How Many Need Aid In Seeing

If you were to guess, how many persons in 100 would you say need an eye service? Would you say ten? Or twenty? Or more? The correct answer is very close to 50. We mean of those who do NOT wear a correction. Does that not indicate a too prevalent neglect of the eyes? And does it not suggest that many should consider the subject more seriously.

DINGWELL-MCKIE. A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dingwell, Fortune Bridge, on Wednesday, July 11th, at 2 o'clock p.m., when their son, Joseph Warren Dingwell, married Miss Amy MacKie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. McKie of Little River. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. G. Hoekin, minister of Bay Fortune United Church, in the presence of a large company of guests. The Wedding March was played by Mrs. George Jackson. The bride looked charming in her garb, wearing a suit and was attended by Miss Flora Paton as bridesmaid. Mr. Joseph Neate of Bear River was best man. The rooms were tastefully decorated with flowers of the season and at the close of the ceremony a delicious supper was served. The wedding presents were numerous and appropriate. Mr. and Mrs. Dingwell left for a short motor trip after which they expect to settle at Fortune Bridge. Their host of friends wish them long years of happiness.

BELFAST. The annual congregational meeting of St. John's Church was held on Tuesday afternoon with a large attendance of members and adherents. Mr. Herbert Gillis presided. The reports of the various societies were presented by the respective secretaries and adopted. It was evident that progress had been made all round during the church year, and words of gratitude to the pastor, Rev. D. L. Griffiths, were expressed and a hearty resolution of appreciation for his faithful services was passed, and also to the leaders of the various societies who had been so diligent in their work. Four new trustees were elected in place of those whose terms of office had expired. The meeting was marked by unanimity, and cordial co-operation, and all concerned are looking forward to a further year of blessing from the great Master, whose cause is so faithfully served in this congregation. Previous to the general meeting the Ladies Aid also held their annual meeting, presided over by Mrs. Mabel McEachern, when a splendid report was presented. The congregational meeting was opened and closed by the devotional exercises by the pastor.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was wearing a white satin wedding gown, fashioned on Princess lines with the sleeves and beautiful long ruffled train of rose point lace. A wisp of a tulle turban, bordered with lilies of the valley and braided tulle fell into a long veil, which was caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a large bouquet which combined white roses and lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor, Miss Jemima MacLaine, of Prince Edward Island, was gowned in pale pink mousseline de soie with blue accessories. The bridesmaids, the Misses Marion Nevers, of Hartford, Connecticut, Doris Burnham, Roberta Charlton, of Yonkers, N. Y., and Mrs. Ruth Chapman Slear of Yonkers were wearing frocks of the same material in pastel colors with contrasting accessories and all carried spring bouquets. READY FOR USE

The reason you must have small bottles is because, when once opened the lemon juice must be used the same day. When you want to use it, open the bottle, wind some clean cotton round a skewer and dipping it in the oil will be attracted, and when all is removed the juice will be as fine as when first bottled. Care must be taken to squeeze only sound fruit.

STORING LEMON JUICE
AN OLD ART WELL WORTH REVIVING

When lemons were plentiful our great grandmothers used to preserve them and oranges in various ways for use when they were scarce. Their juice may be kept indefinitely by boiling it down with sugar to half its bulk and then bottling, but the fine flavor of the fresh fruit is lost.
