—SUMMERSIDE BUSINESS COLLEGE will re-open for the Spring term, on Wednesday, Jan. 2nd, 1924. 649-12-27-31

—RETURNED FROM BOSTON Mr. Frank Ready of Irishtown, returned from Boston last week, after being absent since the spring. He was engaged in the building trade. He reports busy times for mechanics.—K.

—SUMMERSIDE AGENT.—Mr. Byron MacDonald of the MacDonald Drug Co., is now Guardian representative in Summerside and will be pleased to receive new advertising, new and renewal subscriptions and Job-Printing. Mr. MacDonald sells the Morning Guardian at his store. His telephone No. is 12-2.

—PROMISING HORSE FOR KENSINGTON.—Mr. Geo. R. Clark Kensington has recently taken delivery of the beautiful bay stallion Watson Peter a grandson of Peter the Great. This scion of the greatest speed producer in the world was purchased by Mr. Hammond Kelly by private sale, during the Old Glory sale in Madison Square Garden, New York. He is 2 years old and will be staked in the three year old trot class at the Charlottetown Exhibition next fall, where his performance will be watched with unusual interest. He has been declared by Hammond Kelly to be the "best colt ever brought to P. E. Island." Chestnut Peter, his sire is also the sire of the three year old Holyrood Leonard, 20314 and the two year old Shal 20914, and quite a number of other three year olds and two year olds with records under 2:15. This Province, and Kensington in particular, is fortunate in having such men go forward to select the best speed sires. Little Prince Edward Island may yet produce a world beater. The light harness racing talent of America received quite a jolt three years ago when Bill Sharron, the son of our Capt. Aubrey sold for $28,000, and it is quite possible that there is several more jabs and upper cuts coming in the not very distant future.—K.

—S. B. C.—A special six months training. Courses by mail. Write J. Pogson Box 145, Summerside, 51

—CALLED TO WINNIPEG.—Mrs. W. L. Cotton of Kensington left last Monday morning for Winnipeg in answer to an urgent telegram from her sister, Mrs. George L. Cotton, who is dangerously ill in a hospital in that city.—K.

—NEW ANNAN SCHOOL.—The Semi-Annual examination of New Annan school took place on Dec. 22nd in presence of a large number of parents and visitors. The pupils were examined in various subjects by their teacher, Miss Margaret Curly, Mrs. J. B. Waugh and Miss Florence MacNeil. The prompt and ready answers of the pupils and the entertaining program which they carried out were a source of pride and satisfaction to all. Prizes were given for perfect attendance and highest standing in each class. Sweets were distributed among the visitors and scholars after the rate payers had expressed their appreciation of the successful work for the past term. The teacher was agreeably surprised by the presentation of a beautiful hand bag accompanied by the following address: To Miss Margaret Curly, Dear Teacher, The first half-year has elapsed under your kind and effective guidance and to-day we are all assembled at the closing of one of the most successful terms in the history of this school. We, children and friends, have assembled here this afternoon that we might spend a few of the fleeting hours with you, and to wish you a "Happy New Year." As our beloved and respected teacher you have faithfully and efficiently discharged your duties, and by your kind and gentle disposition you have endeared yourself to us all. Kindly accept this gift as a token of the esteem we hold for you, with joyful hearts we again wish you the Season's Greetings. Your affectionate Pupils.

CARE OF EYEBROWS, LASHES AND HAIR

If you want darker eyebrows and lashes, get a jar of yellow petroleum jelly and put in on faithfully—just a little, being careful not to get the jelly in the eyes. And if you want your lashes longer and thicker, bathe them with an eye-cup of salt water three or four times a week; also clip them a bit every six or eight months. And have an eyebrow-brush and brush both brows and lashes every day. Strong, smooth strokes, always brushing the eyelashes up. Then when you rub your eyes to relax them, rub them from the inner corners out and up. Eyes a bit uplifted have so much more charm than eyes that droop. Brush your hair every day; nothing makes it so lustrous as brushing. Don't curl it with an iron, unless you absolutely have to. Hot irons are very hard on hair—weaken it and discourage it. So many of you who curl your hair are not at all the type for wavy and curls. Straight hair, beautifully kept, is charming; one thinks of wavy, perhaps making music on willow reeds, or a virgin priestess with wide-set, mystic eyes, a blue flame in her hands, a white-flame, for a soul. Look at yourself before you curl your hair and be sure you are the type for curls. Nature, you know, is the greatest artist of us all; she usually knows what she's about and sends you in a whole, not part of you this type and part of you that.—

COSTLY SCOURGE

(By Dominion News Service)

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Edwin Honeyborne, of Wickwar, a butcher, well known at the markets of Somerset, Gloucestershire and Wiltshire, is receiving congratulations from a host of friends on a most miraculous escape from death. Mr. Honeyborne, was one of the judges at the great Christmas fat stock show at Farringham, Gurney, and journeyed home by a train which left Bristol at 6:30 in the evening. While the train was speeding at 40 miles an hour between Honeyborne, comfortably ensconced in a corner seat went to sleep. The noise of the train entering Wickwar tunnel aroused him. Looking through the window he saw the lights of the train reflected on the tunnel walls, and, thinking they were the station lights, he opened the door and stepped out into space, his amazed fellow-passengers having no chance of stopping him. The communication cord was pulled and the train stopped, but as it had travelled some little distance from the scene the journey was resumed to Wickwar Station. All traffic in both directions was stopped while a search party set out to fetch in the body they expected to find. To their astonishment they found Mr. Honeyborne sheltering in one of the tunnel recesses constructed for workmen, badly bruised, but not otherwise hurt. When he stepped out into the darkness the compression and rush of air in the tunnel caused his overcoat to fill out like a parachute, and through there was very little space between the walls and the rails, his life was miraculously spared. Half-suffocated by choking smoke and steam, and suffering from shock, he had a terrible time groping along the tunnel walls in the darkness, and fully expecting to be cut to pieces by the next train. He is now little the worse for the adventure.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—The scourge of foot-and-mouth disease seriously menaces the farm stock of Great Britain. Nearly 64,000 animals have been slaughtered since the first of the recent outbreak at the end of August, and the cost to the compensation and other expenses has far exceeded $5,000,000. Cheshire is the district where the disease rages most fiercely. Five new outbreaks occurred on farms in this important agricultural county within a few days, and 30,000 animals have been cremated there. The countryside is lighted up nightly by the glare from the fires which burn the slaughtered animals, and farmers' and townspeople are praying fervently in the churches and chapels for the terrible epidemic to end. Outbreaks in Cheshire recently reached the alarming total of 237, involving the killing of nearly 6,000 cattle alone. In addition, large numbers of sheep and pigs were destroyed. Trade and social life from one end of the county to the other have fallen under the gloom of the scourge. Numerous functions have been cancelled, and the inhabitants of farmsteads, fearful of carrying the germs of disease with them, leave their homes only when it is necessary to journey to the villages and towns to buy food. Many thousands of tons of coal have been supplied for cremation at the expense of the Government. No effective cure has yet been discovered, and the most careful investigation has shown clearly that the only way to deal with these outbreaks is to slaughter every animal affected, as well as those which have run the risk of infection. FRINGE: ADDS NOTE OF COLOR ON BLACK

Fringe is used with good effect on a plain black dress, applied in such a way as to suggest a tiered dress. The only other trimming is a large moire bow of a color to match the fringe. For winter wear on the trip south, white would make an effective background for this dress.

CHENILLE HAT TRIMMINGS

Chenille embroidery in colors shading from pink to deepest rose covers the crown and the upper part of the brim of a black velvet picture hat.

MILLINERS USE CHENILLE

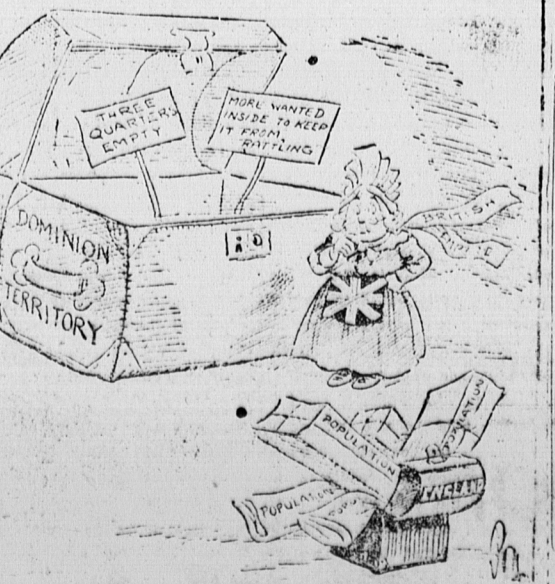

Chenille embroidery is very much in evidence, and is strikingly effective owing to the beauty and brilliance of the color schemes employed.

TOQUES ARE PLAIN

A band of fur is sometimes used for leading a wintry touch to the toque, but, aside from a pin or two, there is no other trimming.
