Burial Of The "Dry Policy"

(BY NEWTON KENDALL) Choosing Mitch Hepburn, M. P., as leader, the Ontario Liberal party abandoned the prohibition issue.

With apologies to Charles Wolfe author of the "The Burial of Sir John Moore."

Not a shout was heard, not a protest note.

As our burial duty we hurried, Not an editor rose in his might and wrote

As our dry crusade we buried.

We buried it darkly at dead of night The sods with our bayonets turning,

By the twinkling Star's uncertain light And the Globe just dimly burning.

Few and short were the prayers we said.

And we spoke not a word of sorrow.

But we knew there were "drys" that had battled and bled

And we bitterly thought of the morrow.

But half of our heavy task was done And still the convention was sitting,

And we knew by the distant random gun That Sinclair was sullenly quitting

We thought, as we hollowed its narrow bed

And dropped it, the bone and the tissue,

That the foe and the stranger would tread o'er its head.

And we far away from the issue.

Lightly they'll talk of the spirit that's gone

And the bottles that lie in the ditch,

But little we'll reck if they let it sleep on

And we get into office with Mitch.

Slowly and sadly we laid it down, Abandoned by Grit and by Tory;

We carved not a line, we raised not a stone,

But we left it alone in its glory.

Marion Davies Is Great At Prince Edward

"Just you—just me. . . . You'll be humming that plaintive melody when you walk out of the Prince Edward Theatre after beholding Marion Davies in her first feature length talking picture, "Marianne," which opened yesterday as a Metro-Goldwyn Mayer presentation.

A brand-new flock of song hits are in this sparkling romantic comedy in which Miss Davies sings with a captivating charm that is certain to win for her even greater popularity than she now enjoys . . . and that's saying a lot.

The "Just you—just me" number slips into the picture so unobtrusively that you are not quite sure it is a song until it is picked up by off-stage orchestration. Robert Z. Leonard, who directed the musical-talkie, dove-tails his song numbers right into the dialogue and action.

And there are some other sure-fire songs, such as "Hang On To Me," "Sugar," "Blondy" and, of course, a "Marianne" theme song that is potent with tuneful dramatics and weeps.

In the picture Miss Davies plays the part of a French peasant girl who falls in love with an A. E. F. doughboy but sacrifices her happiness when her former soldier-sweet-heart returns blinded from the war.

Included in the supporting cast are Lawrence Gray, Cliff (Ukelele Ike) Edwards, Benny Rubin, Robert Eddson, George Baxter and others of note. All deserve special praise for the capable and entertaining way in which they present their characterizations.

"Marianne" is just the right kind of picture for the holiday season. Packed with laughs.

Y. BASKETBALL

Opening up the basketball season for the year the Abbie Sisters defeated the Blue Lets in an exhibition game by a score of 18 to 11.

The game though very fast throughout was marred by too much personal contact, which tends to cut down the scoring, thus causing the game to lose much of its appeal to the spectators.

Betty Rogers was the scoring ace of the game, netting 10 points out of a total of 11, for her team.

Virginia Harrington led the scoring list for the Abbie hoopers.

Following are the line-ups: Blue Dots Centre Abbie Sisters

Gwen Rogers . . . . . Jean Grant Forwards Betty Rogers . . . . . Gladys Saunders

Greta Barbour . . . . . Agnes McGee Thelma Currie . . . . . Lillian Duchemin

Guards Thelma Currie . . . . . Evelyn McKenzie Elsie McInnis . . . . . Margaret McLean

V. Harrington Referee: William Henry.

In a second exhibition game between the C. N. R. Recreation Club team and the Y team, the latter won by a score of 49 to 26.

The Y team is considerably strengthened this year by the addition of "Tiny" Matheson late of Mt. A. and also by the addition of Pat Powers and Dick Filler, two of last year's City League stars.

Though handicapped by the absence of some of their best players the Railway team put up a stiff battle and did not succumb easily to defeat.

The game between these teams tonight at 8.00 o'clock will see the C. N. R. with some new players and a battle royal is expected.

Following were the lineups for Saturday's game: Y. M. C. A. Centre C. N. R.

At Rotary

"A Christmas Fantasy" was the subject of an original, interesting, unique and humorous address by President H. L. Palmer at the Rotary luncheon yesterday.

The speaker described his dream in which, at the suggestion of Santa Claus, there was a mixing of classifications. The President on visiting a number of offices and places of business was surprised to find a doctor managing a bank, another doctor the Prince Edward Theatre, a newspaper man holding court, the manager of the Water Works running the vendor's establishment, potato men, Woolworth's store, a photographer a dental office, and so on.

Rotarian Tweedy was in the chair, and the guests were Messrs. George Powers, E. Goss, H. Craswell, H. Goss, J. McLean, W. Partridge, D. Filler, J. McLean, G. Partridge, R. A. Pendleton.

The chief objection to reform is that it so frequently tries to reform the wrong people.
