DR. McPHAIL'S POTATOES.

cess were the failures. The causes of them required further investigation. The great difficulty they had to contend with was "scab." This, he said, was induced or aggravated by various substances which have been added to the soil, lime, ash, shell. Certain areas showed the result of ashes which had been in the ground for seventy years. This fall they were burying all the "manure" by deep ploughing to bring to the surface fresh soil. If this did not remedy the evil, then there was no use, so far as he could see, contending further with the impossible. Other soil must be sought.

The principle underlying success in farming, he said, was to find out what any given soil was best suited for, and then make it do its work. The theory of rotation of crops violated this principle, by using the land to produce crops for which by nature it was never intended. Besides, manure which would help one crop was fatal to another. For example, potatoes require a "poor," sandy soil with hard subsoil, in which grain and grass will not thrive. Was afraid that the soil along the rivers was too heavy and rich for potatoes, and it might be necessary to select the "poor" land which was found in the hilly districts in the interior or along the sea-shore.

The potato, he said, was at once the easiest and most difficult to grow; the most profitable and the most liable to end in a loss. That was why it was so interesting.

Potato growing was also the most pleasant or the most disagreeable work of the farm,—pleasant on a sunny September day with white, clean potatoes lying in rows, at the rate of 400 bushels to the acre, and worth 35 cents a bushel in the market; but very unpleasant on a cold October day, scabbed and rotten and fit only for "feed." When farming is made "pleasant" the boys will stay on the farm.

"In the light of your experience," Dr. MacPhail was asked, "would you advise farmers to devote more attention to growing potatoes?" "Farmers are receiving so much ill-considered advice from theoretical farmers," he replied, "that I should hesitate to add to their burden, but it might be worth watching our experiment next year with 25 acres. "Is there any money in growing potatoes with so much care?"

"That question can be best answered by our neighbors who were good enough to supply us with several lots to fill orders which we accepted under the impression that our own yield would be better than it was."

Dr. MacPhail said that the facilities for shipment by rail and steamer from Prince Edward Island were unsurpassed. The rates were reasonable, and the agents took as much care over a consignment as if it were their own.

The practice has been to exclude rigidly barn-yard manure from the fields and to employ commercial fertilizer instead, using the same ground year after year. If at any future time there would appear to be a lack of humus it is proposed to supply it by one crop of clover or by sea-weed. They compound their own fertilizer from nitrate of soda, sulphate of potash, and basi slag, using about 800 pounds to the acre which costs $16.00. Their experience with the Bordeaux mixture was inconclusive and unsatisfactory. Indeed they had serious doubts as to whether in their hands it was of any value whatever. They think that success lies primarily in the selection of seed, that is of tubers growing under tops to which is attached the original set which had been planted in the spring. If this set was not perfectly sound in the fall it was evidence that there were the elements of rot in the potato whether it could be detected or not.

QUEBEC POLITICAL SITUATION.

ST JOHN'S, Que., Nov. 18.—A definite opening was given by the Government to a campaign throughout the Province to oppose the Bourassa Anti-Naval propaganda. Mr. Brodeur was chief speaker on Saturday and made a fighting speech in which he declared that he had prepared the Naval Bill and regarded it as the best and most important measure presented to Parliament during the Laurier regime.

Mr. Bourassa, the Nationalist Leader, is absent in Europe.
