If Husbands Want to Keep Their Wives in Love With Them After Marriage, Here Are Ten Rules That Will Bring Desired Results if Followed Carefully

Dear Miss Dix—Will you tell a mere man how to retain his wife's affection and keep her glad she married him? For, after all, it is just as important for us husbands to keep our wives in love with us as it is for our wives to keep us in love with them.

Answer: You are quite right about that, brother, and I wish more husbands had gumption enough to realize that it is peace in their homes and money in their pockets to keep their wives eating out of their hands. For a contented wife is a good wife. As long as a woman is in love with her husband she keeps on her tiptoes trying to please him. It is only after a woman loses her taste for her husband that she flops in her looks and her housekeeping, gets naggy and peevish, and takes out on him all of her disappointment at life.

Well, then, if you wish to keep your wife in love with you, here are a few suggestions that will help you turn the trick: First, keep up your courtship. Don't drop all love-making at the altar. Women don't lose their sweet teeth as soon as they are married. Keep on telling your wife how beautiful and wonderful she is. Before marriage it is expedient to flatter your sweetie. After marriage it is necessary. Second, start out on the right foot. Don't, because you are so much in love with your bride and because you know so little of women, let her get the upper hand of you at the beginning and grab the pants away from you. She will try it, so be on your guard. Don't let her get away with it because every woman despises the man she can rule. You never saw a wife who loved the husband she could heckle. Third, do something to make her happy. Don't act as if being married to you was all the fun any woman could ask of life. Take her out and show her a good time at least once a week. Take an interest in her clothes and encourage her to dress as well as you can afford. Remember her taste. Bring her little gifts. Do something every day to show her that you think of her. Fourth, don't be fool enough to tell her about your former love affairs. Burn all your love letters and your old sweethearts' pictures before you are married and never boast of your conquests and what a devil you were among the ladies. And never, never praise another woman, not even your mother or your grandmother, in your wife's hearing. Fifth, don't make her do all the adapting that every young couple must make. Go fifty-fifty on it. Go with her to the symphony concert if she is musical instead of expecting her to go with you to hear a jazz band. Make her mother as welcome when she comes to visit you as you would like to have your wife make your mother welcome. Sixth, take an interest in the housekeeping and show your wife how to run a budget. It is hard for a young wife to get up much enthusiasm over making a home if her husband never takes any part in it. Seventh, don't criticize. Women simply can't take it. Besides, it gets a man nowhere. If you knock your wife's cooking, she says, "Oh, what's the use?" and less things go. If you make fun of her new dress, she goes out and buys one more expensive. And that's the way it goes. Eighth, remember that the one and only way to work a woman is by flattery. Praise your wife's pies and she will turn into a chef. Tell her what a grand manager she is and she will pinch every nickel until the buffalo howls. Descant on how broad-minded she is and she won't raise ructions when you take a platinum blonde out to lunch.

Teach Yourself the Graceful Waltz Step

Trust popular Jack and Lois to know the latest wrinkles. Now that smoothness and grace—not trickiness—are high spots in ballroom dancing, they're brushing up on gliding waltz steps with easy home practice.

Starting as the diagram shows, they murmur "Step, step, close" while their feet follow these directions: 1. Step forward with right foot. 2. Step diagonally left with left foot. 3. Close right foot to left foot. 4. Step backward with left foot. 5. Step diagonally backward, right with right foot. 6. Draw left foot out to right foot. Our 32-page booklet by a famous dance authority shows you how to do this basic waltz step easily. Its clear diagrams and simple directions teach you fox-trot, tango and rumba, too. You can practice alone—even without music. Valuable tips on poise, rhythm, leading and following.

Send 26c in coins for your copy of Home Course in New Ballroom Dances to The Guardian Home Service, Address. Be sure to write plainly your Name, Address, and the Name of booklet.

For Quick Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

Splendid Results. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

You'll never know how quickly and easily you can overcome a bad winter cough, until you try this well known recipe. It gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money and you'll find it very pleasant and dependable, for real relief. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a 16 oz. bottle. Add your syrup and you have 16 ounces of medicine that will surprise you by its quick action. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it. This home mixture takes right hold of a severe cough. For real results, you'll say it's splendid. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing. Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, well known for its soothing effect on throat membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you perfectly.

A polite motorist, passing through a western village, asked the village policeman: "What is the speed law here, please?" "Ah, it's got none," replied the cop. "You fellows can't get through here any too fast for us."

BOOKS / ART / MUSIC

Canadian Book Week was celebrated last week along with the Association of Canadian Bookmen's Book Fair.

Outstanding amongst recent Canadian books are "John" by Irene Rains; "The Water-Drinker", verses by Patrick Slater, author of "The Yellow Briar"; "J. E. H. MacDonald" and "Tom Thomson" by Albert H. Robson in the Canadian Artist series published by the Ryerson Press; "The Very House of Mayo" by E. H. Sells, verses by Patrick Slater, author of "The Yellow Briar"; "J. E. H. MacDonald" and "Tom Thomson" by Albert H. Robson in the Canadian Artist series published by the Ryerson Press; "The Very House of Mayo" by E. H. Sells, verses by Patrick Slater, author of "The Yellow Briar"; "J. E. H. MacDonald" and "Tom Thomson" by Albert H. Robson in the Canadian Artist series published by the Ryerson Press.

A good Canadian novel that has received very little publicity is "God's Sparrows" by Philip Child published last spring. Mr. Child is also the author of "The Village of Souls" a tale of seventeenth century Canada. The first part of "God's Sparrows" takes place in a small city in Ontario but with the advent of the World War the scenes shift to England and France. The members of the Thatcher family who are the story characters, are all definitely drawn characters of unusual interest partly because of their oddly mixed ancestry—Puritan, Scottish Cavalier, and Gypsy, and the conflicting results. But many of the characters, particularly the women, are far too self-dramatic. There is material here for a much longer book but perhaps the author is wise, in this age of long novels and never ending family sagas, to leave us wanting more.

Over ninety of the works of J. E. H. MacDonald, Canadian artist who died five years ago, are now on exhibition at Mellors Galleries, Toronto. They have been collected from every part of the Dominion and represent the artist's work in Canada far too self-dramatic. There is material here for a much longer book but perhaps the author is wise, in this age of long novels and never ending family sagas, to leave us wanting more.

Mrs. J. D. Hyndman, who has been visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hyndman, in Edmonton, for the past month, returned to Ottawa over the week-end. Mrs. Noel H. DeBlois, is entertaining at an afternoon bridge today at her lovely home, 21 Water Street. Mrs. W. S. Stewart, was hostess for her weekly bridge club yesterday at Hillsborough House. Mrs. A. H. Mould, left Thursday on a few weeks visit to her family in Malone, N. Y. and Niagara Falls. Mrs. A. B. Leigh Horne, and daughter, Miss Janet Horne, of Summerside, are visiting in Montreal.

Another of the art pieces that are in Canada's Museums is T'Ang Horse and Groom in the George Croft's Collection of the Royal Ontario Museum of Archaeology, the gift of the Chinese Museum. The T'Ang Horse and Groom is part of a larger group of twelve pottery figures found in the tomb of General Sul Cheng of Lao Yang Hsien in the Province of Honan. During the T'Ang Dynasty (618-907) Chinese art, especially in ceramics, reached a height which has never since been equalled. The T'Ang Horse and Groom is an excellent example of the period and is characteristic of T'Ang pottery. The horse is glazed a rich brown with a cream far to set, and tall, the saddle cloth evidently of a rough hairy material is green. The name of the horse, showing under the glaze on the left shoulder is Fai Feng—Flying Pheasant. The groom is glazed in yellow, green, and brownish browns. His face and hands are unglazed.

The following paragraph is from the Toronto Saturday Night: "P.O.D., who lives in ancient Rye in the south of England, was strolling about recently when to his surprise he ran across the Hart House String Quartet which has been rehearsing in a disused chapel in the old town. He writes that the Quartet were leaving for Scotland to become the guests of Dr. Hamilton Fyfe, Principal of the University of Aberdeen, who was their host when they played at Queen's University, Kingston, during his incumbency there. During most of November and early December they will be playing nightly in Scandinavian centres. They will be back in Toronto at Christmas, but immediately after the New Year embark on an American tour. Canadians will not hear them until next spring. P.O.D. does not like chamber music very much but says their playing of Brahms gave him a real thrill."

The Saturday Night also reports that Scott Malcolm and Reginald Godden, who gave a concert in Charlottetown, under the auspices of the Community Concert Association, are soon to embark upon their most extensive concert tour embracing about thirty or forty cities of Canada and the United States. It is two years since the Toronto-trained artists have given a performance in Toronto so before departing on their tour they are giving a concert programme in Massey Hall on November 22nd sponsored by the Lions Club, a service club composed of business and professional men. This is the beginning of a new activity on the part of the Lions Club as henceforth they intend sponsoring the appearance of top-ranking Canadian concert artists giving financial as well as moral support.

HAPPENINGS OF THE WEEK

The King and Queen last Saturday attended services in the village church of St. Paul's where the Queen was baptized and where she worshipped as a girl. After the service the Queen unveiled a plaque commemorating her association with the church. The King and Queen were weekend guests of the Queen's brother, David Bows-Lyon, and his wife, at Waldenbury, Hertfordshire.

Princess Elizabeth, daughter of the King and Queen, has "extraordinarily mature" handwriting as an expert said Wednesday after analyzing a specimen of her signature. The expert was not told after he had delivered his opinion, in which he described the Princess as having "a tendency to be emotionally erratic and variable" which he said was being "disciplined." He said her handwriting showed an affectionate nature, personalness and devotion to personal relationships. "It is interesting to note the letter 'Z,' which is extremely certain, and belongs to the hand of a spirited child," he said. He said the Princess had more "certainty than humor."

The Earl and Countess of Beesborough have returned to London from Stansted Park, Rowland-Castle, Sussex.

Mrs. J. D. Hyndman, who has been visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hyndman, in Edmonton, for the past month, returned to Ottawa over the week-end.

Mrs. Noel H. DeBlois, is entertaining at an afternoon bridge today at her lovely home, 21 Water Street.

Mrs. W. S. Stewart, was hostess for her weekly bridge club yesterday at Hillsborough House.

Mrs. A. H. Mould, left Thursday on a few weeks visit to her family in Malone, N. Y. and Niagara Falls.

Mrs. A. B. Leigh Horne, and daughter, Miss Janet Horne, of Summerside, are visiting in Montreal.

Mrs. Clark of Digby, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. George G. K. Peake and Mr. Peake, 121 North River Road.

Mrs. John A. Fraser, has been spending a delightful week with her sister, Mrs. Logan, in Halifax.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Wright, are being congratulated on their beautiful new home into which they moved recently.

Mrs. (Dr.) J. Wendell MacKenzie, held her post-nuptial reception on Tuesday afternoon at her home 277 Richmond Street when she welcomed a large number of callers. Exquisite Mulberry and pink chrysanthemums added to the attractiveness of the drawing-room where Mrs. MacKenzie.

wearing her wedding dress of white lace with corsage of sweetheart roses was assisted in receiving by her mother, Mrs. H. W. Platts, gowned in blue lace with corsage of flowers, and the Doctor's sister, Miss Lillian MacKenzie who wore Fuschia velvet with mulberry mum corsage. The duties of ushering were pleasantly attended to in the drawing-room by Mrs. G. Elliott Full, while Mrs. W. R. Elliott ushered to the dining-room. Mrs. Fred A. Bourke, mingled with the guests. The table was daintily arranged with a centre of small bronzes mums, Talsman roses and yellow tapers. Tea was poured by Mrs. A. H. Mould and Mrs. (Dr.) J. P. Lantz who were assisted in dispensing hospitality by Mrs. Allison Owen, Mrs. Arthur Woolner, Mrs. Everett Platts, Mrs. J. Montgomery, Mrs. George Tweedy, Mrs. Ivan Home, Mrs. Earl Baker, Mrs. Arthur Roper.

Miss Eulalie MacLeod, who is to be a December bride, was the guest of honor last Tuesday evening at the Canadian National Hotel when her fellow workers of Moore and McLeod's gave her a Limoge China shower and also presented her with a handsome Travelling Case to mark the happy event. A daily supper ended with happiest felicitations.

Already the Queen and Queen Mary are doing some of their Christmas shopping. They have both been ordering crackers. Large, brightly colored musical crackers of the kind which appeal most to young people have been chosen by the Queen. Those which Queen Mary has been buying this year are chiefly for school children.

Mr. Peter Sinclair, M. P., celebrated his 50th birthday last Saturday.

Mrs. E. A. Large, was hostess her lovely home 121 Water Street Wednesday evening for her daughter, Miss Virginia Large who was celebrating her 16th birthday. Happy hours were whiled away with games, and music. Mrs. Large served dainty refreshments during the evening for her young guests.

Mrs. George R. Buntain entertained at a much enjoyed bridge party last evening at her home 139 Rochford Street in honor of Miss Eulalie MacLeod.

Miss Sue Nash, of Truro, is being welcomed on a short holiday visit.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Miller, left Wednesday morning for Montreal, stopping off for a few days with their daughter in Sackville, enroute.

Mrs. S. F. Beaton, North St. Eleanor, was hostess at a much enjoyed supper-bridge at her home last Tuesday evening, the house being gay with flowers and greenery. Among the Charlottetown guests were Mr. and Mrs. H.

ARE YOU A SKINNY STAY-AT-HOME?

Or are you popular for the BEAUTY of your trim figure?

NOTHING exciting ever happens to skinny people! Because everybody likes curves. They like the beauty of the happy, healthy, well-rounded person who is always ready for a jaunt, a dance or a sport. If you are skinny—tired, listless and lack the beauty of these curves, it is probably because your blood lacks life-giving body and muscle-building vital iron. But why continue to be unpopular and ignored when you can "Build up to the Beauty" of curves, pep and good health by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which supply to your blood easily-assimilated iron and other blood-enriching tonics? Iron increases the red corpuscles in your blood upon which your whole body depends for the delivery of nourishment from your food and energizing oxygen from your lungs.

Read this convincing letter: "About eight months ago I was feeling half sick. Tried all the time. No pep. Was continually losing weight. I had my blood tested and was told I was anemic. So I started to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It was the turning point for me all right. I have continued the treatment and I am now feeling life is worth living again."

—Miss Jean B. Start the Dr. Williams' Pink Pills tonic treatment today and you will be on the way to the beauty of energy, good health, normal weight and curves. Only fifty cents a package. And remember, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills provide the cheapest and quickest treatment by which you can

Mrs. Theodore Bayer was among the popular bridge hostesses entertaining at her home last Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. H. J. Phillips, was hostess at a pretty three table bridge at her home 9 Grafton Street on Tuesday evening.

Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll, 90-year-old daughter of Queen Victoria and one-time chateleine of Rideau Hall, Ottawa, gave Lord a lesson in kindness when she presented the prizes and certificates at Charing Cross Medical School recently. She apologized to the students for not giving them a little speech she had prepared as she was not up to saying it. However, she told them, that as some of their number were absent owing to illness, she would write each of the absentees a little note.

Mr. George W. McPhee, M. P. for Yorkton, Sask., a former Islander, celebrated his 57th birthday last Wednesday.

One of the first of a group of Canadians to congratulate Margaret Bannerman Toronto-born star of the English stage who made her American debut in Boston this week in "Three Wives" was Miss Florence Dysart, pretty Boston post-debutante who has friends in this city. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dysart, Brookline and the niece of Premier A. A. Dysart of New Brunswick. The Canadian Club and British Consul General Hugh Ford booked boxes for the opening night of the operetta and afterwards a group of Canadians were received by Miss Bannerman in her dressing room.

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, two of the world's fashion setters, have approved men's formal evening clothes in colors—especially blue. "We have hunting jackets in bright red color—why not dress with a little color in the evening?" The Duke asked, admiring a display of new styles during a three-hour visit to the fashion position. "I like the blue one particularly," the Duchess declared. "I am going to hold the Duchess to that," the Duke answered enthusiastically. The Duke and Duchess spent some time in the jewelry pavilion, lingering especially over cases of unusual mountings. The exhibit was closed to the public so they could rummage freely. A bracelet caught the Duchess' eye. "What is the value of this?" she asked a jeweler. "A million four hundred fifty thousand francs, your grace," she was answered, (about $48,000).
