enemy fired a dozen rounds and made off at once. One shell hit a drifter with out injury to any of the crew, another only damaging her upper works. No shell fell anywhere near the open town of Ramsgate. Following is German version: Berlin. The fortified town of Ramsgate on the British coast was bombarded by German naval vessels on Thursday night and Friday morning. An official statement issued on Saturday. The German craft sank the only hostile vessel, a British patrol ship, which they encountered. The Germans are returning safely to their base.

ANOTHER PROOF OF GERMAN PERFDY

LONDON, November 24.—The British steamship Rappanahonock, long overdue at London, from Halifax, has been given up for lost, according to an official statement issued here today. The following official statement was issued here today: "The Furness-Withy liner Rappanahonock left Halifax for England on October 17. Nothing has been heard of her since. A Berlin announcement of November 8th stated that the ship had been sunk. "Unless any of the officers and crew, who numbered thirty-seven were taken on board a submarine or transferred to another vessel—net her of which courses was followed, as far as known—there is no longer any hope for their safety. If the crew were forced to take to their boats it is clear that it must have occurred so far from land or in such weather conditions that there is no probability of their reaching shore."
