EVERY WINTER FOR 20 YEARS

writes Mr. I. Whitesmith, of Manilla, Ont., "I suffered agonies with chapped and cracked hands. My thumbs were so badly cracked that they actually never healed up from one winter to the next. As I am a watchmaker, I found it very awkward to do fine work with my hands in such a state. "Of course, I tried remedy after remedy, but nothing was capable of effecting a permanent cure until I used Zam-Buk. This wonderful ointment, in conjunction with Zam-Buk Soap, cured me completely and permanently—even to the healing of the cracks in my thumbs—cracks of twenty years' standing!"

THE PROMOTER'S WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

A HONEYMOON SPENT AT ATLANTIC CITY CHAPTER VIII.

For one glorious, happy week we were at Atlantic City. I never had even seen the ocean before, and at first I was like a child with a new toy. I recall, the first time we walked on the sand, I ran and dipped my hands in the water, wetting my feet and the bottom of my skirt in my enthusiasm.

The board walk, with its crowds of beautifully gowned women and handsome well-groomed men fascinated me. The quaint shops with their gay windows beguiled me often to spend so long a time gazing, that Neil would pull me away laughingly, and say:

"You can look in shop windows all you want in New York while I am at the office. Come and talk to me now."

Occasionally we took a chair and spent an hour being rolled up and down by a grinning dandy. "Playing we were millionaires," Neil called it. But mostly we walked arm in arm, talking of the future, our home together, and of our love for each other which nothing ever could possibly change.

We were staying at one of the large hotels, and living on the American plan. I had asked no questions as to the price. I really did not think

One More Added To The Great Army

Who Are Shouting the Praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills

Saskatchewan Man's Kidney Trouble Developed into Diabetes—Story of His Complete Cure.

Strong, Pine, Sask. Feb. 3.—(Special)—Sore back, which developed into diabetes, had made life a burden to Maxim F. Capusten, a farmer of this place. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him, and he is added to that great army of Canadians who glory in telling their neighbors that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the one sure remedy for all kidney ills.

"For nearly five years I suffered from sore back and headache," Mr. Capusten says, in giving his experience. I had a bad taste in my mouth in the mornings, and I was always tired. My muscles would cramp, and I was nervous, and the least exertion would make me perspire freely. At last diabetes developed.

"I finally came to the conclusion that my kidneys were the cause of my trouble, and decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I got half a dozen boxes, and before I had finished taking them I was completely cured.

"I advise anyone suffering as I did to use Dodd's Kidney Pills." All Mr. Capusten's troubles came from diseased kidneys. They speedily ceased when he commenced to use the one sure help for diseased kidneys—Dodd's Kidney Pills.

of it. So, blissfully happy, without a car in the world, the week of my honeymoon sped all too swiftly by. Yet I was in a fever of impatience to see the "big town," as Neil always spoke of New York. It was to be my home. I never had been there, but had read and heard so much of it that I was keen to get there.

Neil laughed at me. Yet he looked a bit anxious also.

"You'll be mighty lonely for a while, I am afraid. We shall not be able to live in a part of town where I am at all acquainted, and New York people aren't quick to take up strangers."

"Why can't we live somewhere near your friends?"

"Because I don't earn enough to pay the rent of an apartment in the locality where they live."

"You mean they earn more than you do?" It didn't seem possible. I suppose he of course referred to real young people. I knew there were many wealthy men in the world, but supposed them quite old before they amassed a fortune.

"Thousands more!" he returned, again laughing at me.

I said no more about money until the day we left Atlantic City. Neil had asked to have the bill sent up to the room. When it came he had gone out for something and I looked at it. At first I was tempted to call the boy back and tell him he had made a mistake. But I was still timid with the pert pages who swarmed about the big hotel, so laid it on the bureau until Neil came up.

"Did that bill come up? We haven't much time," he said, and looked at his watch.

"Yes, but it isn't right. It must be long to someone."

"Bother! we will miss our train if we are delayed very long." He picked up the bill and quickly ran it over.

"Why this is all O. K., Bah. What made you think it wasn't?"

"You don't mean that it has cost us over a hundred dollars for just a room and what we have eaten?" I gasped.

"Yes dear, and we got off mighty cheap at that. I'll run down and pay it. Then we'll hustle for the train."

"One hundred dollars for one week, and he didn't seem to think anything of it," I said aloud. I had no idea that a knowledge of prices brings a sort of carelessness in its train. That men and women accustomed to patronize high-priced hotels and restaurants, either have plenty of money, or when they take an occasional "spree" as Neil called it, they often had to economize for some time to make it up.

It was nice to be so careless of the cost. I had loved every bit of unaccustomed luxury. Once or twice I had felt that my clothes weren't quite fitted for such a wonderful place.

Neil and I had kept so to ourselves however, not sitting about the bill, luxurious rooms of the hotel, but as soon as we finished eating, finding our way to the beach, or the broad walk.

That it was not as obvious to me as it otherwise might have been. Yet even so I had thought that later, when Neil had another raise. I must have some different clothes. More stylish and of handsomer material.

I had never heard that the "clothes- rack" was the one on which many marriages had split.

To-morrow—Hunting an Apartment in New York.
