"A SWEETHEART AT THIRTY"

A new type of serial by Marion Rubincam—author of "Moonlight and Money" and "The Girl Who Smiled Thru"

Written for all women, and all men too, about that well-known but little understood character—the unmarried woman past 30.

The romance of a woman whose family and friends believed she was "on the shelf" forever because she had not married before 30—a woman to whom love came late—but blossomed bigger and finer and more vividly because maturity furnished a strong stem for the rose.

A frank and engrossing discussion of the love of a mature woman.

ATTRACTIVE SIGNS.—Much favorable comment is being heard concerning the two splendid signs recently placed on the new offices of W. K. Rogers, Ltd., C.N.R. agents of this city. N. R. tickets.

ENJOYED OUTING.—The staff of Patons, Ltd. were entertained Tuesday night at York Point by Mrs. Geo. S. Innes assisted by her sister, Miss Hilda McDonald. WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.—On Friday evening July 12th, a godly number of the young and elderly people of Emerald and neighboring vicinity wended their way to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo MacGuigan, South Melville, to congratulate and welcome them and having received the 10th anniversary of their married life. About 9.30 p. m. in the visiting people were taken to the reception room, and called to order by Mr. John P. Bradley, Chairman, who in brief but very complimentary words informed Mr. and Mrs. MacGuigan of the reason of their friends calling on them the evening. A nicely worded address was then read by Mr. Cecil J. Duncan while Mr. Bennett Daighan Bradbane presented the bride and groom with a full filled purse. Mr. and Mrs. MacGuigan, although taken by surprise, thanked the people on behalf of his wife for the kindness and generosity shown them and assured them that the event this evening would ever be one of fond memory to them both. Speeches were then made, suitable to the occasion by Mr. Bradley and others, all going to show the popularity in which Mr. and Mrs. MacGuigan are held by their friends. A sumptuous repast was then served, and the remainder of the night was spent in dancing. About seven the people dispersed to their homes, feeling that they had enjoyed one of the most social events of the season.

Bank Helps Avoid Confusion on Cheque Tax

On August 1st, the new tax on cheques, notes and drafts goes into effect, and many people are still uninformed regarding this tax.

To help their customers avoid confusion, the Union Bank of Canada is distributing free at its branches, convenient sized celluloid cards, on one side of which is printed a synopsis of the law, and on the other side, a table of tax rates which shows at a glance the proper amount to be affixed to cheques of all amounts.

This thoughtful service is much appreciated by the patrons of this banking institution, and as long as the supply lasts, anyone is welcome to a card on request.

The Wisdom of Being Prepared

A LESSON FROM THE COAL SITUATION

A notice received from a Canadian Government Department last week (the Dominion Bureau of Statistics), opened as follows: "There will probably be a shortage of anthracite coal for domestic use in Canada next winter, and householders who have not yet laid in their supply should do so as soon as possible."

This is the opinion of an expert, Mr. S. J. Cook, chief of the Mining, Metallurgical and Chemical Branch of the Bureau and because of the serious consequences of such a condition, should, come about, the people of Canada are warned to lay in their requirements of coal without delay, in order to prevent hardship.

A similarly laudable object has its place in the operations of the life insurance business. The warning is published to the community that some households will be in dire need of not only coal, but food and clothing and all the other necessities of life in the coming months and years because of the fact that a number of the regular providers will assuredly die. No probably, but certainly, only uncertainty about it is as to which particular ones will die. No man can be unconcerned over the matter of how his family would manage should they be deprived of his services as provider. Hence the wisdom of making provision by means of life insurance so that in the event of being included in the list of those passing out of this world, one's dependents shall have the wherewithal to live, to maintain the home, and maintain the benefits of family life and education.

Unfortunately we will find some men who, whilst they will give heed to the Government warning about the probable coal shortage and follow his advice by laying in timely supplies for the winter, still will turn a deaf ear to what they must know is an even more serious warning the message of the life insurance agent who endeavors to influence them into making a family provision policy of reasonable amount. What a sensible man would consider it more important to provide one winter's coal for the household than to study the possible requirements of the household for many winters and summers, not in coal but in necessities (Canadian Insurance). Conserve the Home and Stabilize the Nation. Buy Insurance from the Great-West Life Assurance Company, the most popular policy "Made in Canada."

HYNDMAN & CO. LTD. FILMING ACETYLENE

Acetylene is one of the most wonderful substances in the world, and in order to make its marvels understood, a British firm has produced a kinematograph film which reveals many of the processes adopted in compressing and using the gas. The compression is done in cylinders which contain Kapok, a downy substance which is able to absorb an extraordinary amount of acetylene. In this form acetylene can be safely transported and employed in soldering, welding, and cutting metals and also in the manufacture of jewellery. One of the most remarkable features of the film was the picture given of the welding and cutting of metals. The kinematograph records were taken at an extraordinary high speed and very close up to the work, so that when the reproduction comes slowly, the actual flowing of the molten metal can be clearly seen.

SCOPE OF G. W. V. A. INVESTIGATION HAS BEEN WIDENED

OTTAWA, Aug 2—It is now reported that Colonel Ralston, of Halifax, may retire from the chairmanship of the royal commission which is to investigate the charges against the G. W. V. A. officials against the board of pension commissioners. At the organization meeting today it was found that the scope of the investigation would be much wider than anticipated and that the time necessary for carrying it out would be correspondingly extended. As a result of this meeting, it is understood Colonel Ralston and the other commissioners, Colonel Walter McKown, of Toronto, and Colonel Dubuc, of Montreal, had planned a conference with the premier

FEW Canadians are aware that among the landmarks of United States history that stand on Canadian soil is the house in which John Brown, of American civil war fame, hatched the conspiracy that led to his being hanged and that helped to precipitate the greater portion of the colored population.

In the latter 50's, however, Southwestern Ontario contained a large negro element, and many of the escaped slaves had established themselves in business and were ambitious, well-educated and well-to-do. So when "Ossawatimisi" Brown, nursing his darling scheme of freeing the slaves at a single stroke, looked about for supporters, he turned naturally to the negro settlements in Southwestern Ontario for funds and helpers.

These townsites are still shown on old maps, but the communities themselves unlike Topsy, never "grew" or, if they attained any proportions have, with one or two exceptions, long since dwindled into insignificance, with the departure of the greater portion of the colored population.

The Chatham structure is often carelessly referred to as "the Holden house." The owner, however, was a colored man named Eli Holden. Holden was present at the meeting held by John Brown. So was Isaac Holden, another prominent colored man. Both were big men, physically, and leaders in the colored community. E. C. Cooper and a little man named Harris, with several others, took part in the conference.

A few months later, Abraham Lincoln, at his Cooper Institute speech in New York, referred to Brown's following words: "John Brown's effort was peculiar. It was not a slave insurrection. It was an attempt by white men to get revolt among the slaves, in which slaves refused to participate. It was so absurd that the slaves themselves saw its futility and it could not succeed."

Within a little more than a year that speech, and within two years the raid, Lincoln was in the White House, and the Southern States were seceding. However thinking men condemn his folly, the Northern generally regarded Brown as a martyr, and "John Brown's body lies mouldering in the grave, but his goes marching on" became the song of the soldiers who were dead a few years later, to compel the reader at Appomattox of Brown's what little the public ultimately knew
