Sport Echoes From Prince County

If the teams of the Prince Edward Island Baseball League continue to play the kind of ball the Abegweit and Curran & Briggs teams dished out in Charlottetown last Sunday, then the fellow who puts a nickel into the hat should feel a whole lot like Scrooge before he is reformed. This game was one to please the fans, if ever there was one. Possibly the fact that it was a decision contest may have disappointed supporters of each side, but every other way it was made-to-order. A scoreless draw can be a very bad affair. Especially if the pitchers have it all over the batters and the action consists chiefly of pop flies, easy rollers and strikeouts. Such was not the case in this game. True, the pitchers, McAleer and Bernard, pitched superbly. But they didn't have the stick wielders completely huddled as they were. The runs were quite frequently on the sprints, but each time the defence would come through with a smart play and the threatened rally would be choked off. The Charlottetown boys played errorless ball. The Curran & Briggs nine committed four, but when errors would have meant runs no miscues were committed. On the contrary, some brilliant plays were pulled off at times by both sides, plays which were necessary to the continuance of zeros on the score sheet. It was the kind of a game that time and time again you were breathless until a certain play was completed, so much hinged on the result of it.

Opportunities for two double plays presented themselves to the construction crew infield, but each time the boys muffed the chance. Curiously enough in neither case could an error be charged against the man at fault. The first time a double-play ball went down to Mackay at short. He was unaccountably felicitous in getting the throw to Bernard at the keystone sack, and this allowed the runner to first to cross the sack in front of the pitcher's feet. The second one was washed out when Syl Bernard in the position threw a wild heave to first allowing the runner to misplay the initial sack. Again, no error could be charged against Bernard for this, for rule 70 section 9 states: "An error shall not be charged against the catcher or an infielder who attempts to complete a double play, unless the throw be so wild that an additional base be gained." No additional base was gained in this case so Syl did not commit an error.

The Charlottetown infield, on the other hand, did complete two sparkling double-plays. "Whitlock to Stanley to Ryan" snuffed out two uprisings on the part of the C. & B. club.

Hank Landry whose hitting, by the way, together with that of his teammate Syl Bernard, furnished just about all the dynamite in the visitors' attack, made a spectacular and unorthodox catch in one of the extra innings. After a belated start, he came in flying from deep centre-field and caught the ball in his gloved hand which he held closely to his side. Catches of this type are rare. Not so difficult, perhaps, as the shoe-string catch, it was nevertheless a true catch. We were greatly impressed with two catches made by Henry Gallant in left field. The catches did not look as spectacular as Hank's, but getting into a position to make those catches took a lot of doing.

After seeing the R. C. A. F. Blue Sox go merrily along all summer in their victory polks, didn't we have to be absent when the lowly Holm nine came to town to be snuffed by the Blue Sox with a score of 12 to 3. Joe Bernard hit three for three, and Dave Lidstone hit two for three, to

Pet Show Held On King's Square Last Evening

Pets, dolls and scores of children joined forces last evening on King's Square to give young and old alike an evening's entertainment that could only be surpassed by a night at a circus. It was the pet show sponsored by the Playground Commission and along with dogs, kittens, turtles and hamsters there were all types of dolls and doll carriages on parade before an enthusiastic audience of parents and friends. Supervising the show was Roy MacGillivray, the Square's Supervisor while Miss Ethel Sutherland, Mr. George Ryan and Mr. J.T. Robinson represented the Playground Commission. Winners of the show were:

- Large Dogs: 1. Annette McQuaid (Lindy); 2. Paul Batchelder (Spot); 3. Arthur Burke (Blackie).
 - Small Dogs: 1. June Sherren (Red); 2. Don Llewellyn (Peggy); 3. Colby Brennan (Bax).
 - Kittens: 1. Sonia Griffin (Tiger); 2. Jeannette Arsenault (Pee Wee); 3. Ralph Beaton (Buttons).
 - Unusual Pets: 1. Noreen Mahar - Turtle; Mary Vessey - Hamster.
 - Dolls: 1. Elizabeth Thompson; 2. Nancy Lee; 3. Sandra Squarabriggs.
 - Doll Carriages: 1. Verna MacEachern; 2. Miriam Curtis; 3. Caroline Llewellyn.
- Judges for the show were: Miss Ethel Sutherland, Mrs. Frank Walker and Jack Cameron.

Kinkora Wins Ball Game At Summerside

The Kinkora Intermediate ball club defeated the Summerside Kinsmen Midgets at the High School diamond in Summerside last night by the score of 10 to 3. Two midget fingers, Clive MacDonald and Kenny Grant were unable to locate the plate, the former walking two and hitting two and the latter walking two and throwing six wild pitches. Because of all this wildness seven Kinkora runs crossed the plate in the first two innings. In the last half of the second, R. McIvor starting Kinkora pitcher, caught the contagion of lack of control, walking three batters, hitting one and heaving three very wild pitches over the catcher's head. The Kinsmen Midgets scored five times in this hectic session, making the score read 7 to 5. Everett Gallant, bantam-aged moundsman did the pitching chores for the Midgets from the third inning on and did a surprisingly effective job, striking out five, walking only one and hitting one. The Kinkora boys added a run in the third, however, and two in man, 21-year-old singles champion of Australia, showed matchless form in all departments. After today's matches, it was announced Mackin will pair with Walter Stohberg, 27, of Vancouver, in the doubles match tomorrow against the powerful-stroking Sedgman and lanky John Bromwich, 30, ambidextrous playing captain of the Australian squad. Stohberg and Bromwich sat out today's matches along with the other member of Canada's team, Lorne Main of Vancouver, the 19-year-old player who handles a racket with a double grip. Mackin, playing the best tennis of his career, lived up to pre-match notices that he was most the sixth to bring their total to ten while the home boys were unable to score against McCarville who relieved McIvor for Kinkora in the third inning. McCarville led the hitting parade for both teams, getting three hits in three trips to the plate. A Farmer batted two for four and Shreenan had two singles in three trips. Ed Dalton's spearing of a line drive over second base in the first inning was the fielding gem of the contest.

YOU CAN'T BUY A BETTER MOTOR OIL

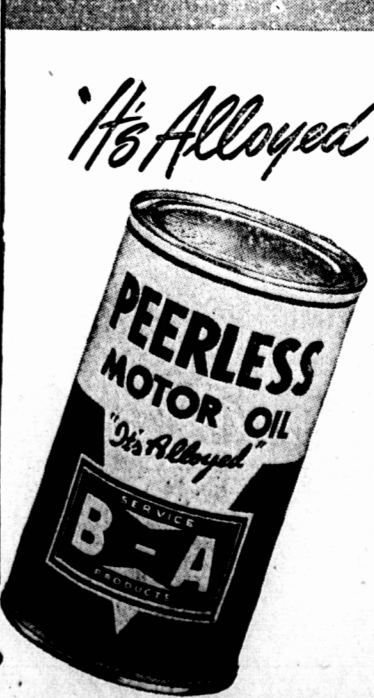

Not one but the three things you want most in a motor oil can be found in PEELESS: 1. PERFORMANCE: PEELESS maintains cleaner working parts in engines and provides faster heat transfer from hot engine surfaces. 2. QUALITY: PEELESS is refined from carefully selected crude oils, and to the refined product, certain protective agents are added to produce the PEELESS Alloyed Oil.* 3. ECONOMY: Economy starts with better lubrication. PEELESS reduces friction and heat caused by metal-to-metal contact, thus reducing the causes of many motor failures.

"Peerless certainly has what it takes for hot summer driving—motors run cooler—and longer—with fewer expensive repairs," says Dollard Marchand, Marchand Automobile Co., Magog, Que.

"I wish every motorist could realize, like a mechanic does, the benefits of using Peerless. It pays off in cold cash," states Gordon Gibson of Gibson's Service Station, Main and Hawthorne Sts., Ottawa, Ontario.

"Our Peerless customers never seem to have very big repair bills. There certainly must be something to the Peerless economy story," says W. T. A. "AB" FLAVELLE, President, Mer-Lin Motors Ltd., Saskatoon, Sask.

* To improve Peerless Motor Oil, chemical agents are combined with refined mineral oils to form the alloy. The added protection given to the oil by the "alloying agents" increases its resistance to high engine temperatures—helps protect engines from corrosive acids—keeps them cleaner.
