JUST WHERE YOU ARE
Don't waste your time in longing
For bright, impossible things:
Don't sit idly yearning

Don't spurn to be a rushlight;
Because you are not a star;
But brighten some bit of darkness By shining just where you are.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Full-Time Job For Wife

Woman's Job a Hard One If She's To Keep Home Together

DEAR MISS DIX: Recently you wrote an article saying that married partners must share burdens. Needless to say, my husband made quite a fuss over it, he was so pleased. But what about me? He puts in a 40-hour 5-day week. My job as a wife requires working seven days a week, with no holidays, vacations, or time off.

ANSWER: Since the Creator did not see fit to equalize the lots of men and women, there is nothing that we poor females can do, about it except regret that we do not belong to the privileged sex that does not have to bear the babies, wash the dummies, take care of the toddlers and cook the food. I agree with you that there is no justice in a man having a 40-hour 5-day week while his wife has a 98-hour 7-day week job, with no holidays, no vacation, not even the privilege of going on a sit-down strike, but what are you going to do about it?

NO REST FOR MOTHERS
There is the home that has to be kept neat and tidy. There is the family clamoring for food three times a day. There is the baby that must be nursed. There are the clothes that must be washed. There is the million and one little chores that have to be done, and there is nobody to do it except Mom.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My wife and I have been married for 22 years and no two people could have been happier together than we have been. There was never a quarrel between us or an unpleasantness until about 10 years ago when she suddenly changed. From being pleasant to get along with she began to nag and find fault and to seem to be angry all the time. Nothing anyone does pleases her, and she is very abusive to me. She appears to be in good health, and when we try to find out why she is so changed she refuses to answer.

ANSWER: Evidently your wife has had some mental lapse, and you should put her at once in the care of some good doctor. Don't delay, for the longer you wait, the more difficult it will be to help her.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a 19-year-old veteran and going to school to learn a trade. The girl I am going with is 18 years old and she has decided she wants to get married, but I think we ought to wait for a while until I can get on my feet. I cannot seem to be able to put it into her head that we are too young to marry. This does not mean that I don't love her, because she was in my heart all during the time I was in the army.

ANSWER: No surgeon has developed a way of opening a 18-year-old girl's head and putting some common sense into it; so the situation by using all of your intelligence and strength of character by refusing to let her over-persuade you into doing something that will wreck both of your lives.

Ellen's Diary

By an Island Farmer's Wife

Last Sabbath brought the folks to Alderley, sunlight and sparkling frost diamonds. It brought also the peace and quiet of the day of rest, and a light breeze in our faces that played a reverent and useful melody along the high telephone wires as Jeanie and I walked up the hill and out the road to morning service in the old Kirk at the corner. One only sets out to walk for often we scarcely reach as far as the hilltop going by way of the mill dam, when others bound in the same direction invite us to ride.
So it was that yesterday we rode the distance from Kristy's Pond—now covered levelly with snow—and also returning. In ones seat in church, just to contemplate the Sabbaths of the new year is like drawing a fresh white sheet of paper toward one—a sheet, clean and unsmudged by the strange markings of time's pen. What shall eventually be written there is hidden in the future beyond poor mortal's eyes.

years and no two people could have been happier together than we

CURRENT conditions may be the aftermath of the exciting and confused state of affairs of recent conflicting circumstances. There were a strange combination of the adverse and dramatically fortunate and promising circumstances.
These wildly concerned a financial, business, professional and creative career but as well had radical reactions on domestic, social and romantic attachments. Under astute, studied and sagacious handling it may be possible to reap rich returns, in the face of lack of cooperation from superiors and a merace from treachery and dubious complications when the mentality seems confused.
