Are You Sure Your Children's Eyes Are Right?

A responsibility rests upon every parent to give his child every possible advantage in life; to give the child the best of weapons with which to meet the struggle of the years ahead. Surely good eyesight is the priceless gift that your child should have. Remember that poor eyesight means poor concentration and will retard the youngster's progress. Many a child considered dull or lazy in school or music studies has simply been suffering from defective vision. And after correct glasses have changed entirely the record of performance. Perhaps your youngster's report-card is reflecting the presence of eye-strain. Perhaps you are not doing your own child full justice. Have an examination made and know. Consult

GEORGE THOMAS DICKSON

At Gaspereaux on the 16th, of October, last, passed peacefully away, George Thomas Dickson, aged sixty-six years. Deceased had spent his last years in the last six months of the last decade were employed, but with all their skill he steadily grew worse, and finally was advised by them to go to Charlottetown of an X-ray examination, as his case seemed somewhat mysterious. He gladly consented to their advice in hopes that by so doing, he might be restored to health but after being examined they held out no hope for his recovery, so he came home with the feeling that his time was short, and made up his mind to die at home with his loved ones.

Deceased was a son of Adam Dickson and Mary Irving who were both highly respected by all who became acquainted with them which were many. They both have as deceased him. Tom or Thomas as he was generally called, went to the United States when only a young man. After a few years he came home again and married Miss Margaret Clow of Murray Harbor North and settled on the old home in Gaspereaux and took to farming in which occupation, with the assistance of his wife who proved to be a thrifty and willing helpmate, they succeeded in making a comfortable living, and raised up a family of six children, two men and two women, in all the modern comforts of life. In religion he was a Presbyterian, and a member of the Murray Harbor North Church. Although not what was commonly called a great praying man or a Saint he was at all times willing to say with the Psalmist, "I am God, be merciful to me, a sinner, therefore the term of Pharisee or hypocrite could not be laid to his charge. And if any one around was in trouble he was one of the first to lend assistance with heart and hand in the most generous way, could do the most good, showing by actions and deeds that his heart was right toward his fellow men.

In his sickness he was nursed patiently by his wife and daughter Sarah, at the home of Alberton, who left her own home in the care of her children with her husband and took her place by her father for three weeks, until the end came. Everything that could be done to relieve his suffering was done by his relatives and near by neighbors, who were ready and willing to act the part of the good Samaritan regardless of race or creed.

His spiritual adviser was the Rev. Joseph McKay of the Presbyterian Church who visited him often consoling him with prayer and comforting words helping him to die trusting in Christ as his Saviour. The funeral took place on the 19th, inst, at 2 o'clock, and was largely attended, forty wagons being in the procession to the church in Murray Harbor North and a large crowd of pedestrians met them there. The funeral service was held in the church by the Rev. Mr. McKay, who delivered, with his usual style of eloquence and forebility. After the service was over his remains were taken and laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery of Murray Harbor North where his father had been laid before him. The pall bearers were: William Steel, William Stewart, Angus Steel, Benjamin Hayler, Lester Steel and George H. Hickon.

He leaves to mourn his widow and one son, George Percy at home
