In consequence of the above the car ferry was held up for a long time not through any fault of the officers o the ship of course.

EMERALD NOTES.—The snow which fell last Sunday has disappeared again and people are given a chance to get their turnips in and prepare for real winter. Mr. Philip Monaghan has almost finished ploughing The Kelly Farm. Mr. Monaghan ploughs with a tractor, and it don't take him long to "turn over a farm". Mr. Peter T. Power, Station Agent at St. Peter's Bay, is spending his holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Power. He is accompanied by Mrs. Power and their little daughter Mary. Miss Mary Duffy, housekeeper for Mr. R. McDonald, Freetown) has returned to her duties after spending a week visiting friends in Emerald Shamrock, Kinkora, Maple Plains and Newton. Her many friends are glad to see Mary looking so well and happy. Miss Celia Monaghan of Providence, R. I., who has been visiting friends in Emerald and Kinkora left on return on Tuesday morning. Miss Monaghan is a trained singer of high repute and sang most beautifully O'Salutaris in St. Malachai's Church, Kinkora on Sunday last during Benediction. She was accompanied on her return by her cousin, Mr. Jerome Monaghan of the S. C. R. Service South Boston who also was home on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Monaghan of Kelly's Cross and to his sisters and brothers in Emerald, Misconeche, Villshire and Charlottetown. The dance held in Emerald Hall on Friday evening last under the auspices of B. I. S. was a grand success. When it was known that Mr. James Kelly, Kinkora, was to furnish the music it meant volumes of advertising. Everyone knew there would be a good time and certainly were not disappointed. Mr. Kelly was ably assisted on Mandolin by Mr. C. Doiron and also by organ accompaniment. Lunch was served in Dominion Hotel by Miss Mary Croken in fine style. Although Miss Croken has only just started in the Hotel business everything was up to date and to bespeak for her a share of the patronage of the travelling public.

How R. L. S. Scandalized the People of Samoa.

While Robert Louis Stevenson was in Samoa he once organized a paper chase on horseback for a Sunday's amusement. Greatly to the indignation and the discomfort of the Samoan pastors, he careered noisily through the native villages at the hour of worship in company with a number of young officers from the men-of-war in the harbor and the clerks and others connected with the German Plantation Company.

"I believe," writes Mr. W. E. Clarke in the Yale Review, "that he persuaded himself at the moment that he was acting rightly—that it was better for these young men to be so employed than to be engaged in their usual Sabbath occupations. A day or two later he sent an invitation to my wife and me to dine at Vailima. I declined, pleading that I had too much work, but really feeling too angry with him; my wife, however, went and explained that I had too much affection for him to quarrel, and that I was feeling too vexed to ignore the matter. "R. L. S." attempted to justify himself, but my wife would not listen.

"I have no doubt you can easily silence me in argument" said she, "but you know quite well that you did wrong. What would Samoa be like without a Sabbath? And have you no thought of the effect of your conduct upon the natives, who regard you as a Christian man and as our friend; and do you, moreover, think you have set a dignified example to the young Englishmen and Germans here?"

"R. L. S. stood tugging at his moustache during this fusilade. After several minutes he turned round and, holding out his hand, exclaimed, "Forgive me, Mrs. Clarke; you are quite right, and I was altogether wrong! I regret it with all my heart." 'Well,' my wife, looking significantly at a group of Germans on the veranada, "you must prove your contrition."

"Advancing towards them R. L. S. remarked that he had just been expressing his regret for the part they took in the paper chase on Sunday. "I am sure," he added, "that you feel with me that we were altogether wrong and setting an extremely bad example to the Beach." At that moment one of the young British naval officers rode up, and my wife remarked, "There is your second opportunity; you owe it to our own country."

"Ah!" replied he, "Now you ask me something much harder, but I'll do it." And, greeting the young officer, he went on to say with that charm of manner so entirely his own, "I was just expressing to these gentlemen my contrition and regret that we should have allowed ourselves to forget our principles as we did last Sunday; we all did wrong, and I have been apologizing to Mrs. Clarke for the pain we must have caused our missionary friends. I am sure that I express the feelings of us all when I assure her we shall not so transgress again.'

"To make such an avowal in a place like Apia, where most of the white population systematically disregard the Sabbath, required moral courage. News travels quickly along the "Beach." Before night it was known in every German household and in the wardroom of every gunboat in the bay that R. L. S. had openly expressed his penitence for the misspent Sunday."

Are You Sure Your Children's Eyes Are Right?

A responsibility rests upon every parent to give his child every possible advantage in life; to give the child the best of weapons with which to meet the struggle of the years ahead. Surely good eyesight is "the priceless gift" that your child should have. Remember that poor eyesight means poor concentration and will retard the youngster's progress. Many a child considered dull or lazy in school or music studies has simply been suffering from defective vision. And ofter correct glasses have changed entirely the record of performance. Perhaps your youngster's report-card is reflecting the presence of eye-strain. Perhaps you are not doing your own child full justice. Have an examination made and know. Consult

The car had broken down, and the pair of legs protruding from beneath seemed to indicate repairs.

"Had a bust up?" inquired a passerby.

"Oh, no; only playing hide and seek with the works!" came in muffled tones from the voice belonging to the legs.

But the questioner was not easily daunted.

"What power car is it?"

"Forty-horse."

"What's up with it, anyway?"

"Well, as far as I can see," answered the car's owner, "thirty-nine of the horses have bolted, and the remaining one is too upset to answer questions!"
