SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed with Sulphur it Brings Back its Beautiful Lustre at Once

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by using a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It flashes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so natural and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

MAINE TRAPPERS HAVE GONE TO THE WAR

Maine had, prior to 1915, about 20,000 men and boys engaged in fur hunting or trapping, says The Boston Transcript, either regularly and professionally or as a side line, but a loss of 5,000 of these have gone to war. Most employment at high wages in lumbering or some other industry that pays better than trapping. Thus the demand for domestic furs has been almost doubled, while the supply taking Maine as a fair example, has declined 25 per cent. The sensational advance in quotations since 1914 is shown in the comparative statement of prices paid to trappers for raw furs of first quality and large size:

	1914	1918
Fox	$ 4.00	$17.00
Raccoon	1.50	4.50
Bear	15.00	4.00
Skunk	1.35	5.00
Muskrat	20	1.00
Weasel	65	1.10
Wild Cat	2.50	6.50
Mink	4.50	10.00
Fisher	20.00	40.00
Lynx	10.00	30.00
Otter	20.00	30.00
Marten	4.00	10.00

Cross-bred foxes now sell up to $100 and black or silver up to $180, but there are so few of these animals that prices are high for the war.

Of Maine's present army, 15,000 trappers and hunters of fur-bearing animals, it is estimated that about 1,000 devote their entire time to that pursuit, and of these 256 are licensed to trap and hunt on the wild lands of the state, no licenses being required of those operating elsewhere.

Four thousand men and boys derive the greater part of their income from hunting and trapping and the remainder may be classed as amateurs or occasionalists. In former times the Maine trapper was a jealous and secretive fellow, "going in" all by himself and living the life of a hermit from mid-summer till March. The custom now is for three or four men to go in on shares, or at least camp together, for the sake of safety and sociability, as loneliness in the deep woods often has caused insanity. The location of the camp is never less than fifty miles from civilization. Not all the furs come from the deep woods and forest streams, as is popularly supposed. Many muskrats are killed along the marshes of Bangor and in Portland where is a colony of professional hunters who live within the limits and near muskrats, mink, skunks and other small animals within easy walking distance of home.

Maine dealers send their furs to New York for dyeing and dressing. Before the war this trade went largely to Germany. France and England, but now the big European fur centers have established plants on this side, chiefly in the borough of Brooklyn, while Americans have come into the business more extensively than ever before.

Maine furs are prized the world over for their distinctiveness, softness and smooth quality. Veterans in the business say that there is no sign of the Maine fur crop falling.

It is said that the raw furs annually brought to market in this state are worth about $1,000,000. A substantial part of this sum is in the hands of those engaged in the fur trade, but $4,000 as the cost of a stylish mink coat.

Militia Department Revives Old System

Returned Soldiers Air Commissions Prevalent Upon Minister To Resume M. H. C. Method

OTTAWA, March 12.—As the result of the representations made by the secretaries of the various provincial militia commissions to the Hon. S. C. Newburn, Minister of Militia, during the recent conference held at the headquarters of the Military Hospitals Commission in Ottawa, the military authorities have agreed to hold the returning soldiers long enough in the discharge depots at St. John, Halifax and Quebec, to secure their names and addresses of those whom they wish to notify by wire of their return.

The difficulties arising from the abolishment of the discharge depots as conducted by the Military Hospitals Commission has disrupted the work of the provincial committees seriously as well as caused a great hardship to the relatives of the men who have desired to welcome them home.

Uniform Name Taken

Secretary E. H. Scammell of the Military Hospitals Commission presided over the conference in which it was agreed that hereafter the provincial organizations should be uniformly designated "Returned Soldiers' Commissions," the name in each case to be preceded by the name of the province. The secretaries will be recognized channels of communication for complaints to the Militia Department. Heretofore such complaints have been forwarded to the Military Hospitals Commission through the provincial commissions and in turn passed on to the authority in question.

It was recorded as the opinion of the meeting that land granted to soldiers desiring to settle on the land should be within a reasonable distance from a railroad, and that the Government should be asked to make arrangements to buy land in any province whether it be federal land, the property of the province or privately owned.

The secretaries conferred with Mr. W. Sogsworth, administrator of the vocational work of the Military Hospitals Commission, who explained to them that the industrial surveys made by his department were not intended to tabulate employment possibilities, but to discover where facilities could be secured for training men in the factories.

He pointed out that in most cases men remained in the employment of the factories in which they were trained when their term of training had been completed.

BIG SCANDAL PENDING

ROME, March 11.—Investigations into the scandal arising from silk waste contraband trade are continuing not only here, but in Milan, Turin, Como, Genoa and other large towns. Several business men of great prominence, including the banker, Feltrinelli, one of the richest men in Italy, have been arrested.

A mass of incriminating evidence which has been collected undoubtedly will lead to other important arrests. It is said to have been established that, besides silk waste, cotton, flax, various other textiles and other goods vital in war, have been smuggled into Germany. The trade appears to have been carried on upon a tremendous scale.

The press unanimously demands that the trials be pressed at once and the punishment of the traitors be as severe as their offence.

Cincinnati man tells how to lift off any corn without hurting one bit

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called Freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn, the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts off with the fingers.

It is a sticky substance which dries the moment it is applied and is said to simply shrivel the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce of Freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You are further warned that cutting at a corn is a suicidal habit.
