THRILLING EXPERIENCE OF WOUNDED ISLANDER

Mr. John Misner, Stanhope, has received the following letter from his son, who was badly wounded, and who is now in an English hospital:

Aug. 29.

Dear father:—Just a few lines to let you know that I am feeling not too bad after all I went through. My wound is healing up fast; of course, I am still in bed, and likely to be for a while yet. I was in an hospital first in France, then they sent me across to England and we are in a good hospital here. I have a lovely Sister and nurse to wait on me, and the people are awfully nice; they bring me cigarettes and fruit, etc. Well, I was in Belgium five months; had some pretty rough times of it, saw some big fighting, and was in it, and did my share. I saw a lot of Germans and must have shot a lot of them, for I took good aim. I was in that big battle at Ypres in June, and in another big one in May, but it only lasted three days. I came through them well till the 11th of August. I was sent to Hill 60, and was there one day when the row commenced, and about half past seven one of our fellows got hit, and the shelling was so bad we could not get to our stretcher-bearers, so I volunteered for one to go, and on my way I was hit in the back. That was about eight o'clock in the morning. A corporal friend of mine tied a bandage round my waist, and I had another spell shooting; then I got sick and went and lay down till dark. I could not eat. The doctor says I saved my own life by not eating, but I drank about a gallon of water. Then walked about three miles, and that was the last I knew till I woke up in a hospital in France. I was awful sick for a while my temperature was 105, but it is back to normal again, thank God. This is a navy hospital I am in. Tell the girls I don't feel able to write them now. Well, dad, I think this is a rather long letter, so I will say goodbye, From your loving son Lea.

BODIES OF DEAD STARK NAKED

TORONTO, Sept. 11—Describing the effects of the British bombardment of the German positions at Guillemont, the correspondent of Reuter's Telegraph Company at the British headquarters in France says:

"The ground to the east of the village was strewn with German dead. The corpses in many cases were stark naked, every stitch of clothing having been blasted off them. A very large proportion of these bodies showed no signs of wounds, and there is little doubt that the men were killed by the intense concussion. Even in dugouts, with which the place was warrened, few men escaped the bombardment, and those who did said their nerves were destroyed by the terrific pounding of the British guns."
