YOU CANNOT JUDGE BY APPEARANCE—It is impossible to tell the quality of tea by the appearance of the leaf. A rough, coarse, unevenly rolled tea may taste much better in the cup than a closely rolled, well-tipped tea that appears much finer. The only way to be sure of getting tea of reliable quality is to buy a guaranteed blend like "SAILADA", whose goodness and purity have been proved by time.

A GOOD CONCERT—The concert held in Cornwall Hall, Friday evening, Feb. 8th, in aid of school improvements was a decided success from every point of view. The night was ideal and the hall was filled to its utmost capacity. Mr. D. J. MacArthur acted as chairman in his usual capable manner and considering the crowded house good order prevailed throughout. The program of a high order was excellently rendered and much enjoyed particularly the vocal solos by Mrs. MacEachern and Miss Helen Large, the violin solos by Capt. Defries and the piano solos by Capt. Duthie. During intermission lunches and candy were sold, the handsome sum of $75.25 being realized. The accompanists of the evening were, Mrs. Gordon MacMillan, Miss Norman Murchison and Capt. Duthie. The following is the programme:—Instrumental music Leonard MacDonald; Violin—Mrs. MacMillan; Piano—Quartet: Carry me back to old Virginia—Mrs. Andrew McEachern, Mrs. G. MacMillan, John Heartz and G. MacMillan, (encore); Robin Adair; Solo—Miss Cora McEachern—"My Laddie" (encored)—Reading, G. MacMillan, (encored); Solo—John Heartz—"My Irish Rose" (encored); The barfoot trail; Solo—Mrs. Andrew McEachern—"Christina's Lament Dvorak" (encored); "Lassie O'Mine" accompanied by Capt. Defries—Violin—Capt. Duthie piano; Violin solo—Capt. Defries—"Minuet in G" Beethoven, (encored)—Just for to-night; Intermission—Sale of Candy and lunches—Piano solo—Capt. MITE BOX OPENING.—A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Slackford, Winsloe on Wednesday the 20th inst. under the auspices of the W. M. S. of Winsloe, when a number of the friends of the society gathered to celebrate their annual mite-box opening with Rev. C. Graham acting as chairman. The following pleasing programme was carried out: Chorus, Scripture lesson and prayer; duet by Miss Ella Diamond and Mrs. S. E. Boundy with Master Clifford; Bouncy accompanying on the mouth organ; dialogue by Miss Jennie Dollar, Mrs. Andrew Dollar, Miss Belle and Misses Alma and Alice Dollar; solo by Mr. Nelson Kent (encored); Paper on "India" by Mrs. A. B. Seller; "Items of Interest from the foreign fields," taken part in by several of the ladies; solo, Davis Seller, (encored); address, Rev. C. Graham. Games and music furnished entertainment for the balance of the evening and an excellent lunch, served by the ladies, was enjoyed by all. The proceeds of the evening were upwards of $20.00. The thanks of all are due to Mr. and Mrs. Slackford who so kindly opened their pleasant home for this occasion.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it. The best thing for steady use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo, which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use. Two or three teaspoonsful of Mulsified is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage. You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

Salmon Swims Across Ocean To Old Home

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—Fish No. 10358, one of the 10,000 salmon caught, tagged, and released by the United States Bureau of Fisheries south of Alaska last season, has turned up in a Siberian stream 2,000 miles across the ocean. He made the trip to get to his wedding at the old home stream where he began life as an egg.

This remarkable tale of Fish No. 10358 is not a mere fisherman's yarn but is backed up by scientific records on two continents. According to the files of the Bureau of Fisheries here, No. 10358 belonged to the Oncorhynchus keta or dog salmon family. The identification tag stamped with this number was clamped on his tail last Fourth of July off the north shore of Unga Island, Alaska.

Released to go his own way, No. 10358 evidently lost little time heading for home. According to word recently received from the Far Eastern Bureau of Fisheries, the fish wearing the tag marked "U. S. B. F. No. 10358" was caught on August 18 in the river Pankara in the district of Karagin on the eastern shores of the peninsula of Kamchatka. The local residents did not pay any attention to this mark and the fish was cleaned and salted. Agents of the Far Eastern Fisheries Board at Valdivostok discovered 10358 in the preserved state.

Examination showed that the fish was a male and had grown teeth. As salmon return to spawn in the same stream in which they were hatched from the egg, it was plain that No. 10358 was a native of Kamchatka. Other tagged fish of the dog-salmon family have been retaken in Alaskan streams to the east of the feeding ground where they were tagged.

before have been created. This is why the country is ringing today with the clamor for reduction of the civil service. The Conservative party is proud of its record in dealing with the service while holding office. Within that period the Civil Service Commission in its present form was organized, the outside service was placed under it; the principle of making political appointments was abolished; promotion through merit was insured and a new system of classification was introduced. These changes have met with a chorus of approval throughout the country and among civil servants as a body.

An instance of the good work done by the Conservatives in re-organisation took place in the Printing Bureau. Here scores of unnecessary people had been employed at a cost of many thousands of dollars to the country. The Conservative Government resolved that this shameful waste must stop. The Civil Service Commission was instructed to reform and reorganise the Bureau. This was done and the number of employees was reduced from 1159 to 732 with a yearly saving in the pay-roll of $746,000. Here in only one department an annual saving of almost three quarters of a million dollars was made and the work of the Bureau is better done and more quickly done than it was before. The work of merging the Customs and Inland Revenue Departments into one was provided for in May 1918 under the Borden Government and the actual consolidation was effected in April 1921. This effected a saving of thousands of dollars yearly to the country. The work of reorganising the Customs and Post Office departments was undertaken by the Meighen Government in 1921 and would have been carried to completion with a further big annual saving had not the general election intervened. The facts above recited in outline show that the work of re-organisation and retrenchment in the Civil Service at Ottawa was effectively begun and carried forward under Conservative leadership; that it was practically stopped or greatly slackened under the present regime while the need of drastic action is much greater than ever before.
