Name Delegates To Fisheries Meeting

Two official delegates and two alternate delegates were appointed at Tuesday's meeting of the Prince Edward Island Fisheries Federation, to attend the coming annual fisheries meeting in Ottawa. Mr. L. Noonan, Charlottetown, Mr. Leon Johnson, Annapolis, are the official delegates and Mr. J. A. Burden, Charlottetown and Mr. Frank Cameron, Summerside the alternate delegates.

Acting on the suggestion of Federation president S. J. Burhoe the Prince Edward Island Federation will conduct an educational campaign to boost the sale of their merchandise. Mr. Burhoe advised that the Federation make a collection of fish recipes available to the Maritime housewife.

"Through publicity of this kind we should stimulate a larger domestic consumption of our products," he said. Mr. E. D. Fraser, Superintendent of Fisheries for the Maritimes, gave several suggestions for conducting a press and information campaign.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. E. M. Craibe, was lovely in a street-length dress of misty rose crepe with matching head dress. Her corsage was of roses. Miss Dorothy Peters who attended her sister as maid of honor wore turquoise blue crepe with matching head dress and corsage of roses. The groom's attendant was his brother, Mr. J. Following the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the Queen Hotel to the immediate family and friends. After which the young couple left by plane on a short honeymoon, the bride wearing a suit of Victorian green wool, with brown accessories.

The Maine Senator said the Government is committed to support United States potato exports at a rate which will give a farmer income in line with the price of things he has to buy.

Thus, Brewster said, the 3,500,000 bushels of potatoes Canada is permitted to send to the United States under low reciprocal trade agreement tariffs just add to the surplus in the United States which has to be bought by the Government under the support program.

Brewster said not only the reciprocal trade agreement law but the Farm Act contains ample authority to restrict Canadian imports, either by smaller quotas or by higher tariffs.

FINDS STRENGTH

Italy had an army and police force capable of handling the worst situations.

"I'm not so sure now. Competent and strategically placed observers here tell a different story. They say the Government never let out the full story of what happened in Northern Italy. We knew of a brief nip and tuck situation, but not the full extent of the Communist display of strength.

Now it seems that the Communists held control of key points in Northern Italy for 24 hours or more. The highly-touted carabinieri (mobile police) and other police were disarmed. Then the Communist forces, with their nose-thumbing gesture, as much as to say "See, we can do as we wish, and we will yet — when we are ready."

The objective observers are inclined to say the Communist picture is this: The carabinieri and army run something less than 250,000 men as provided by the peace treaty. The army is in good shape, but the carabinieri are not, lacking leadership and unable to prevent the killing of several of their own men each month. Local police, something like 80,000 of them throughout the country, vary in effectiveness.

On the other hand are 2,000,000 active Communists, including well-organized armed units totalling 85,000 men, and 5,000,000 more "volunt" Communists.

Observers are quick to point to the trouble the Greek army is having with the small forces of General Markos Vafiades as an example of what could happen here with 80,000 men acting as guerrillas and supported by millions of sympathizers.

These are matters which Allied military experts must consider most dispassionately as they seek to prevent the defeat of Western Europe. The question in case of a war would be, how much can a country contribute to the general defence while still maintaining an upper hand over the Communists at home? In the case of Italy, Allied estimates are not optimistic.

DAWSON-CUTCLIFFE WEDDING

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cutcliffe, Cape Traverse, when their oldest daughter Gladys Eleanor was united in marriage to Paul Raymond, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. The bride looked charming in a dress of Royal blue crepe with navy accessories, and a corsage of pink roses and a corsage of red carnations. Her groom wore a dress of pink roses. Mr. Gordon Cutcliffe, the capable performer of the duties of groomsmen. The bride's mother wore a dress of black crepe and a corsage of red carnations. The groom's mother wore a dress of rose crepe and a corsage of pink carnations. Following the ceremony the guests were down to the beautifully decorated dining room by Mrs. Peter Nicholson, where the table was centered by a beautifully decorated wedding cake. A delicious supper was served to over fifty guests. Those serving included Misses Louise Gillis, Eleanor Lord and Beatrice Cutcliffe. Tea was poured by Mrs. Edwin Crossman and Mrs. Robert Trenholm. The bride and groom enjoyed a trip through Nova Scotia where they visited Mrs. Jack Donovan, Pictou. For travelling the bride wore a grey pin-stripe suit with navy accessories. DUTCH PLANE

Constellation bound from Amsterdam to New York crashed, early today and first unofficial reports said at least 30 were believed dead.

K. L. M. officials in London and Glasgow said "we have no information about the crash and don't even know whether there were any casualties at all."

The officials added: "Communications are bad and until they improve we are largely in the dark."

K. L. M. officials said the plane was believed to be carrying 36 to 40 passengers and crew. They said they "presumed all the passengers were Dutch."

They said they were unable to check the passenger list immediately.

The wife of a Tarbolton village policeman, Mrs. Faraday, was quoted by the Press Association as saying: "I understand there are 40 dead and six survivors so far. The plane was burned out."

The Press Association said it had been told by other unofficial sources at least 30 were believed dead. Some of the bodies were charred beyond recognition.

Struck Electric Wires
 The plane crashed after circling twice over the village of Tarbolton, on the highland overlooking the Ayrshire coast. It is believed the plane struck electric wires on the approach to the airport. Telephone and power lines were damaged in the area.

First news of the crash came through messages from the Prestwick Airport controller who ordered hospitals in the area to stand by to receive the injured.

Glasgow police said Farmer Thomas Nell on whose farm the plane came down told them he saw some badly-burned bodies but did not know how many were

Expect Action On Potato Brief

HALIFAX, Oct. 20—(CP)—A. W. Macdonald, Nova Scotia Minister of Agriculture, said here tonight the Federal Government is expected to give "sympathetic" support to the brief presented by the East-Canada potato committee on behalf of the Canadian potato industry.

But the Minister said he did not anticipate any drastic assurance about support prices for the crop for some time. He said complete study of existing trade treaties and international trade agreement would have to be made before any new policy could be adopted.

The plane, which was scheduled to stop briefly at Prestwick, was described as a total wreck. Debris was scattered for hundreds of yards in flaming masses.

Residents of neighboring villages joined policemen in the rescue work.

Four survivors were reported taken to a hospital at nearby Manchinie.

U. S. Officials Not Worried By Canadian Potatoes

(WASHINGTON, Oct. 20)—(CP) Potatoes and political protests are crowding in on the Agriculture Department, but Department officials are not worried.

Because of Government price support, the Department has more potatoes than it knows what to do with and politicians add to their troubles by clamoring against continued imports from Canada.

The Canadian potatoes come in over a 3 1/2-cent-a-hundredweight tariff for the first 3,500,000 bushels and 75 cents thereafter on a bushel basis. In spite of that barrier they find a ready market here and the growers, particularly in the Southern States, demand Canadian seed potatoes.

Of the yearly low tariff quota of 3,500,000 bushels, 2,500,000 are seed potatoes.

The Department said today the entire Canadian importation this year will not be more than one per cent of the United States crop.

The Canadian potatoes will not be supported as to price, and if Canadian imports were prohibited it would make no difference to United States prices to the consumer or grower, officials said.
