Former Member Of Legislature Passes Away

DUVAR, P. E. I., March 17—Hon. Jeremiah Blanchard, a well-known and highly respected citizen of this Prince County village, who was a former member of the Legislature, died at his home here today, aged 79, following a lengthy illness. He was confined to his bed for four years.

Born at Rustico, P. E. I., in 1860, Hon. Mr. Blanchard was the son of Sylvester Blanchard and Virginia Doucet. After passing through the public schools he learned the carpenter trade with his father and moved in 1882 to Duvar where he lived up until his death.

He had been interested in politics since his youth and in 1890 he unsuccessfully contested two elections in the interests of the Conservative Party; the first in January for the Legislative Assembly as a candidate for the first district of Prince and the second in August for the Legislative Council.

He was elected as a Conservative candidate for the first district of Prince in 1899 and sat in the Legislature till 1897.

After an absence from the political field of some 20 years he returned to the hustings in 1919 and was an unsuccessful Liberal candidate in third Prince where he opposed the then Premier, Hon. A. Brien, and sat in the Legislature till 1927.

He was elected by a large majority for the first district of Prince in a bye-election necessitated by the death of Hon. Benjamin Gallant in the same year and was re-elected in 1923 and 1927. He sat in the Legislature until 1931, when he resigned, now Mr. Justice Arsenault.

He possessed a most remarkable memory and was a most fluent and effective speaker.

Married twice, his first wife Domitille Gallant, was mother of nine children. She died in 1918. His second wife, Mrs. Gomard of Miscouche, P. E. I., bore him five children.

"Bucs" Badly Need Pitchers Says Traynor

BY ROBERT MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 17—(AP)—Pittsburgh Pirates opened their spring exhibition tour today and echolined high above the chant of the grandstanders was the prayer of Manager Harold J. (Pie) Traynor for immediate delivery of at least two pitchers to bolster a weak hurling staff.

Pie made few bones about the situation of his club, which finished second to Chicago in the National League race last year. "I need pitchers—two pitchers, anyhow," declared Traynor. "I've got two good ones. That's about all."

The only two slabs of known worth are Jim Tobin, who won 14 and lost 12 games last year, and Russ Bauers, whose season of 13 wins and 14 lost mustn't be held against him. Traynor knows he's got the stuff.

As for the rest of the club, Traynor seems fairly well satisfied. He believes, for instance, in the National League race last year, he would have not only the support of the whole British Empire, "but of all other nations who value peace indeed, but who value freedom even more."

"The tremendous events which have taken place in Europe this week have thrown everything else into the background," said Mr. Chamberlain.

"One thing is certain. Public opinion in the world has received the sharpest shock that has ever been administered to it, even by the present regime in Germany. What may be the future effects of this profound disturbance of men's minds cannot yet be foretold, but I am sure that it's result upon the future will be far-reaching."

"In my own country we must review our own position. Nothing must be excluded from that review which bears upon the national safety. Every aspect of our national life must be looked at from that angle."

"I know every individual will wish to review his own position, too, and to consider again if they have done all they could to offer their services to the state."

said the change would injure Ontario potato growers. It would result in the market being flooded early in the summer and a break in prices. Murray Clark (Lib. Essex South) said new potatoes in early summer could not be kept long and the danger of heavy importations just prior to the application of the duty was slight.

T. J. O'Neill (Lib. Kamloops) said British Columbia growers definitely feared injury. He wanted to know if the arrangement could be changed if it did not work well.

Mr. Dunning said relations between Canada and the United States since the 1926 agreement, he had no doubt changes could be made in cases of grave injury. The treaty expired in three years and would then be up for renewal.

Mr. J. C. Macdonald, Prince Edward-Lennox protested the reduction from two to 1-1-2 cents a pound on canned vegetables entering into the United States. He urged the British Columbia growers from three to two cents a pound had brought a great increase in imports from United States and the present reduction would mean further increase in imports.

Mr. Minister to consider the Canadian canning industry.

FULL HOUSE

Story of the play dealt with a wealthy widow, her son and daughter and a twin blackmail plot against the two young people which was frustrated by two other brilliant young people who carried on their investigation disguised as servants of the household. The housekeeper, mother of the girl investigated was only partially taken into the confidence of the detectives and complications were added to complete the mystery. Nevertheless the plot built up smoothly to a fine climax and at the end solved the mystery which had kept the audience keenly interested and left everyone feeling "That's the way it should end." Throughout sparkling laugh-provoking Irish wit flowed freely and brought delighted and spontaneous applause from the house.

First of the characters to appear was Mrs. Della Oberon, played with finesse by Miss Eileen O'Holloran. Through many appearances Miss O'Holloran never varied from her part of the "resny, rather overbearing matron". In the end, however, Mrs. Oberon's innate Irish honesty came to the fore and she became a "human" woman and Miss O'Holloran showed true histrionic ability.

Annie Rooney, a maid who annoyed Mrs. Oberon by leaving with short notice was played by Miss Patricia Gray who last night made her first appearance before a Charlottetown audience. And it is safe to predict it will not be her last for "talent scouts" for amateur plays will surely seek her out. Although her part last night was short it was cleverly acted and rang true.

Associated with the maid was a chauffeur, taken by Mr. J. P. Callaghan, who directed the play. Mr. Callaghan is well known to local audiences as an actor but last night he won new laurels as he directed the performance. He would have held such a position. His acting was up to its customary high standard, too.

The character of Mrs. Maggie Shannon, housekeeper for Mrs. Oberon, was played by that favorite of local amateur actresses, Mrs. Arthur Henry. The part was made for her and lost nothing in her rendition of it. Indeed, she probably put into it than even the author could have hoped. Marguerite Oberon, daughter of the wealthy matron, was taken by Mrs. Charles F. Bentley, a very young actress who seemed to come to the stage, it was said. But her performance last night was not "amateurish" by any means. She really made a permanent place for herself in local dramatic circles through her pleasing rendition of a rather difficult role.

Mrs. Oberon's son, Myron Oberon was taken by Mr. Arthur McGulgan who was seen to good advantage as the aspiring musical composer. He did well in the role and was at home in the part throughout.

Molly Shannon, daughter of the housekeeper, was played by Miss Dorothy Dumont. This was the star role for Molly was "Laughing Irish Eyes". So well was the part taken that every bit of dialogue in which "Molly" took part. It was a stellar role played in an outstanding fashion.

The other of four newcomers to the stage last night was Mr. Fred Mahar who took the character Harry Ryan, a young ne'er-do-well who was making a bad thing worse by being a thief and a blackmail. It was a difficult part but was cleverly acted.

Tom McFadden, "Molly's" fiancé was played by Bill Brown who disguised as a chauffeur was really a detective working with Molly. Mr. Brown filled the role well and his performance was tinged with just the right amount of "official brusqueness" to make a convincing bit of acting.

Last of the characters in order of appearance, but by no means unimportant to the success of the play was Dolores Dawn, a young prima donna acted by Miss Alice M. Garrett. Although Miss Garrett appeared only briefly she was well received and gave a fine account of herself.

"What may be the future effects of this profound disturbance of men's minds cannot yet be foretold, but I am sure that it's result upon the future will be far-reaching."

"In my own country we must review our own position. Nothing must be excluded from that review which bears upon the national safety. Every aspect of our national life must be looked at from that angle."

"I know every individual will wish to review his own position, too, and to consider again if they have done all they could to offer their services to the state."

PUBLIC FORUM

This column is open for the discussion by correspondents of questions of interest. The Chairman's Guard will not necessarily endorse the opinions of correspondents.

B. W. LePage announced in the Legislature that this Park land would not cost more than fifteen thousand dollars, but should have been understood by those concerned that the people of the North Side were to be robbed of 4,450 acres of their land earned. Then they passed an Act that they could take land at a price to suit themselves and the farmers were not supposed to have any say in the matter.

We trust that soon we will have men in power that will repeal this Act as we do not want our coming generation to have to live under such unjust laws. There were a few men in our Legislature, who last year had independence of coming to the House. May we ask when did "bearing false witness" become smartness?

Now we have 4,450 acres of land lying waste which will grow weeds to spoil the surrounding farms. A road has been staked off and is already under construction which will run parallel with the road we now have. Why waste so much money on one spot on P. E. I. where the people do not need it?

If our budget was balanced and we had a surplus to spend how acceptable a few hundred dollars would be in each school district to beautify the grounds and give our poor children books they need, also supply them with hot lunches at noon. They might some day rise up to call us blessed.

Our Government members have taken a number of trips to Ottawa. Why not this summer come to Charlottetown and see the people who will pay the treasury the amount they have exceeded the fifteen thousand dollars. Business men expect this of their employees.

I am Sir, etc.,
JEREMIAH SIMPSON.

PAINFUL THROAT GETS FAST RELIEF

Had Suffocating Spasms! Could Hardly Breathe! Few people would care to go through the experience that confronted A. Villeneuve, a well-known resident of Sillery Cove, Quebec. "Every few minutes throughout the day and night it appeared as if I were suffocating—just as if an iron hand were gripping my throat. I had a frightful cold. My throat was so congested it felt as if it were closed up. I applied NERVILINE—rubbed lots of it over my chest and throat, I also used it as a gargle. What splendid relief I got from NERVILINE! Soon my breathing became normal and my distress ended. I call NERVILINE most dependable; it saved me."

Spend Over Half Income On Necessities

OTTAWA, March 17—(CP)—The average wage-earning family in Canada spends from 52.2 to 65.4 per cent of its income on necessities of life which include food, fuel and light, shelter and clothing.

Trade Minister Euler made this disclosure today in announcing the results of detailed surveys of national and family living expenditures undertaken by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics last October and November. Income of the average family was estimated at from $450 to $2,500.

Expenditures on recreation averaged 4.3 to 7.2 per cent, on health and insurance premiums, savings and payments on debt a round nine per cent.

Other approximate expenditures were: furniture and furnishings and maintenance seven per cent; health four per cent; personal care two per cent; motor car four per cent; education and vocation one per cent and community welfare and gifts three per cent.

"The data obtained from the present survey of nutrition and family living expenditures will provide a general basis for planning the structure of Canadian urban diets," Mr. Euler said.

"It will also furnish a yardstick for the measurement of progress in the family living standards. They will be an important guide in relation to Canada and other countries."

The surveys were undertaken at the request of the League of Nations and by authority of Parliament. They were conducted in Ottawa, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, London, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Vancouver. Further surveys are to be carried out this spring.

RHEUMATISM AND ARTHRITIS

Although rheumatism or arthritis is as old as man, it is only during the past twenty-five years that a knowledge of its cause, the damage it does, and how best to treat it has become known. Figures prove that everybody past fifty years of age has arthritis to a less or greater degree.

Just as with other ailments, rheumatism or arthritis can only attack the individual if his tissues are in the necessary condition to develop rheumatism. And his tissues are put into this condition by infection of tonsils, teeth, or other organs, which is carried to the joints and the surrounding tissues. Other causes which put his tissues into condition to develop rheumatism are cold and wetness, poor posture—position, slouching and standing, physical defects, in spine, hips, shoulders, etc., occupation. If any of these conditions is present in addition to the infection, a more rapid and more serious arthritis may follow.

"An adult complaining of stiffness and pain in one or more joints which came on without causing much thought on the part of the patient and which progresses slowly may be suffering with chronic arthritis."

"There is the two types, atrophic (where joint actually loses tissue) and the hypertrophic (where there is extra tissue—bone and gristle—formed in and around the joint)."

After removal of the cause of infected teeth, tonsils—any defects in the patient or his surroundings, one corrected such as avoiding cold and dampness, then the usual treatment is rest, heat, passive or active exercise, together with a diet containing plenty of fruit and vegetables but cutting down greatly on starch foods—bread, potatoes, sugar and to some extent also on fat foods—butter, cream, egg yolks, and fat meat.

Treatment may be necessary for a long time after cause has been removed because of the need for better circulation to remove wastes from joints and surrounding tissues.

It can thus be seen that in the treatment of chronic arthritis the physician in charge of the case must call to his aid a specialist in the nose and throat specialist, the X-ray specialist, the physio-therapist (heat and electricity) and the masseur.
