REPRESENTING AUXILIARY.—Mrs. Malcolm McLeod of Lorne Valley representing the Women's Auxiliary of the Island Federation of Agriculture will be one of the delegates present at the meetings of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture which opens at Brookville Ont. on January 26th. Through an error Mrs. McLeod's name appeared in yesterday's issue as Mrs. Lorne McLeod.

RESUMED STUDIES.—The following students have returned to resume studies having spent the holidays at their homes in North West: Marjorie Gallant, Notre Dame Academy, Elsie Doyle, Tignish Convent, Ida Doyle, Kinross Convent, Ronald Blackmore, St. Dunstan's University, Alyre Pines to Montreal, Noel Gauthier and Edgar LeClair to St. Joseph's University.

SNOW TROUBLES LINEMEN.—About 25 different private telephone circuits were temporarily out of commission through the City yesterday, due to heavy snow fall during Tuesday night and on Wednesday. It was reported from the Island Telephone Company last night. Maintenance crews were out during yesterday making necessary repairs and the majority of the circuits were back to normal late in the day, but crews were continuing on last night to clear up the balance of the trouble. No reports of trouble were received from the rural districts.

RECEIVED SAD NEWS.—Mrs. John A. Murray, Clyde River, received a telegram on Tuesday afternoon, January 6th, that her aunt, Miss Isabella MacKenzie of Wayland, Mass. had passed away that morning. Miss MacKenzie was the last surviving member of a family of seven. Her eldest sister Mrs. Jane MacDonald, Breadalbane, passed away last June at the age of 96. She was the daughter of the late Hugh MacKenzie and his wife Catherine MacIntosh, who immigrated to this Province in the year 1868 from Uigg, Scotland. Miss MacKenzie has made her home in Wayland, Mass. for the past 60 years, but has made many visits to her native province in the meantime. Burial took place in Wayland, Mass. Thursday afternoon.

L. M. MONTGOMERY L.O.B.A. BREADALBANE ANNUAL MEETING.—The annual meeting of L. M. Montgomery L. O. B. A. Breadalbane was held recently with a good attendance of members present. Reports of the year's work were given by Mrs. Jean Hickox, Treasurer and Mrs. Beatrice Graham, Secretary. The following officers were elected and installed for the coming year: W. M.—Mrs. Isabelle Somers; President—Mrs. Irene Williams; J. D. M.—Miss Christine MacPherson; Chaplain—Mrs. Violet Cousins; R. Sec.—Mrs. Jean Hicks; P. Sec.—Mrs. Agnes Seaman; Treas.—Mrs. Lillian MacDonald; Guardian—Mr. William Graham; D. of C.—Mrs. Florence MacLeod; S. Lec.—Mrs. Beatrice Graham; D. Lec.—Mrs. Isabelle Somers; Flanist—Mrs. Agnes Morrison; I. G.—Miss Annie MacDonald; O. G.—Mr. Lorne Seaman; Standing Committee—Mr. Charles Williams, Mrs. Mary Corbett, Mrs. Louis Corbett. The retiring, Mr. Mrs. Mary Graham congratulated the members on the splendid work done during the past year. After the close of the meeting, a delicious supper was served, a beautiful birthday cake adorning the table this being the third anniversary of the organization of this lodge.

Ellen's Diary
By an Island Farmer's Wife

"She's well!" I asked "Oh, yes fair but not so chipper as once." Her he chuckled "wanted me to sharpen the scissors this morning." "Oh?" I said. "Yes, guess she must be intending to do some hooking pretty soon. Sent with me for a package or two of dye, but I'm pretty darned if I didn't forget whether she wanted it for wool or cotton. Turkey red, she wanted and dark green. She said too but my memory's not the best some times." I could give him no help and it amused me to recall similar experiences with James setting out to do like commissions for me. "Ellen James is apt to say when he has returned from such shopping 'what was it you sent for?' But I marked everything on the list, James' I answer. "The list" James will repeat, and commence in a small boy's way to search his pockets but I couldn't find any list. I couldn't have taken it — or else I lost it. No" he will say in much surprise "why here it is! Well, if that isn't the strangest thing! And you need what you sent for very badly? Oh well, you'll likely be to a store soon yourself and you'll know better than I what you want." So James dismisses such shopping of mine lightly.

Then Link resumed his conversation with James. "Guess" he said "I should have kept one of them pigs for a sow. Intended to, but prospects weren't too bright at the time. Suppose I'll be able to pick up a few in the Spring." James shifted uneasily in his armchair, a sign that his mind was straying to the work out of dops. "With luck, we'll be having some" he offered. Not for a spell yet. Can't say exactly when" and in a familiar move his eye strayed to a calendar. And presently they were off, James to his choring and Link homeward because he must "be off the road before dark." And as I said to James at supper after wards "to think I never asked him, the size of the mat she is going to make nor the design she intends to use?" James looked up from the bit of stew we were having, which though made from odds and ends, was hot and appetizing and asked suspiciously "And what difference to you what sort of a mat she makes? I hope, Ellen" he remarked so seriously that I fancied a
