Miss Gladys Boreham left yesterday morning for her home in Halifax after spending several weeks in this city the guest of Misses Alice and Daisy Boreham.

In the Methodist church at Crapaud Corner on Sunday last an excellent sermon was given by Rev. W. Thompson on the text "Without Me ye can do Nothing." Comparisons from every class of life were aptly drawn and applied with simple yet forcible illustration. At the offertory a beautiful quartet "Come unto Me" was sung by four members of choir, Mrs. Windsor, Miss Katie McLean, Dr. Black and Dr. Boyver. The voices were expressive and well balanced and were efficiently aided by the organist, Miss Hazel Reid. This church is brilliantly lighted and with its good sermons and sweet singing, appears especially attractive.

The following further particulars will be of interest: On the 14th inst. at the home of George and Mrs. Auld, West Cove Head, a pretty wedding was solemnized at the hour of eight o'clock p. m. under an arch nicely decorated with flowers and maple leaves. The bride, when their only daughter, Blanche, was united in marriage to Arthur Bain Roberts of Winsloe North. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. Bell in the presence of upwards of sixty guests, nearly all of whom were relatives of the contracting parties. The bride, who was handsomely gowned in white silk wearing a bridal veil caught up with white flowers, and carrying a large bouquet of white flowers, the gift of the groom, entered the parlor leaning on her father's arm. Miss Lettie Roberts, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid and was handsomely dressed in cream silk and carried a bouquet of pink flowers also the gift of the groom. The groom was supported by the brides brother, Heber Auld of Winnipeg. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Frank B. Auld. After the ceremony a most sumptuous repast was partaken of. A large chiveree-party was on hand with horns and other instruments of noise, and created much amusement in their masks and grotesque dresses. The crowd gave three cheers for the bride and groom and altogether their behaviour was admirable. Needless to say Mr. Auld treated the boys well. Mr and Mrs Roberts were the recipients of numerous costly tokens of esteem from their many friends. The following is a list: George Auld, parlor organ; Mrs. George Auld, dinner set; B. and Mrs. Roberts plush couch; Wm. and Mrs. Nunn, and Miss Ellie, five o'clock tea set (hand painted); Chas and Mrs. Hughes, biscuit jar; Mrs. W. K. Bearisto, Winnipeg, center piece; Everett and Mrs. Johnson, piano drape; Miss Lettie Roberts, silver butter dish; Miss Rachel M. Hudson, set of dollies; James and Mrs. Matthews, hanging lamp; R. H. Roberts, clock; Hilbert and Mrs. Hughes, rocker; Athol Roberts, parlor table; E. and Mrs. Irwin, Boston Mass, five o'clock tea set, (hand painted); Dr. J. W. Auld, Vancouver, $10.00; Miss Ina Edwards, Arlington Mass, Battenberg sideboard cover; Alfred and Mrs. Roberts, rocker; Jas G. and Mrs. Hughes, reception chair; J. Archibald Auld, silver butter dish; U. and Mrs. Matthew, table linen; R. and Mrs. Andrews, chenille table cover; E. and Mrs. McMillan, oil painting; Ralph and Mrs. Carr, $5.00; Charles and Mrs. Auld, $5.00; W.
