Dry, Hacking Cough Was Caused By A Bronchial Cold

Mrs. A. Primeau, 36 Ingram St. Chatham, Ont., writes:—"I am pleased to take this opportunity of telling you of my experience with

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

"Early last winter I suffered from a severe bronchial cold that left me with a provoking, dry, hacking cough. After being bothered with it, both day and night, for some time I had a professional nurse recommend the above cough syrup which I took with wonderful results, and, now, it is the only remedy I ever use for colds."

THE STORY

"Well then," she said kindly; unable to be very severe with one so lamblike, "just come along with me to get my money back from Mrs. Andover, and then you can hurry right along and get ever so many things done. It's early."

He sighed but put on his cap with disarming meekness, and they set out together.

"That's her cottage down there," he said, pointing off to the left. "It a'n't far. You go right down through that little gate, and see Mis' Andover. Be firm with her, miss, you be real firm. You hold out for your rights."

And with incredible celerity, before Gay could catch and hold him, he had scrambled away out of sight around the cottage, and there was nothing for her to do but to go on alone. Her indignation rose again as she cut down the pretty, green-bordered cinder path to Mrs. Andover's door, but she was met with great friendliness by that affable and efficient woman, who took both her hands in cordial greeting.

"My dear, how sweet of you to be so neightborly. How charming! You are a real acquisiton to our summer colony."

"Mrs. Andover, excuse me but that cottage you rented me is not for rent Auntalmiry is keeping it herself this summer. So if you will kindly refund—"

Mrs. Andover's affability froze upon her face. "My dear, do you mean to tell me that that creature had the brazen effrontery, the unmitigated audacity, the-the-to stay there after John told her I had rented that cottage?"

"John didn't tell her. She didn't know it. The cottage was not ready for me as you promised—"

"John didn't—John—John—Wallace—Didn't you hear me tell him to tell her to—"

"Oh, yes, you told him. And that was the end of it. And as she is the original tenant, I have had all my trouble and worry for nothing."

And then, with reluctance, with innate delicacy, sparing Auntalmiry in every way possible, Mrs. Andover explained the situation. The little old woman in the cottage was not a tenant. She just lived there. She paid no rent, she had no money, and the cottage stood idle all winter without her. Much better for the house to be occupied, much better for Auntalmiry who needed homing—

"Oh, please," interrupted Gay, "let her stay then. Don't turn the poor thing out on my account—"

And then Mrs. Andover grew really withering in her retaliation.

Turn her out! What kind of people do you think we are? Do we look like the sort to turn anybody out? We just want her to move down into her own house, the Apple Tree.

"Oh, then she isn't so poor, if she has a house of her own."

But Auntalmiry did not own the Apple Tree. Auntalmiry did not own anything. Mrs. Andover said it was the Estate, the Estate which owned the land, the Estate which had built the little Apple Tree exclusively for Auntalmiry, for her very own, furnished it for her, maintained it for her.

The Apple Tree was a dear little cottage, well built, charmingly located. Mrs. Andover said, rather petulantly, that it was the nicer of the two cottages, and the only reason Auntalmiry preferred the Lone Pine was simple and pure perversity. The Lone Pine was too big for her, it was more inaccessible away up on the bluffs, it was farther from the shops and from her friends, but she preferred it "for her Christmas party."

And then Alice Andover's voice sank to a whisper. "If she says anything about Christmas party, you tell her John and I say she can't have a Christmas party this year. Tell her it is too expensive in the first place, and it wears her all out in the second place, and it's just nonsense anyhow. Tell her John and I say so."

But when Gay suggested that of course, she, herself, Mrs. Andover, was going down with her to give these explanations to Auntalmiry the administrator was regretful, but firm.

"I can't," she said. "I wish I could, but I can't. I—I am expecting guests to dinner." She looked at her watch "Good heavens, it is after eleven and the potatoes not so much as peeled. You see how it is. I wish I could, but I can't. You tell her. She'll understand. Just tell her you have rented the cottage, and paid the rent, and tell her we insist—John and I both insist—that she give up the Lone Pine immediately. Tell her if she doesn't—we'll—we'll burn the Apple Tree to the ground, and sell the Lone Pine over her head."

So Gay Delane, alone, unaided by the lamblike Captain, unsupported by the efficient administrator, broke the news to the indomitable little old woman on the hill. As she repeated very modestly, almost diffidently, the dire threats of Alice Andover, Auntalmiry broke into laughter so hearty it seemed impossible it could have emanated from so small a source.

"My dear," she gasped, wiping her eyes, "I wish they would. I'd like to see it. Why, I'd have the law on them." She fell into helpless laughter again. "I'm a sort of a common-law wife, my dear. If you keep me long enough, you can't get shut of me. Such talk. Alice Andover indeed! Why didn't they come and tell me all these high doings?"

"The Captain had to fix Miss Nixon's porch and Mrs. Andover is peeling potatoes for a company dinner, and—"

"The Captain's been fixing that porch for four years, and never set foot on it yet. And as for Alice Andover, my dear, she never peeled a potato in her life. She's aristocratic. Peeling potatoes. My dear, Alice Andover wouldn't know a potato with the skin on if she saw it."

"But Mrs.—Miss—"

"Auntalmiry, dearie, just call me Auntalmiry. I'm not proud."

"Auntalmiry," Gay said appealingly, "see how I am fixed. I have paid fifty dollars rent—"

"Fifty dollars for this shack? My dear, they robbed you. They never got more than forty for it in the world. Last year, they only got thirty-five. Poor child, poor dear, they robbed you."

"And see They have my fifty dollars, you have my house. I have nothing."

"My dear, I'll go. I'll go right away. We'll show them they can't get away with this sort of thing with us. It won't take me long to pack up. I haven't got much."

While Auntalmiry bustled about, putting her things together, Gay, having removed her cap and gloves, set her bags in a corner out of the way and went to the wide couch. She was very tired. The window corner tempted her.

'I'll lie down, if you don't mind," she said. "It will keep me out of your way. I may go to sleep."

She stretched herself out on the couch, luxuriously, and closed her eyes. The lids were dark, darkly veined. The lids, in relaxation, dropped with weariness.

For two hours Auntalmiry slipped softly about the house, gathering together her modest belongings, packing baskets, bags and bundles. And for two hours Gay slept without stirring, moaning faintly now and then. At one o'clock Auntalmiry prepared dinner for two, with a great pot of strong tea, and set the little gate-leg table. Then, with a light touch, she wakened Gay.

Best Remedy for Obstinate Cough Made at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a 16 oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make 16 ounces. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It also promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and at the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs and "flu" coughs.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Deaf Hear Again Through New Aid

Earpiece No Bigger Than Dime Wins Enthusiastic Following Ten-Day Free Trial Offer

After twenty-five years devoted exclusively to the manufacture of scientific hearing-aids, the Canadian Acousticon Ltd., Dept. 18, 45 Richmond St. West, Toronto, Ont., has just perfected a new model Acousticon that represents the greatest advance yet made in the re-creation of hearing for the deaf. This latest Acousticon is featured by a tiny earpiece no bigger than a dime. Through this device, sounds are clearly and distinctly transmitted to subnormal ears with wonderful benefit to hearing and health alike. The makers offer an absolutely free trial for 10 days to any one person who may be interested, and a letter will bring one of these remarkable aids to your home for a thorough and convincing test. Send them your name and address today!

The many friends of Mrs. Catherine McEachern, Cherry Valley, are sorry to learn of her recent illness and hope for her speedy recovery.

Master Kenneth McEachern, Cherry Valley, was operated on at the Polyclinic recently. We trust little Kenneth may be fully restored to health.

Messrs Peter Stewart, Marshfield, E. C. Burhoe and Roderick McDonald, city, were recent visitors to Pinette.

Mrs. Peter Stewart, Marshfield, spent Sunday, the guest of her mother, Mrs. C. McEachern.

Miss Margaret Smith, Millview, was a recent visitor to the city.

It looks as though the cars are going to be with us a while yet. Motorists report the roads in good condition.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sutherland, Charlottetown, were in Cherry Valley, Sunday.

Miss Ida Sutherland, Charlottetown, is spending a few weeks the guest of her cousin, Miss Hazel McEachern, Cherry Valley.

Mrs. E. C. Burhoe, city, spent Sunday the guest of Miss Mabel Jenkins.

Misses Lois, Helen and Venie Smith, Millview were guests of Miss Elinor Jenkins on Sunday.

Miss Gertrude McKenna, who has been spending a few days, the guest of Mrs. W. C. Sheidow, Millview, has returned home.

Mr. Clarence Wood, Vernon River who has recently gone into the meat business, is receiving the patronage of his many friends who wish him every success.

While a lady and gentleman and their two children were driving into Charlottetown this week, they met with a peculiar accident. Just as they were about to ascend Tea Hill they noticed a truck coming. The driver of the car immediately put on his brakes and in so doing the car skidded on a piece of ice, which turned the car completely over. The occupants escaped without any injuries, and the only damage the car received was a broken spring.

And still another strange incident occurred. One of Vernon River's youths had the misfortune, while picking a tooth with a needle to break off the point of the needle. Whether he swallowed it or not is not yet known. His father took him to the dentist and had the tooth extracted, with the expectation of finding he needle. But, alas, no luck for the unfortunate.

The sympathy of the whole community goes out to Mr. George Tweedy in this the hour of his sad bereavement. Death under any circumstances is sad enough, but even more so when one is called away, just when they were about to enjoy the blessings of a happy wedded life. Mr. Tweedy is well and favorably known in these parts, his childhood home being in Vernon River.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Institute of Orwell Cove was held at the home of Mrs. James Morrissey. Ten members and five visitors were present. The Roll Call was answered by "My Birthday, Month and Stone." The report given was very encouraging. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Wilfred McLean.

The many friends of Mr. Wm. Mutch, Cherry Valley, are sorry to learn of his recent illness and hope for his speedy recovery.

A Sudden End to Stomach Trouble
