LEGION URGES

Canada may be geared to produce essential foods and munitions and to wage war to her maximum capacity.

(B) The services of all men and women to be employed to the best and most useful effect, according to age, training, physical capacity and ability of the individual.

(C) By an intelligent extension of the principles contained in the National Resources Mobilization Act and by the elimination of the provisions restricting service to Canada only, our armed forces in Canada and overseas including reserves and reinforcements to be maintained at the highest possible strength, consistent with our industrial and other requirements.

(D) An equitable division of the burden of service, sacrifice, contribution and effort amongst all our people to be the basic principle underlying this 'total war' policy.

(E) The cumulative results of this total effort to be devoted to the single purpose of destroying the enemy.

The officers of the nation-wide organization of veterans of previous wars did not once use the word "conscription" in their memorandum but made it clear total war involved compulsory service overseas.

Quebec Will Join In

They declared their conviction that citizens of Quebec were ready to join in all measures necessary for the annihilation of Nazism and said the falsehood that Canada could not wage total war without internal disunity should be destroyed forever.

Canada's war effort was commendable but it was not total war. Uncertainty in the present policy was derogatory to the war effort and should be removed. It had a
