NAVY LEAGUE—

fected Prince Edward Island. The Chief Justice expressed the hope that the Navy League's appeal for funds would meet with a generous response from the people of the Province. A careful budget had been prepared by the executive of the Prince Edward Island division of the League with much attention being paid to the proposed expenditures of the Island division for the balance of the year 1944 and for the year 1945

The Chief Justice explained in detail how the disposition of funds would be made and stressed the point that most of the money would be spent in the Province. Even the assessment of $500 which the Island division paid to the Dominion Council was not without benefit to the people of the Province. Hundreds of Island boys have derived great benefit from the many hostels established by the Navy League throughout the country and would continue to do so. Possibly the finest hostel in the British Empire was located in Halifax and through its friendly doors many of the Island boys had passed and re-passed on their way to or from the perils of the sea. For these reasons and for many others, the appeal of the Navy League for funds would, the Chief Justice felt, be warmly received by the citizens of the Province.

The banquet closed with the National Anthem.

ANXIOUS BRITISH—

year settled definitely any question of an immediate election and it is believed now that voting will not take place before next fall at the earliest. Parties are going ahead with their preparations just the same.

The Labor Party announced that it would not accept affiliation of the Commonwealth party and there is some talk now that this war-born organization led by Sir Richard Acland would soon fold up for lack of funds. Labor has announced its willingness to welcome into the party any members of Common Wealth prepared to accept Labor's policy.

Sir Stafford Cripps, expelled from the labor party before the war when he tried to form a "popular front", is expected to apply soon for readmission and his chances of being welcomed back to the fold are said to be good. If the minister of aircraft production is received back, the official labor candidate named to stand against him in Bristol likely will be withdrawn.

The communists are still anxious to affiliate with the socialists but they will receive the same answer as Common Wealth—that labor will welcome individual members of parties prepared to accept labor's constitution, but that it cannot accept affiliation with the parties themselves.

Officers Who Spoke Face Court-Martial

TORONTO, Nov. 21 — (CP) — The Evening Telegram in a news story from Ottawa today said that "a major departmental inquiry — possibly even a court-martial — today loomed in front of the group of high-ranking officers of the 6th Division, who, in a press interview last night, made public their conviction that the voluntary system of overseas enlistment could not be made to work."

The Telegram said that the interview, given at Vancouver, was regarded in Ottawa as a major breach of army regulations.

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 — (CP) — Defence Minister McNaughton said today that until he had "full knowledge of all the facts and circumstances" he could make no comment on statements in Vancouver last night by a group of high-ranking officers of the 6th Division that the voluntary system of overseas enlistment would not work.

Gen. McNaughton said in a statement that he expected to receive a "full report" on the officers' statements, made at a press conference, during the day.

EXCERPTS

Navy and Air Force were being considered, no intimation was given of any prospective insufficiency of reinforcements for the Canadian army ... I have never agreed to a single increase in our military commitments without first asking and receiving assurance that the additional commitment would not jeopardize our capacity to provide needed reinforcements."

Ralston's Reply

Col. Ralston, Nov. 6: "The point is that when I obtained information which led me to believe that the need for infantry reinforcements could not be met by departmental action alone, I so reported at the earliest possible date and I presented this information as fully as possible with my recommendations for action ... The discussions at Quebec ... had nothing to do with the reinforcement situation overseas."

Mr. King, Nov. 10. "If (at the time of the Quebec discussions) there was any possibility of our having to resort to conscription ... surely that possibility should have been made known."

Col. Ralston, Nov. 14: "As a matter of fact, it was. I think at the next meeting of the War Committee following the Quebec conference that I did indicate, as a result of further information received in the meantime ,the possibility of difficulties regarding infantry reinforcements and the necessity, in my view, for keeping N. R.M.A. personnel available in the light of the uncertainties.

Resignation

Col. Ralston, Nov. 1: "Consequently and as requested by you (Mr. King), I at once tender my resignation ... "

Mr. King, Nov. 3: "As to any request by me for your resignation, you will recall that on several occasions you stated that if the recommendation contained in the report of the Chief of Staff was formally made to the cabinet and not accepted, you would feel compelled to resign, inview of what you had said in Parliament. Subsequently you stated that you saw clearly that the Cabinet was not disposed to accept your recommendation. In view of your possible resignation on these grounds, I felt it necessary to ascertain the view of Gen. McNaughton ... he believed it would be possible to obtain the necessary reinforcements by voluntary means, and that in his belief he would be prepared to assume the responsibility of Minister of National Defence should you resign. In these circumstances I expressed the opinion that there should not be further delay in reaching a decision."

Plenty Export Permits For Next 2 Months

Premier Jones Discusses Number Of Subjects In Broadcast.

Premier J. Walter Jones told farmers and shippers in this province last night that "for the next two months at least" they would get all the permits they ask for export of table stock potatoes to the United States. "This is a privilege given Prince Edward Island which is not given to any other province," he said.

The Premier was making a broadcast address under the CBC free time policy.

He dealt with education, agriculture, transportation and the prohibition act.

He acknowledged that there was a serious shortage of refrigerator cars and that potato dealers could use 100 a week at present.

(He did not give the number reaching the province daily but it is believed to be less than one-quarter the number he indicated were required).

There had been an improvement in the trade between this province and Newfoundland during this year but it had been "practically impossible to carry livestock and hay—two of the commodities which we desire most to ship." However, the Premier expressed the hope that by 1945 "our harbors will again experience a considerable revival in shipping and we would suggest that immediate steps be taken to improve the harbors in order to be ready for the coast-wise trade which is sure to develop after the war."

Discussing the prohibition act the Premier said that after reference to the act in an earlier broadcast he received a number of letters from church organizations protesting against any suggested change and urging better enforcement. He said, however, that the government does not regard the prohibition act "like the laws of the Medes and Persians, which changeth not, nor necessarily that it is given on tablets of stone."

He did not elaborate beyond that.

He told of correspondence ecurses which are being prepared for children in the 20 rural schools without teachers. The courses would also be sent to teachers without adequate training to assist them.

In Memoriam

MRS. WALTER G. McKENZIE

Seldom has a shock been felt so keenly or such heartfelt sympathy been extended as when it was learned on Oct. 6th that Mrs. Walter G. McKenzie of Springfield had passed away in the Prince Edward Island Hospital at the early age of forty-two years. Mrs. McKenzie had entered the hospital for treatment on Monday, Oct. 2nd, and bright hopes were held out for her recovery but, on Friday, it was evident that this was not to be, the messenger of death had undoubtedly come and come suddenly and shortly after the noon hour.

"God's finger touched her and she slept."

Coming to Springfield as a bride twelve years ago, she endeared herself to all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance and her cheerful readiness during those years, to assist in every good work and in the Women's Institute of which she was a faithful member will long be remembered. Of her it can be truly said that "the sun had gone down at noon."

She was a daughter of the late J. Herbert Simpson and his wife, Mary A. McCoubrey, Bay View Mills.

After the marriage of her elder sister she assumed the full care of the home and she was the light and mainstay of that home till her marriage in 1932. Besides a sorrowing husband and his aged mother in the home, Mrs. McKenzie leaves to mourn their loss, one sister, Mrs. Roland Buntain, Rustico, and two brothers, Dr. J. Claude Simpson, Summerside, and Rupert G. on the homestead. The funeral, which was held on the afternoon of Sunday, Oct. 8th, was one of the largest ever seen in the province. The service was conducted by her pastor, Rev. A. D. Sterling, assisted by Rev. D. J. Morrison of Bradalbane, and was very impressive.

Rev. John M. Murchieson, a personal friend of the family, sang very feelingly, "Sometime We'll Understand". The floral tributes were beautiful.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Nelson Matheson, Irving Haslam, Alfred Simpson, E. C. Bell, John W. Kier and Arthur Stewart.

Interment was in Summerfield cemetery.

"I cannot say, and I will not say
That she is dead—she is just away!
With a cheery smile,
And a wave of the hand,
She has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since she lingers there.
And you—O you, who the wildest yearn
For the old-time step and the glad return—
Think of her faring on, as dear
In the love of there as the love of here;
Think of her still as the same, I say
She is not dead—she is just away!"
