Appointment of Robert Taschereau to the Supreme Court of Canada fills the vacancy created by death recently of Mr. Justice L. A. Cannon.

Two Accused On Stand In Burglary Case

Remanded to the Supreme Court for trial some days ago on a charge of unlawful breaking and entering by night in an attempt to steal, George Smith and Francis McDougall appeared before Judge C. G. Duffy later, and elected to be tried summarily.

The trial opened yesterday morning before Judge Duffy, both the accused pleading "not guilty."

Appearing without counsel, the presiding judge appointed Mr. J. A. McDonald to defend the accused. Mr. C. St. Clair Trainor appeared for the Crown.

Witnessed heard yesterday were: Theodore MacArthur, Eleanor Burdette, Constable Dowling and Constable Webster of the City Police. Both the aaccused also testified.

Theodore MacArthhur testified that he lived in house 97 Sydney St., which had been entered. He described the plan of the house stating that it was a dwelling house with a store on one side of it. He told of going to bed about 11.30 P. M. on the night of Jan. 24th and being awakened about 2.30 the next morning by Eleanor Burdette, who was sleeping on a day bed in the dining room below, and being informed that the Police were down stairs. He went down and found the doors open and a window in the back porch missing. There was glass on the ground, he said.

Saw Beam of Light

Witness then told of locking the doors and lying down in the day bed while Miss Burdette remainded upstairs with Mrs. MacArthur. About 20 minutes later he heard a rustle and noticed a beam of light shining through the keyhole in the kitchen. When he got out and turned on the light he heard running in the yard and men's voices, witness testified. He raced through the house to the front door. He saw two men running down Pownal St. They were headed off at the corner by two Policemen, but one of the men ran back and was captured by the witness.

Eleanor Burdette told of being awakened by a noise and thought that someone was at the kitchen window. Witness testified that she heard glass smashing and saw two men running through the gangway. She told of the arrival of the Police and of going up and waking Theodore MacArthur.

Tells Of Arrest

Constable Augustus Dowling of the City Police, told of patrolling Sydney on the night of the break and seeing two men running into the gangway of 97 Sydney St. They had no overcoats. Constable Webster was with the witness and they watched for a few minutes, then hailed a passing taxi and went to the Police station. Two other Policemen, Sergeant Watson Higgins and Constable Lawrence McInnis, returned with them. These two left after a while and Webster and Dowling searched the nearby gangways. Witness told of finding the window at the side of the house where it had been placed. He said that while the four officers were there, he and Constable McInnis had gone into the house and talked to Eleanor Burdette.

After searching the gangways, witness in company with Webster walked down Pownal St. and saw a light in the home of George Smith. They listened outside and heard voices, he testified, and a little later MacDougall and Smith came out and proceeded towards Sydney St. The Police trailed and watched them turn into Sydney St. A short time later the men came running down towards the corner and witness and Webster grabbed Smith. MacDougall ran back and was chased and caught by Webster and MacArthur.

Smith said, "I'm licked, Gus," when he was caught and when witness went to take what he described as a flashlight from him, the accused gave a jerk and escaped. He was arrested at 7 o'clock the same morning.

Constable Webster corroborated the evidence of Constable Dowling and when cross examined said that he had not heard the other officer tell MacDougall, on the way to the Police Station, that he was arrested for breaking and entering. He testified that when MacDougall was asked by the sergeant at the station what he was arrested for, MacDougall answered, "for breaking and entering."

Accused Testifies

George Smith testified that he had been drinking with MacDougall on the night of the 24th. He fell asleep on a couch and did not wake until 3 a. m. the next morning, he said. MacDougall had also fallen asleep, witness said and they were out of smokes when he woke up. They decided to go up to Andy McLeod's to get something to smoke, MacLeod lived next door to MacArthur and he had been drinking with him that day, witness said. Entering the gangway, he heard a noise, witness said and thinking it was the Police he ran down the street and was captured at the corner. Cross examined he said that he ran because he had a "teddy" of alcohol. Witness said that it was this "teddy" and not a flashlight that Constable Dowling had tried to take from him. He admitted that he had been in Police Court on several occasions on different charges.

Francis MaacDougall corroborated the evidence of Smith and said that he had not used the chisel produced in court to open the window. It had been found in his pocket but was used to open a cellar hatch in Smiths house.

The case was adjourned until Tuesday for further evidence.

To The Electors Of The City Of Ch'Town

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

As you are aware I am offering as a Candidate for the Mayoralty in the coming Civic Election.

I am appealing to the voters on the following grounds:

1. My lengthy service in behalf of the City, extending over a period of ten years.
2. My advocacy of improved lighting at lessened rates to all light consumers. This result was achieved.
3. My insistence on an external audit from 1932 onward. The Council minutes of March 14th, 1932 and April 12th, 1932, will show my stand in this regard.
4. If honored by you I shall endeavour to see that all tax arrears are collected. It is imperative that all Citizens pay their taxes in order that the tax rate may be reduced.
5. I promise strict enforcement of all City laws.
6. I shall endeavour to the utmost of my ability to give the best possible government.

As time will not permit me to interview you personally, I take this opportunity to respectfully solicit your support.

I am, yours faithfully,
B. ROY HOLMAN.

Budding Talent

Royal Air Force squadron listening somewhere in England brought down the house.

"If you guys are going to sing," it said, "for blankety blank sake don't say where you are as we do not want to spend the night driving off enemy air raiders."

Among the stars whose talent was brought to the fore by the show was Toront's singing waiter, Private Jack Cunningham, of the 48th Highlanders who scored a great success with his swing version of Loch Lomon and Annie Laurie. There was yodelling by Private Arthur Denike, of Picton, Ont., who dedicated his efforts to "honey baby." When the laughter had subsided Arthur explained he had actually been addressing his wife.

Other contributors to the program were Private Chuck Stewart, Royal Canadian Regiment, a harmonica player of London, Ont., Lieut H. S. Hadwin of the First Division Signals, also of London, a pianist, Sergeant Robert Young, Hastings, Prince Edward Regiment, Picton Ont., Gunners Oscar Rochon, Montreal, and Roy Morris Henry Baisley, and E. Taylor all of Moncton, N. B.

The boys gave three rousing cheers and a tiger for "what the people of England have done for us" but you should make it your business to tune in Monday to hear how the boys tore off the roof with cheers for the "folks back home."

Halifax had only a few snow squalls but the storm struck severely in Cape Breton, crippling vehicular traffic. Street car service between Sydney and Glace Bay was far off schedule and trains were late. Numerous minor auto collisions were reported.

PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1, LIQUOR, SPEAKING

"I have killed more men than have fallen in all the wars of the world.

"I have turned men into brutes.

"I have made millions of homes unhappy.

"I have transformed ambitious youths into hopeless parasites

"I make smooth the downward path for countless millions.

"I destroy the weak and weaken the strong.

"I make the wise man a fool and trample the fool in his folly.

"I ensnare the innocent.

"I have ruined millions and shall try to ruin millions more.

"I am the greatest criminal in history.

"The abandoned wife knows me; the hungry children know me; the parents whose child has bowed their gray heads in sorrow and shame known me."

FIRST PROHIBITION SPEECH

Worthy of at least passing comment is a statement made by Miss Bertha Mapes, Chairman of the Speakers' Committee of the Prohibition Educational League of Bronx County, that the first prohibition speech in America was made by an Indian more than 126 years ago. According to Miss Mapes, at a yearly meeting held in December, 1801, by the Quakers of Baltimore, an Indian Chief appeared with the Committee on Indians, and in his speech begged the Quakers to use their influence with Congress to induce that body to enact laws forbidding the sale of liquor. The Chief is quoted in part thus:

"Our brothers and friends: We plainly perceive, brothers, that you see every evil that destroys your red brother. It is not an evil, brothers, of our making; we have not placed it amongst ourselves, it is an evil placed among us by the white people; we look up to them to remove it.

"If they have the friendship for us which you tell us they have, they certainly will not let it continue amongst us any longer. We tell them, 'Brothers, send us useful things, bring goods that will clothe us, our women and our children, but not this evil liquor, that destroys our reason, that destroys our health, that destroys our lives.'

"This liquor they introduced into our country is more to be feared than the gun and the tomahawk."
—THE MONITOR.

THIS IS NO JOKE

Kansas, a pioneering State in the cause of prohibition, is made the butt of many jokes It is no joke, however, what Kansas has reaped as a result of its bone-dry law. In Kansas there are: Fifty-four counties without any insane; fifty-four counties without any feeble minded; ninety-six counties without any poorhouses; fifty-three counties without any representatives in the State Penitentiary.

MEXICO'S IDEAS

Recently 20,000 young people marched through the streets of Mexico City carrying banners of protest against the use of strong drink. The marchers represented the city's school children, from the primary grades to college. The teaching of public health through the school is one of the main projects of the Mexican Government; and in this drive the harmful effects of the use of alcoholic liquors is stressed. President Cardenas stands strongly behind this movement, looking upon intemperance as one of the worst enemies of his people. Before the parade the young people were addressed by three Government officials, all of whom expressed and stressed temperance as the first requisite of good health. Dr. Lleqh, chief of the Department of Health, characterized intemperance as a vice which is a symbol of degeneracy, poverty, crime and moral and economic enslavement.—Ex.

A HALF TEASPOONFUL

Ida B. Wise Smith, National president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, estimated today a half teaspoonful of beer would give her "tunnel vision."

"Tunnel vision," she said, "is a visual condition which prevents an automobile driver from seeing anywhere but straight in front of him.

"Two glasses of beer produce it in the average person. That much alcohol also cuts his reaction in half and confuses traffic light colors.

"Of course, it might take three glasses for some people. Probably a half teaspoonful would get me. I've never had any.

"It's the drinking driver, not the drunken driver, who's a highway menace," she said. "The 'drunk's' friends won't let him drive. It's the man who's had a few beers or a cocktail who's dangerous." —Ex.
