PRETTY WEDDING—A very pretty wedding was solemnized recently at the Immaculate Conception Church at Palmer Road when Miss Margaret Gillis, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Gillis became the bride of Byron MacKenzie, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Walsh performed the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass. The bride was becomingly gowned in royal blue chiffon velvet with matching accessories. Her cousin, Miss Marjorie Fitzgerald, was bridesmaid and wore a lovely dress of wine crepe. Mr. Alton O'Brien was groomsmen. The wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Charles MacAliduff. In the evening a reception and dance was given in honor of the young couple at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank MacKenzie, Elmsdale, also a sister of the bride. SEARLETON YOUNG PEOPLE'S CONCERT—The Young People's Union at Searleton put on an excellent Christmas concert last Christmas week. Rev. Arthur Organ presided. There were two plays, one by the Middleton group and the other by Searleton talent. The concert opened with a chorus "Ain't You Glad it's Christmas Time"; followed by a humorous song by Mr. and Mrs. Santa, Christmas ain't what it used to be. The Middleton group next presented the play, a two act comedy drama, entitled "Pinnegan's Hat." The play was based on the principle that families can have a little Christmas with very little money. The actors all took their parts well and received much applause. A reading by Miss Dorothy MacParlane and a sash drill by 6 boys and girls, came next on the program. A jolly chorus "Deck the Halls with Boughs of Holly"; and a song, "Up on the House Top"; by the little girls. Searleton then acted on their play, "Christmas Desires," a drama in which it is shown that the humblest beggar can sometimes shape our destiny. This play was also well acted and well received by the audience. The complimentary remarks by the chairman and the National Association.

Comment On Jail Disturbance

Sounds of revelry at night—the night was Christmas Eve—proclaimed to neighbors and others within a radius of one block from the Prince County Jail in Summerside that certain inmates of the local Bastille were celebrating—not the great Christian festival, but by all indications a holiday in honor of Bacchus—the Roman god of wine. Some one, following a custom that came into vogue a few years ago under a former Liberal administration, and became somewhat contagious, brought a generous supply of liquid demotion into the said detention institute. As in advertising, it is results that count; so it was in this case, the accruing results being rather varied. From sampling generous portions of the red-eyed "forget-me-not," some of the boys were outside their cells in the basement, developed a spirit of playfulness that took the form of smashing some of the locks of the said cells, utilizing, it is said, an axe for the purpose. Rumor hath it that they afterwards consigned the axe to the furnace. Then the spirit of playfulness was succeeded by that of belligerency and from stand-up demonstrations in the art of trying to exterminate one another by the fistful method to that of exchanging fusilades of beer barrel scraps at each other, the celebration was not devoid of interest until the arrival of members of the police force, who convincingly proved to the celebrants by muscular demonstration that the interior of the cells were still available for occupancy. Neighbors paid very little attention to the celebration at first, thinking perhaps that it was probably something extra-special advertised as a popular brand of ale on sale at the Government liquor stores in this Province.—Summerside Journal.

Reads And Writes Lesson Upside Down

GRAND ETANG N. S., Dec. 28 (CP)—Ten-year-old Adelard Cormier of this little northern Inverness County village looks wistfully out his schoolroom windows these days and wishes his reading-writing-and-arithmetic wasn't quite so upside down.

For upside down it has been since the first started in Grade One at Ruiseau de Lac school four years ago. And all the efforts of his teachers have not succeeded in leading him off an inclination to read a book at an ordinary impossible angle, begin writing a sentence at the right-hand side of a page or write figures or combinations of figures in reverse.

Occasionally they succeed but the next day Adelard slips back to the easier—for him—method. Nor does any language matter. Both French and English are taught in schools of this predominantly Acadian district and he reads an English reader upside down with as much ease as he does a French one.

Alexander D. Doucet, his teacher for the last two years, said: "It's the most baffling problem I've ever encountered. Outwardly the boy seems to be normal and average with the sole exception that he is left-handed. He seems to have good reasoning power and I believe if he were given an intelligence test he'd prove to be of average intelligence."

"When he first came to me, he came in class with his book upside down and began to read his lesson with it that way. Gradually I managed to get him to read with his book in a normal position but he reads, he reads by rote and could read with the book at any angle. "He doesn't seem to be able to distinguish between the individual words at all. As far as sentences are concerned, if it is something he has seen before, he may get the story provided he is told the first word. He has the same difficulties in French as in English."

"At first he tried to write from the right-hand side of the page as well as read from that side. He was corrected and gradually overcame this, but even to this day if he is left to himself too long he will start writing that way again. For example, in writing the number '10' he will transpose the figures."

And Adelard himself is sure he would like school a lot better and find it a lot easier if he wrote and read like the other boys.

Stream-Lined Cow Seen As Need

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP)—A stream-lined cow was cited as one of the needs of the United States milk industry at a tri-state dairy conference here today.

Asserting that one of the main problems of the industry was cutting production costs, John Snyder of the Pennsylvania Milk Control Board remarked: "The 1,300-pound cow must go."

one brother, Rich Lord of Tryon and a sister, Mrs. George Hannant of Wassa, B. The funeral which was largely attended was held in Cape Traverse United Church following a brief service at the home, and was conducted by his pastor, Rev. Arthur Organ of Bedeque, assisted by Rev. Fred M. Young of Tryon. The hymns sung were Lead Kindly Light and Abide With Me. Rev. Arthur Organ singing very impressively the solo, "The Ninety and Nine." Interment was in the cemetery at Tryon.

The December meeting of the Cape Traverse Women's Missionary Society, which was also the annual meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Leigh Lowther with an attendance of fourteen members, the president, Mrs. Joseph Cutcliffe, being in the chair. Mrs. Frank Mutart and Mrs. Gordon Harvey. The following officers were elected for the coming year. The holiday bags were opened and a nice sum realized. A social hour was enjoyed and a delicious lunch served by the hostess.

The Christmas Candle service "The Light of the World," presented by the Junior Choir of the United Church last Sunday evening under the leadership of Rev. Arthur Organ, vividly illustrated the truth that from the one candle on the altar, representing Jesus, each individual, large or small, might light his candle, letting his light so shine before the world. The members of the junior choir, each bearing a lighted candle entered and took their places while by the Junior Choir, "O Come, All Ye Faithful," "Silent Night" was sung very impressively and candles were placed in the windows, symbolizing the diffusion of the gospel light through the community, while the junior choir sang "Away in a Manger," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear" and "O Little Town of Bethlehem." Candles were also lighted throughout the congregation, all the candles having their light from the one candle on the altar. Mr. Organ gave a brief address on "The Significance of Christmas" under three headings viz. God's Interest in human affairs, God revealed himself intelligently that we might understand, When God revealed himself he had a purpose. Mrs. Organ played a very beautiful violin solo O Holy Night. After an impersonation of "Three Kings of the Orient" during the singing of "We Three Kings of Orient Are" the service closed with the hymn "Thou didst leave thy throne." Much credit is due the pianist, Mrs. Ralph Tombs who very capably assisted in training the Junior Choir.

28—(CP)—A freight-laden airplane landed at this brand new gold mining town today, but nobody paid much attention to it. Planes come and go continually. Had it not been for modern transportation methods, there wouldn't have been a town at all.

For Favorable Lake owes its existence to the airplane. Four or five, in fact. Bit by bit, almost stone by stone, the town was transported from Winnipeg, 350 miles to the south-west, the four planes operating through a relay base at Berens River, Man., 140 miles west of here on Lake Winnipeg.

When a large mining company decided to favor large-scale operations at Favorable Lake, things began to hum. No road leads to this isolated lake in north-western Ontario. The nearest railway is far to the south. Everything necessary to working a gold mine had to be taken in by air.

From dawn to dusk through the fall and winter months, pilots of Wings, Limited, Winnipeg Air Transportation Company, flew in the mining settlement of Favorable Lake piece by piece. Fifty men to fit those pieces together were landed at the little lake. Within a short time, bunkhouses had been erected and the work of building a mine plant began.

Steel rails, mine cars, huge boilers, thousands of pounds of cement, fire brick, a complete saw mill, tractors, air compressors, ore buckets, food supplies, all were packed in the planes at Berens River and flown across the Manitoba-Ontario boundary. Most of the equipment had been taken to Berens River by boat.

Cumbersome pieces were measured from all angles to the inch to determine the best way to get them over that 100 miles of wilderness. At both ends of the haul, radio stations facilitated the planes' movements, carrying weather reports and other necessary information.

The only pause in the work came in the "in-between season." As soon as Lake ice was thick enough to hold the weight of ski-equipped machines, flying was resumed. More than 100 tons of freight still have to be transported.

Much benefit has been derived by the turnip growers of the Maritime Provinces as a direct result of the work of the Division of Forage Plants, Dominion Department of Agriculture. During the past few years this work of the Division has demonstrated the high resistance of turnip to club-root disease. Wilhelmshurger variety of turnip to club-root disease. Wilhelmshurger is now being grown extensively in these areas of the Maritimes where club-root is prevalent, and good crops are being produced with this variety in districts where for many years the growing of ordinary varieties had resulted in almost complete failure of crop.

A further result of the work of the Division of Forage Plants in this connection has been the isolation of several strains of the Dittmars variety which show a definite resistance to club-root. Dittmars is one of the most popular varieties of turnips with the growers but its use in areas subject to club-root has been a practical impossibility. However, the new resistant strains will make the growing of this variety possible even in the disease area.

Dr. Amanti Milani spent nearly five hours at his bedside during the day and prelates expressed deep concern that the Pope, whose papal lysis now has spread from his legs along his left side and arm, had suffered a night of torturing pain.

The whole Vatican went about its day in a hushed and anxious atmosphere. At morning masses, prayers for the alleviation of the Pope's pain were added to the pleas that his life be spared.

Teddy Saunders, with two goals, Irvin Frew, Lulu LaFrance, Jack Toupin and Joe McGoldrick were the Springfield scorers, while Ron Hudson, former Halifax Volvener, Art Giroux and Carl Liscomb counted for Hornets. Hudson also had an assist.
