

Woman's Realm Social and Personal Fashions Literature

Happenings of The Week

Steady Devonshire folk who had not seen Princess Elizabeth since she passed through Exeter in 1937 Wednesday paid homage to a gracious and comely young woman who returned to visit them as heiress presumptive to the throne.

The Princess looked tired after a busy round of London engagements, but she waved and smiled to the cheering crowds with all the affability characteristic of the royal family.

Mr. Winston Churchill has announced the engagement of his youngest daughter, Mary, to Capt. Christopher Soames, of the Coldstream Guards, whom she met only four weeks ago in Paris.

Miss Churchill, London's outstanding debutante of 1940, served in the Women's Auxiliary Territorial Service throughout the war.

Dr. and Mrs. P. A. Creelman were very pleasantly surprised on Thursday evening when, as the guests of the staff of the Provincial Sanatorium they were invited to celebrate their 20th wedding anniversary.

Miss Marion Morris, whose outstanding musical abilities are known to all Charlotteown music lovers, is spending the winter in Baitoung, China.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Eaton of Canada, N.S. accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Eileen Wonnacott, and young son Brian were in Charlotteown over the week-end visiting relatives.

Mrs. Erma Mallett whose marriage takes place this afternoon in the United Church to Mr. Malcolm MacLachlan is being pleasantly entertained by her numerous friends in both town and country.

The staff of the Department of Health and Welfare and Provincial Sanatorium held a masquerade surprise, presentation and shower for her recently in the Vital Statistics Office of the Provincial Sanatorium.

Regretful farewells were said this week to Miss H.D. McCallum who has left to spend the winter in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lawson, Jr. and two winsome daughters, of Saint John, N.B. spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lawson, Sr.

On Tuesday evening the Hazelbrook Women's Institute of which she was a valued member, called on Miss Jones and presented her with a set of sterling silver candleholders.

The members of the Hazelbrook Church entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. MacInnon in honor of Miss Jones on Thursday evening.

Miss Marjorie Stewart of Ottawa is on her way to visit her mother in Exeter.

Mrs. J. J. Trainor was among the hostesses of the week entertaining at three tables of bridge at her home Thursday evening.

A very enjoyable post nuptial shower was held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Lynn McCabe, formerly Miss Anne Elizabeth Diamond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Diamond of this city.

Mrs. Adam Gunn, 1187 Wolseley avenue, Winnipeg, celebrated her 77th birthday last Saturday, at her home, Mrs. Gunn, who is the former Susan McClellan, was born in Noel Shore, N.S. Nov. 9, 1869, and went to Winnipeg in 1911, following the death of her husband, Rev. Adam Gunn, who was a Presbyterian minister in Prince Edward Island.

Mrs. J. A. Freer is being welcomed home from an extended visit with her daughter in Winnipeg and friends in Toronto and Montreal.

Mrs. James H. Cerry has returned from a visit with her mother Mrs. A. Douglas Malcolm, Saint John.

McGill Alumnae of Vancouver were hosts at dinner on Wednesday of last week in honor of Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Tidmarsh, Montreal, Mrs. Lorne Gale, Dr. and Mrs. D. Coultter reported. He said that the princess takes after the King in her neatness and thoughtfulness, while her speech like the Queen's is clear, well-pronounced and lacking "in ridiculous affectation."

The King has recently begun to introduce common or companion matters of state into informal talks with his daughter, the writer said, adding that "an intelligent girl, she is no mere listener." In conclusion, the author commented that "if you believe the (British) Commonwealth has a contribution to make to world peace and security, you will agree that Princess Elizabeth comes as near as anyone to being one of the few indispensable people in the world."

The community of Union Road and surrounding districts held a large miscellaneous shower for Miss Mallett at her home on Tuesday evening of this week. Over 100 guests were present and again many beautiful gifts were received.

Mrs. Erith Hughes, West Covehead was hostess at a miscellaneous shower for Miss Mallett on Wednesday evening of this week, when she entertained a number of her friends at her home on Tuesday. The table was presided over by Mrs. Ambrose Mallett, mother of the bride-to-be.

The many friends of Mrs. Lewis Turner will be pleased to know she is now convalescing after a recent operation in the P. E. I. Hospital.

Princess Elizabeth, heir presumptive to the British throne, is as unaffected as a girl who darns her own stockings, yet who has rare qualities of greatness befitting her position, according to "profile" appearing in the Sunday newspaper

Modern Etiquette

Q. When a girl is "sitting out" a dance with a man, is it all right for another man to ask her to dance? A. No, he should not do this, but should wait until between dances if the really wishes to dance with that particular girl.

Q. Is it all right for a member of a club to entertain both local and out-of-town friends at the club? A. Yes; this is a popular custom.

Q. What must one possess to hold a popular place in society? A. The art of correct speech and intelligent conversation.

The People. Leonard J. Coultter, author of the article, described her as a girl who accepts her training for the throne as happily and willingly as she does, the many social pleasures her royal parents have allowed her in recent months.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Trainor of and little daughter Joan of Truro, N. S., accompanied by Mr. Clyde Beazley, were guests Remembrance Day weekend of Mr. Trainor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Austin Trainor, City.

The Princess weighs about 137 pounds, "and increasing plumpness in recent years has more than once caused her to hint to friends that she might start dieting, but she never has." Coultter said the writer added that Elizabeth "like any other normal girl of her age, can take lashings of ice cream—strawberry flavor for preference." He said that roast chicken is her favorite main course, with sausages and mashed potatoes a close second. She smokes occasionally, but Coultter said that her cigarettes are "few and far between, because she says 'I just don't care for it.'"

"One thing most Britons are pleased about is that Her Royal Highness does not wish her fingernails, nor does she pluck her eyebrows to a thin line." Coultter commented, adding that she does use lipstick of a rather vivid color and wears her hair in a permanent wave. He said that formerly the princess was inclined to wear clothes that clashed, but that during the past year she had been dressing more smartly.

Elizabeth plays the piano—mostly Beethoven—"agrettly," and has a pleasant singing voice, Coultter reported. He said that the princess takes after the King in her neatness and thoughtfulness, while her speech like the Queen's is clear, well-pronounced and lacking "in ridiculous affectation."

The King has recently begun to introduce common or companion matters of state into informal talks with his daughter, the writer said, adding that "an intelligent girl, she is no mere listener." In conclusion, the author commented that "if you believe the (British) Commonwealth has a contribution to make to world peace and security, you will agree that Princess Elizabeth comes as near as anyone to being one of the few indispensable people in the world."

FOR BEAUTIFUL LINENS ABCDZ

Embroidered initials add a dainty touch to towels or pillow cases. Hot iron transfer pattern No. 781 contains a set of initials about 1 1/2 inches high and his hers, etc. with complete instructions.

Mary Churchill To Wed Guardsman

Four weeks after they met in Paris, Winston Churchill announced the engagement of his youngest daughter, Mary, right, above, to Capt. Christopher Soames, left, of the Coldstream Guards. Captain Soames is in Italy and France. They expect to marry in January.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Delinquent Fathers

Responsibility of Molding Son's Character Remains With Dad

One of the reasons why we have so many delinquent children is because we have so many delinquent fathers. There are plenty of men who have children and work like slaves to give them every comfort and luxury, but the number of men who put in as much time and thought and effort on being good fathers as they do on being good doctors or lawyers or merchants or bus drivers, is infinitesimally small.

The old chestnut story about the little boy who asked his mother why that strange man who always came to their house on Sunday is no merry jest. It is only too sadly true. There are millions of children who, except for biological and social reasons, might just as well have no fathers at all as the ones they have. To them their fathers are nothing but cash registers that their mothers punch to get the money to pay for their baseball outfits, and summer camps when they are adolescents.

In all of their lives they have never had a free conversation with their fathers and they have no idea in the world of what manner of men they are. I know of one case in which a nearly grown lad expressed great surprise on finding out that his father was a famous man and that his words were listened to with great respect whenever he spoke on any subject.

NEGLIGENCE TO DUTY. Those neglectful fathers, who take no part in forming their children's characters, are largely responsible for the juvenile delinquency which is prevalent now, no one can doubt. For there comes a time in the lives of all youngsters when they scorn their mother's opinions because they are women, and because they think that Mother knows nothing of the world, and when they need a father's strong hand over them, and when they will be guided by him because he has traveled the road they are just starting down.

Household Scrapbook

Sanitary Hint. Before pouring milk from the bottle, take time to wipe the top carefully, for it is here that germs and dust collect and are usually poured into the glass with the clean milk.

Hanging Towels. It is the wisest plan to hang towels over the line and then pin them. If they are hung by the two corners, they are liable to stretch and will prove difficult to iron.

Fresh Cheese. Cheese will keep moist and free from mold if wrapped in a cloth thoroughly saturated with vinegar.

It's World's Largest Aquamarine

The crude-looking stone being held by Theresa Molitino, left, of Brazil's UN delegation and Mrs. Edward J. Danziger, of Rio de Janeiro, is reported to be the world's largest aquamarine, popular semi-precious gem. Shown on its recent arrival at the Brazilian Trade Bureau in New York City, the 125,000-carat stone weighs 25 pounds and is

Blistered Heel Not Worth $17,000 Justice Feels

(Toronto Globe and Mail, Nov. 14) Is a blistered heel and its attendant suffering and medical expenses worth $17,000 damages? Mr. Justice Urquhart didn't think so yesterday, but E. F. Wilson, counsel for Mrs. Loren McInnis, who brought the action against the Toronto General Hospital, would not agree with the judge's suggestion to drop the last "0" from the $17,000.

The other question dealing with the economics of the case before the court was how much money is a professor's time worth—in this case Prof. Edgar McInnis of the University of Toronto formerly of Charlotteown, P. E. I. The history professor told the judge that the attention he had to give his wife slowed him down in the work of writing a Canadian history for a United States firm, and a final volume of the history of the Second Great War for a Canadian publishing house.

Fearful Amputation of Foot. Mrs. McInnis claims that her left foot was badly blistered by the application of a hot water bottle while she was a diabetic patient at the Toronto General Hospital. She is asking $17,000 damages; her husband $8,650, of which $1,650 is for medical expenses.

Mr. Wilson explained the $17,000 figure yesterday as based on the belief that at times that the foot might have to be amputated, with the healing of the blister the danger had passed, he said.

"I suppose you would be willing to cut off the last figure from the $17,000?" Mr. Justice Urquhart asked.

"I wouldn't be prepared to go that far," replied Mr. Wilson. Mr. McInnis, in his explanation of his claim, said that by being retarded in his history writing project, he had been unable to accept a summer school engagement in Maine, which would have brought a $500 fee. The case continues today.

How Can I!!

Q. How can I prevent tobacco smoke from a room? A. Place in the room a vessel of water containing a handful of hay. This also removes paint odor. Small amounts of hay can be obtained at any feed store.

Q. How can I prevent cream from dripping on the table linen after pouring? A. Grease the mouth of the pitcher with butter or put a little butter under the spout.

Q. How can I remove the ugly black stain from the sides of the porcelain bathtub? A. Nothing is more effective than a little kerosene on a cloth.

Morning Smile

Elevator Man: "Here you are, sonny. This is your floor." Superior Youth: "How dare you call me sonny?" You are not my father.

Elevator Man: "Well, I brought you up, didn't I?"—Hollywood Citizen.

Cook's Corner

GINGERED BRAN SLICES. The bran adds interest to the texture in this cookie, which is rather typical in flavor. 3 1/2 cups once-sifted pastry flour or 3 cups plus 1 tablespoon once-sifted hard-wheat flour 1 teaspoon baking powder 1 teaspoon baking soda 1/2 teaspoon salt 2 teaspoons ground ginger 1/4 teaspoon ground allspice 1 cup bran 1/4 cup brown sugar, lightly packed 1/2 cup molasses 1/2 teaspoon vanilla 12 tablespoons shortening, melted Measure and sift together three times, the flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt, ginger and allspice, mix in bran. Mix the sugar, molasses, vanilla and melted shortening and add the dry ingredients; blend thoroughly. Turn out on a lightly floured canvas or baking board and knead a few seconds. Divide dough into two parts and roll each part into a cylinder about 1 1/2 inches in diameter; wrap closely in waxed paper. Slice as thin as possible (about 1/4-inch thick) and arrange on an ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 10 minutes.

Living & Leisure —THE WOMAN'S REALM—

FAMOUS HYMNS. Saviour, again to Thy dear name we raise With one accord our parting hymn of praise; We stand to bless Thee ere our worship cease, And still our hearts to wait Thy word of peace. Great as Thy peace upon our homeward way; With Thee began, with Thee shall end the day; Guard Thou thy lips from sin, the hearts from shame, That in this house have called upon Thy name. Grant us Thy peace throughout our earthly life, Our balm in sorrow and our stay in strife; Then, when Thy voice shall bid our conflict cease, Call us, O Lord, to Thine eternal peace.

When a group of English choir singers wanted a new song for a musical festival in which they were to participate at Nantwich, England, in 1868, the Rev. John Ellerton composed this beautiful benediction hymn. To-day — nearly three-quarters of a century after its composition — it is still sung at the close of worship in most churches.

Ellerton, a clergyman of the Church of England, was serving as vicar of Crewe Green at the time the Nantwich choristers asked him to help them with their festival song. His fame as a writer of religious verse was already being recognized and some of the sixty hymns which he turned out during his ministry were already written.

His "parting hymn of praise"—though like Dr. S. Barlow-Gould's "Onward, Christian Soldiers," it was written hurriedly to meet the demands of a special occasion—turned out to be the best-loved.

Ellen's Diary

By an Island Farmer's Wife. Saturday's peep o' day favored farm folk with the promise of continued open weather—days of grace in which to gather the last of their field crops or else, as one of our men at Alderlea did today, continue the plowing. "And when that field by the orchard has been plowed," I asked James this morning when he had come to help me at a chosen—and unchosen—work on the lawn "what then?" I had been hoping that when the last of the furrows had been turned there, it would end the field work for the year. That then the rest of the machinery might be housed and the winter—contingency—allows for come-what-will days might be comfortably taken up. He paused a minute to watch the team at work. "There's another field to open, Ellen," he answered and then, we may do a bit of plowing up at the other farm—if the weather keeps." So all of this day until the darkness of evening told that when the last of the plowing continued, there was still some to do. His work was suspended during a long hour. For it happened, so Carolyn told me, that before this Jamie had been "in one."

A dreadful fate had almost overtaken one of his pets this morning. Indeed only that he chanced to see one of his numerous cats bound across the yard carrying (Continued on Page 13)

Needlecraft —FOR THE HOME—

KITCHEN CHAIRS. The on a rounded and pretty apron that will protect your dresses from kitchen stains. The bib top has scallops to match the bottom and pockets. No. 2679 is cut in one size and requires 2 yard 35-inch with 4 yards of fabric. Send 20 cents for PATTERN which includes complete sewing guide. Print your Name, Address and Style Number plainly. Be sure to state size you wish. Include postal unit or some number in your address. Address Pattern Department, The Charlotteown Guardian, Charlotteown, P.E.I. Pattern No. 2679.

KIDDIES COLDS yield quickly to a brisk rub with BUCKLEY'S

APRIL INCLUDED