CHARLOTTETOWN GUARDIAN

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 29th 1905.

IS THE SMELT INDUSTRY IN DANGER?

A valued correspondent who is also a shipper of fish, asks The Guardian to present this question to the fishery authorities and the public. He points out that the license to take smelts is given from November 1 to February 15 and this is practically the only time that the fish can be used, as they must be shipped fresh. But the fish are at this time full of spawn which does not mature till spring and smelts are said to spawn but once a year.

The result of the fishery as now carried on is to destroy myriads of the mother fish, as it is the large spawn fish which are most easily caught and which are most sought after by the fishermen as they bring the best price. Our correspondent argues that this must tend ultimately to destroy the smelt industry, unless the Government shall restrict the fishing, or provide some means of replacing the large amount of spawn destroyed.

This argument is enforced by a reference to the time when smelts were so plentiful that they were used by our Island farmers for manure. Their present diminished numbers are held to indicate the approach of the time when the smelt fishery may be rendered unprofitable or wholly destroyed. What has happened in mackerel, cod and lobster fishing around our Island shores we all know and the measures taken by the Government to replenish the salmon, trout and lobster fisheries by means of hatcheries are held to indicate the need of like measures for the preservation of the smelt industry.

The matter is an interesting one and also well worthy of consideration by those who have the superintendence and regulation of the fisheries in charge.

A STATE FUNERAL.

It seems a rather ungrateful task on the part of The Examiner to object to a state funeral for Hon. Raymond Prefontaine. The deceased Minister had taken a deep and sympathetic interest in our winter steam service and we believe was doing his utmost to secure a better service for us. We think therefore that objection—if objection there must be—to any honor proposed to be done to him after his death would come with rather scanty grace from an Island newspaper. Apart from this the circumstances of Mr. Prefontaine's death were quite extraordinary.

He died far from home, while engaged in the service of Canada. The British Government think it worth while to send a battleship to bring his remains home. France, a foreign nation, though racially connected with us, honors him with a military funeral. The question arises naturally whether it would be fitting for Canada to take no official cognisance of his demise under the circumstances. Shall we leave it entirely to Britain and France to honor a deceased Canadian statesman who died abroad while engaged in the service of the Dominion? Furthermore we owe something to the feelings and susceptibilities of the French Canadian people who make up nearly one third of our population. Mr. Profontaine stood high in their regard and we fear The Examiner's objections will not make pleasant reading for them.

It is eminently right and proper that a section of country traversed by a railway should have a mail service by train. But while the Post Office and Railway Departments are unable to harmonise their differences the mail service must be carried on independent of the railway. It cannot be permitted to stop. When the transfer of the mails to the trains on the Murray Harbor road is made the question of the hour for the mail train to leave Charlottetown, whether in the morning or afternoon, will be a vital one, as will also be the question of how the post offices on both sides and at a distance from the railway are to be served. These are points upon which The Patriot does not throw much light.

We are glad to note the more independent tone of The Patriot which is now discussing the faults and failures of the public service, the hitches, delays and disputes between departments with something of the freedom which it so hotly condemned The Guardian for exercising in past years. We hope this new-found independence of the Liberal organ may prove to be not merely spasmodic and temporary, but permanent.

The partial thaw has at least made the heavy roads light.

Smelting is slack. There is no ice to prosecute netting profitably.

There are evidence of tanglefoot in the streets. And these shouldn't be.

The Christmas Tree in aid of the Anglican church was a good success. $95.00 was realized.

Mrs. Robert McLean of the Eureka still continues to be confined to her bed by an incurable disease. Her many friends extend her every sympathy and assistance.

John P. McAlduff is looking after the pitches in our main thoroughfare admirably early and late. Shovel in hand he makes the crooked ways straight and merits the wayfarer's blessing.

The mails are very mixed up and uncertain these times, and the packages from abroad seem to have had rough handling. This is hardly to be expected till we get to the Capes and the ice boats.

Oswald Reid, C. E., of this town, recently engaged with his cousin Reid McManus, C. E., of Memramcook on railway construction at Bedford, near Halifax, is home for Christmas.

The public are clamoring, and certainly not without cause, at the slowness which characterizes the plumbing of the new station here. The lavatories are not yet fitted up although the station is occupied a whole year. The work is planned for the estimate passed and still nothing done. Anyone can see the outrage this is on the travelling public, especially the female portion of it. Let the authorities end this enormity at once.

The funeral of Joseph Kinch, Alma, took place to Sacred Heart Church, Alberton, on Thursday, 21st, and was largely attended. Rev. Father Gauthier officiated at the church and grave. The deceased was a well known and universally respected resident of Alma for many years. He was 65 years of age and leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter to mourn his loss.

The Fish and Game Association meeting addressed by their Secretary Mr. Carbonell, was largely attended at Alberton on Friday night; and although some were disposed to opposition, still before the close all was in perfect accord. Rev. Father Burke occupied the chair, and had much to do with the success of the meeting. Cascumpec is perhaps the greatest sporting centre of the province and it was not surprising that many and closely critical canvasses of the aims and objects proposed were made. Mr. Carbonell vindicated the existence of the F. and G. A. on two grounds; the depletion which poaching caused and the revenues we might expect from increased tourist trade. He might have added a stronger one still—the desire which should fill every patriotic breast to see our woods and streams as full of the natural life as they were when we came on the scene; and the pleasure the presence of those creatures add to life in general. At the close the objects of the Association were approved by a formal unanimous vote, and the thanks of the meeting conveyed to the lecturer. Stipendiary Tweedy, F. L. Rogers, Benj. Rogers, J. E. Birch, Rev. Mr. Wightman and Edward Hunter spoke to these motions. Mr. Carbonell made suitable reply and moved a vote of thanks to the chair. Quite a number enrolled.

NERVOUSNESS, A CALAMITY.

Many who don't realize what lies beyond, treat an attack of the "nerves" with indifference. Others consider it will soon pass away. But in every case nervousness is a calamity. Only one remedy will cure—Ferrozone—a nerve strengthener that acts through the blood. First it gives you appetite—you eat plenty. This fills the blood with nourishment for the inner nerve cells. Energy and strength is instilled into every part of the system. You get well—keep well—nervousness forever departs, because you've used Ferrozone. Price 50c. per box of fifty tablets at all dealers.
