WILLIARD AND DEMPSEY

WICHITA, KAS., July 12.—A bout between Jack Dempsey and Jess Willard, former champion is virtually assured before October 1. Ray Archer, Willard's manager, said today after a conference here last night between Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager and Frank Flourney, representative of Tex Rickard, New York promoter.

WESLEY NAME IS CLEARED

Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Michigan, City, Ind., and Jersey City are under consideration for sites for the boat. Archer said, while Labor Day is a proposed date. Archer's bid terms had not been agreed upon, but that Dempsey wants as much for boxing Willard as for boxing Harry Wills. Dempsey appeared in an exhibition bout here last night. Rickard cannot see anything in prospect this year but a match between Dempsey and Willard. The promoter realizes that while Wills is the logical contender, there is little chance of holding a bout in 1922, and having a battlefield on his hands, Rickard is desirous of utilizing it. "I think that if Willard can prove to me that he can get himself into good condition it is a reasonable match to suggest," said Rickard recently. "He has the size and all the qualifications and if careful training will bring him around I see no reason why the match should not be made. However if I find that Willard cannot return to good condition I will cancel negotiations immediately.

WESLEY NAME IS CLEARED

WT NIPPEG, Man., July 12.—Complete exoneration of Principal J. H. Riddell in connection with that Wesley College, Winnipeg is not a healthy place for the training of young minds, by the college board to-day was received with approval by the Methodist laity. Their faith in the principal as a shepherd of adolescent Methodists was restored and they feel the black name given to Wesley is now cleared. In a statement to the press, which is in the form of a resolution of confidence, Dr. Riddell, his staff and his college are variously informed that in them the Methodism of Western Canada trusts. Prof. W. G. Smith's charges of lax moral conditions are refuted sweepingly. One graduate got through college by writing short stories. Maybe he wrote them to his father. No matter how much time a judge gives, he always has some left.

The judges, who were Messrs. B. Dadds, Gordon Schurman and Melville Bradshaw then took their seats in the car with the driver, Mr. E. H. Raynor. The road taken was to Carleton via Centreville, Bedeque and return. The Camp, is under the direction of Mr. A. M. Gregg, Maritime Boy's Work Secretary of the Religious Education Council, assisted by a number of other Boys' Work leaders. Sunday was a particularly important and impressive day in camp. The morning service was conducted by Rev. H. S. Strothard, Methodist Religious Education Secretary for the Maritime Provinces and the evening services by Mr. A. M. Gregg. Monday the full Camp Program began and an extremely pleasant and profitable time is looked forward to. As a large number are no doubt, interested in this Camp and in the boys who are attending and as the Camp is a definite training ground with a full program of activities, the value of which is considerably lessened if broken into at frequent intervals, by visitors, it has been thought advisable to set aside one day as "Visitor's Day" and consequently Saturday July 15th has been set aside for this purpose. Parents and friends of the boys and any one interested in the Camp and Camp activities, will be warmly welcomed on this day. The Camp site at North Bedeque is a particularly good one, and the results were being looked forward to from the Boys' Camp and also from the Girl's Camp which immediately follows it at the same place.

Lord Chancellor, Lord Birkenhead presided. The gathering included the leading legal figures of the country, as well as Ambassador Harvey, while in the gallery looking down on what was a picturesque scene, were Lady Birkenhead, Mrs. Taft, Mrs. Harvey and other women.

The Lord Chancellor in proposing the toast of "Faith" said there was only one occasion on which a similar compliment had been paid to an American lawyer.

Ex-President Taft, in reply, said that from his earliest boyhood he had venerated the British Bench and the British Bar, but never in his wildest imagination as a boy had he realized that he would stand in their presence and receive from the great English Bench and the English Bar such a welcome.

EWES AND LAMBS NEED GOOD CARE

Every flock master should have some record of when his ewes were bred, so he can provide for them previous to lambing. Ewes well up to lambing should be taken from the flock and placed in warm quarters, but if this is impossible they should be penned off by the use of 4x6 hurdles. Ewes about to lamb will separate themselves from the main flock, refuse food and stand with head down.

If conditions are right ewes are best off when left alone, though the shepherd should be near at hand to lend assistance if needed to save the lamb.

As soon as the lamb is dropped do not be in too great haste to handle it or disturb the mother. Sometimes a weak lamb is dropped and needs help. Plugs in the mouth and nostrils can often be dispelled by blowing into the nostrils. Rubbing over the region of the diaphragm vigorously with the hands often starts breathing.

The old saying that the lamb that gets its first meal unassisted is half raised, is more than true. The first half hour the lamb needs no food, but if it is then unable to get up and nurse, one should assist it to its first meal.

Lambs dropped at night are sometimes found chilled in the morning. They should be taken to a warm place and put into pails of water heated to the temperature that the elbow will endure. The water should be changed as it cools down and the lamb kept in until it kicks around in good shape. Then dry off well and assist to first meal. Sometimes lambs seemingly dead are revived by this treatment.

Miss Richards in her reply thanked the pupils for their gift but more so for their attention and good behavior during the time she had been teaching. Also for the kindness of the people of Gladstone in helping her in her work. The best wishes of her many friends go with Miss Richards to her new school.

It takes a marriage license to get married on, and it usually takes an auto license also.
