THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON VIII, SECOND QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, MAY 22.

Text of the Lesson, Mark x, 28-32. Memory Verses, 28-32. Golden Text, Mark x, 28-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1904, by American Press Association.]

Since last lesson we have passed over the record of Luke xvi, 1, to xviii, 34, the last portion from Luke xviii, 15, being found also in Matthew and Mark, the story of the empty, helpless, dependent little children whom He blessed and the rich young ruler who went away as he came, full of himself, his righteousness and his possessions. The saying stands, "He hath filled the hungry with good things, and the rich He hath sent empty away" (Luke i, 53). The disciples emptied themselves of such as they had for His sake. As Peter said, "We have left all and have followed Thee" (Mark x, 28), and our Lord said that in the regeneration, when He shall sit in the throne of His glory, they shall sit upon twelve thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel (Matt. xix, 28), and that those who forsake all for His sake and the gospel now shall not only have a great reward hereafter, but shall receive a hundredfold (that is, 10,000 per cent) in this present time, with persecution. Yet people think that a good investment which brings 10 per cent or less and virtually depletes the Lord's 10,000 per cent.

As to the persecutions we may be called upon to endure, Paul says that they are not worthy to be compared with the glory (Rom. viii, 18) and that they all work out for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory (II Cor. iv, 17). Our Lord is now on His way to Jerusalem to offer Himself a sacrifice for the sins of the world, and for at least the third time He plainly foretells what He is about to suffer, but this time a little more fully. He said that He would be mocked and spitefully entreated and spitted on and scourged and crucified, but that the third day He would rise again and that all this was written by the prophets concerning Him. How strange to read that although this seems to us so plain, "They understand none of these things" (Compare Matt. xx, 17-19, and Luke xviii, 31-34).

We see how little interest they took in His predicted sufferings, or, rather, that they did not receive a word of it, by the fact, with which our lesson opens, that James and John, or, according to Matthew, their mother for them, asks that he will do for them whatever they desire, and that is that they may sit, one on His right hand and the other on His left, in His kingdom. How utterly out of sympathy they were, how lonely He was! No one understood Him, not even the disciple whom He loved, who leaned upon His bosom. They did not understand because they did not believe, and only thus were His sayings hid from them. "Through faith we understand" (Heb. xi, 3).

Something seemingly worse than even this request of James and John is recorded as having occurred on the very night before His crucifixion. He had seen the passer with them and was speaking of one of them who should betray Him when there was a strife among them which of them should be accounted the greatest (Luke xxii, 21-24). It seems an almost impossible thing for believers to get wholly rid of some self seeking even in Christian work and to live to exalt the Lord alone, but if filled with the Spirit He will see to it, for He always glorifies Christ.

Our Lord said, "Ye know not what ye ask" (verse 38). We are apt to be so out of fellowship with Him that even when we plead John xiv, 13, 14, we may be asking amiss, because He may see in our hearts some desire for the honor of self or church or denomination or our particular society rather than His glory only. His searching question, "Can ye drink of the cup that I drink, and be baptized with" that baptism that I am baptized with?" we might think would have opened their eyes, but they are blinded by their ambition and thoughtlessly answer, "We can." They did not receive what He had said about His sufferings and therefore did not understand what He meant by His cup and baptism. We do well to note how He looked upon His sufferings, speaking of them all in this wise, "The cup which My Father hath given Me" (John xviii, 11), and we are learning a good lesson when we learn to see God in everything, seeing people and circumstances through God, seeing Jesus only (Mark ix, 8).

I find it necessary to emphasize that, while the precious blood of Christ, and that alone, can make us fit for the presence of God, all that comes to us after we are saved is necessary to fit us for our place in His kingdom and for our reign with Him. The Christian life would be more easy, and restful than many seem to find it if they would only believe Eph. ii, 10, and let God daily guide them in the good works He has prepared for them, saying concerning all that comes, "This is prepared for me."

He emptied Himself and humbled Himself unto the death of the cross for us, wherefore God also hath highly exalted Him (Phil. ii, 7-9). Humility is true greatness. Therefore be humble if you would be great; be faithful if you would be rewarded. "God resisteth the proud and giveth grace to the humble" (I Pet. v, 5, 6). "Hereby perceive we the love of God, because He laid down His life for us, and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren" (I John iii, 16). We cannot ransom any by even laying down our lives—He has provided the only and all sufficient ransom—but we can be willing to imitate the good news to others even at the cost of laying down our lives in doing so.
