Marathon Swim Attracts Too Many

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 19. —The $50,000 swimming marathon, which will be held here on August 31, is too large for comfort, according to Elwood A. Hughes, sports director of the Canadian National Exhibition, who is in charge of all arrangements for the "big splash." There was no expectation that the swim would attract nearly 400 entries, many from far distant countries. More than 300 will probably start, and even that number, according to Mr. Hughes, is too many.

TRANS-ATLANTIC MAIL SERVICE

(By British United Press.)

PARIS, August 19.—A forecast of the future postal and commercial services by air across the Atlantic has been given British United Press by M. Maurice Bokanowski, the French Minister for Commerce, Industry and Aeronautics. He sees the time when great commercial hydroplanes carrying mail and commercial packets will cross the Atlantic daily, thus enormously developing the commercial relations of Canada and the United States with Europe.

M. Bokanowski will shortly visit Toronto where he will represent France at the Congress of the Bar Associations meeting there this month.

"There is no doubt," he said, "that normally, the crossing of a vast body of water like the Atlantic Ocean can be assured with safety provided that the right type of flying machine is used. This means that planes must be used that can alight on the water, that is to say, a special type of seaplane fitted for the strains it has to encounter.

"The problem of the hydroplane, however, is technically entirely different from the problem of the land aeroplane and it is much more complicated. A hydroplane capable of doing what is required in an Atlantic postal and commercial service has not yet been built in any country.

"There is a great difference between what I may call the sporting exploit of crossing the Atlantic with a land aeroplane and the establishment of the kind of service I speak of. The proof has been furnished France in a striking manner in the Mediterranean. It was in 1913 that our great airman, Garros, crossed the Mediterranean for the first time with an aeroplane, but it was not until fifteen years later than France could undertake and organize a regular hydroplane service connecting Paris with Northern Africa.

"You can see from this that there will not be the certainty of a normal aerial postal and commercial service from Europe to America against the westerly winds that prevail in the Atlantic and against the frequent fogs until, technically, we have developed hydroplanes capable of meeting these conditions.

"French technicians are working towards this end. We have to ensure the connection between metropolitan France and Northern Africa by the Antibes-Tumis and the Marseilles-Algiers lines and the experience we are gaining there will enable us to take in hand the problem of the Atlantic — a problem which must ultimately be solved.

"When the proper kind of hydroplane has been developed then nothing will be easier than the establishment of a regular commercial and postal service from France to the New World.

"What that will mean for the drawing together of the peoples of the two continents I shall leave to your imagination. Its effects must be an alteration in the course of history."

standard of English journalism will be improved or sustained in the process. It is natural, however, that he should desire to write, as that had been his calling for many years. And those who protest and recall his past offence cannot prevent him again taking up his pen.

Hail to Chief Peters of the Micmacs! duly elected to that honored dignity. The branch of the tribe resident in this province manage their elections in very orderly fashion under the capable direction of the Reverend John A. Macdonald, Returning Officer and Superintendent of Indian Affairs for this Province. By open vote they have chosen their new Chief, a returned soldier, whose comrades stood by him manfully in the contest. All passed off in due order and the new Chief was promptly sworn in after the poll closed. They manage these matters well at the Micmac Headquarters in Lennox Island.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. OWEN EGAN

At Elmwood, Lot 65, on Wednesday, July 27th, there passed peacefully to her Eternal rest, Stella, beloved wife of Owen Egan in the fifty-seventh year of her age.

Although deceased had been ailing for the past three years, hopes were entertained for her recovery until the past year, during which she continued to sink despite competent medical care and the loving ministrations of her devoted family.

Always of a retiring disposition she was best known and loved by her immediate relatives but it is in the home, where she was ever the devoted wife and mother, that she will be most sadly missed. She leaves to cherish her memory, her husband and seven children, viz—Andrew and Eugene, in Boston, Mass., William, Frank, Cyril, and Mary at home, and Mrs. Peter Clarkin of Emyvale. Also the following brothers: Peter, Thomas, and Patrick Murray of Tryon, Lot 31; James, of Boston, Mass.; and Frank of Charlottetown, also one sister, Sister Mary Clare, of St. Dunstan's University.

The funeral which was held on Friday morning, July 29th, was largely attended,—a silent testimonial to the respect in which the deceased was held. High Mass was sung by Rev. Louis Callaghan, D. D., of the Cathedral Staff, after which the remains were laid to rest in St. Anne's Cemetery.

The pall-bearers were: James McQuaid, William McQuaid, William McPhee, Anthony Buchanan, Owen McQuillan, Charles Curley.

May she rest in peace.

INSIDIOUS EYE STRAIN

We use this adjective advisedly.

Sufferers from Eyestrain may have perfect visicn and therefore do not suspect the presence of any eye defect.

The motive power of the entire human organism is Nerve Energy.

Normal eyes, it is computed utilize about 20% of this Nerve Energy. but when Eyestrain is present, a much larger proportion is required. Hence defective eyes, through their consumption of an excessive amount of Nerve Energy may seriously affect the functioning of other organs of the body and produce ill health.
