The marriage of Walter Flynn, Circulation Manager of the Patriot of this City, to Miss Bull of Murray Harbor has been announced.

A telegram received from Ottawa yesterday announced that the marriage took place there yesterday of Helen Jarvis, daughter of the late Henry F. Jarvis, M. D., of Prince Edward Island to Dr. George Warburton, formerly of the Bengal Army.

In the supreme court in St. John's yesterday the criminal case of King vs. McIntyre was tried before the Chief Justice and a jury of the prison being found guilty and sentenced to seven years in Dorchester Penitentiary.

The case of Peter McNutt & Son vs. J.W. Windsor which was to have come up next was settled without going to trial, the defendant paying to the plaintiff $1,075, and each side agreeing to pay their own costs.

The case of the Crown vs. J. Saunders for the prisoner, the case of Peter McNutt & Son vs. J.W. Windsor which was to have come up next was settled without going to trial, the defendant paying to the plaintiff $1,075, and each side agreeing to pay their own costs.

The Presbytery of Prince Edward Island met at Caledonia, and within the Presbyterian church there, on Tuesday, May 31st, 1910, for the induction of Mr. L. Beaton, and was constituted by the moderator, Mr. M. N. McLeod, besides whom were Messrs. D. B. McLeod, A. Gray, A. S. Stewart, D. Wright, D. McKenzie, ministers, and A. J. McPherson, elders.

The edict of induction having been returned as duly served, Mr. D. Wright conducted public worship and preached from Romans 10:15. And how shall they preach, except they be sent? As it is written, How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things!

The moderator made touching reference to the late pastor of the congregation, congratulating the people on becoming a self-sustaining congregation for the first time in their history, and narrated the steps leading to the call of Mr. Beaton. The minister answered the various questions, the moderator by prayer and the right hand of fellowship inducted him into the pastoral charge of Caledonia.

The newly inducted minister was suitably addressed by the moderator and Mr. D. B. McLeod delivered the charge to the people. On signing his willingness to sign the formula, Mr. Beaton took his seat as a member of the church.

Messrs. L. McKenzie and A. J. McPherson introduced the minister to the people and they retired from the church. The session and board of trustees' Presbytery for consultation with

On motion the resolution was accepted to take effect on and after the 23rd day of May, ult., and Mr. T. F. Fullerton was appointed interim moderator of the session at Hampton, etc.

The session records of Caledonia were examined by Mr. D. Wright and being found neatly and correctly kept they were accordingly attested by the moderator.

Presbytery then adjourned to meet at Cardigan, on Tuesday, the 14th day of June next at ten o'clock, a. m., of which public intimation was given and this order was closed with the benediction.

ANDREW GRAY, Clerk pro tem. FRIDAY In the stationing sheet of the N.E. and P.E.I. Conference now in session at Sackville, the following names were reported as having been ordained: Mr. J. J. Bonar, Archdeacon of Ottawa, performed the ceremony.

In addition to those already reported from Prince Street School as having received the Palmer Certificate for penmanship are the following:—Lucy McDonald, Laura M. Simpson, Hazel Milliken, Freda E. Hassard, Annie Margaret F. Irving, Miss Lettie M. Passmore, has been awarded a teacher's certificate from the same institution.

There was one Charlottetown man in the Montreal Herald fire, and he fortunately escaped. This was James Wonnacott, who went from here to Halifax some years ago and became foreman in the Chronicle's mechanical department. He left there at the time of the strike about three years ago and went to Montreal, where he had been employed for some time.

The marriage of Miss Annie M. McIntyre to William Grace of Boston was solemnized in St. Joseph's Church, Roxbury, May 7th at 5:30 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father King. The bride, who looked very pretty in a gown of white, with a large white picture hat, was assisted by Miss Helen Sullivan of Roxbury, also attired in white. Mr. Grace is a native of N. J. Grace of the White Star Line, and was ably supported by Oswald Frazer, also of Boston. Both bride and groom have many friends in this city, and the former being one of our most popular young ladies. The room alone spent several summers in this city. The presents among them being a solid silver berry set from B. Bacon of the firm of W. and A. Bacon, where Miss McIntyre has been employed for the past five years, and from the employees, a large buffet. The bride and groom are both in the line of business, and are both very happy in their new sphere of life.

A splendid gathering of Foresters and a large audience assembled in the public hall at Tryon on Wednesday evening last when addresses were delivered by Rev. Alex. McGillivray of Toronto, Rev. E. J. Rattee, H. C. Reid, and others. The Hon. S. E. Reid presided most acceptably. In opening he mentioned that he had been a member of the I. O. O. F. for twenty-four years and could heartily commend the order for the truly good work being done. Rev. E. J. Rattee gave a few instances of benefits received at B. F. I. during the past few months. A feature of the evening was the magnificent address of the Rev. Alex. McGillivray. He spoke upon the story of the I. O. O. F. His humorous points brightened up this most interesting story and hearty applause was frequent. Before the meeting closed Mr. McGillivray was tendered with enthusiasm and the meeting closed with the National Anthem. Courts Petrel, Westmoreland and Northumberland were all well represented and the members gave vigorous testimony to the uplift they receive.

THE CH'PTOWN MAN'S THRILLING EXPERIENCE. The Guardian has received a clipping from the Daily News Advertiser of Vancouver, B.C., telling of the experience of the two engineers from Prince Rupert who were cast adrift on Cape Fox, Alaska, and were lost for fourteen days. One of the young men, Guy Tooker, formerly resided in this city, where he made many friends. Following is the story of the journey: "We left Stewart on the morning of May 10th," said Mr. Agnew, "intending to come direct to Prince Rupert. We had about enough provisions for the trip. Everything went all right until we reached Jap Point, just below Port Simpson, and there our engine stopped. The gasoline had run in it and we were helpless that night. On Wednesday night, amid a heavy gale sprang up and we started to drift. We were at the mercy of the tide and waves. We drifted on and on, not knowing where we were going. On Thursday afternoon we struck the rocks of Cape Fox, in Alaska, a distance of 40 or 50 miles from the coast. We were on the northwest by west little yacht was dashed to pieces along with our canoe. That looked like the end for us. We were out of the line of steamers, without food and without a tool with which to make a raft. We managed to save about six pounds of flour and four pounds of oatmeal, and a couple of pieces of candle. There was nothing to grease the frying pan with and we made pan-cakes by mixing the flour and meal with salt water. We also had a couple of meals of beans but they were scarce and we did not catch a fish of any kind. We had to come down to eating musk-sals and that's pretty tough. We found three potatoes on shore and one half a radish floated up to us. They were devoured eagerly and without question."

Realizing that life on the cape would be short, the heroes took the bull by the horns and decided to fight fate to the last ditch. "We started gathering driftwood," continued Mr. Agnew, "to make a raft. We had no tools whatever except one small cook knife. We gathered in the logs and we had to burn them in two or three pieces to get them the right length. Then we used stones to drive the old spikes out, and later to drive them in to fasten the logs together. In due time we fashioned a raft that would make you laugh. It was our only chance. We made paddles out of driftwood and a sail out of the cover of the bed tick. "On Sunday, May 18th, we got on our life preserver and took little Pat, the dog, with us. Poor little fellow, he had a hard time, but he pulled through. We started for Port

William W. Field vs. John A. Field and ors.—In this case Mr. Justice Fitzgerald, Vice Chancellor, delivered judgment as follows: In this case a partition is sought between four devisees of a house and plot of land of the probable value of $450. At the hearing it appeared that one of these tenants in common occupied the premises since the death of the tenant for life in September, 1907, unaccompanied however by any exclusion of the other tenants, and without claim of any part of the improvements.

For nine long days and nine long nights I commenced taking it and by the time the second bottle was consumed I knew that I was mending. Gradually I grew well. I have used Hood's since, I would not be without it on any account, and do most enthusiastically endorse every word in its favor."

A SOUTH AFRICAN ANIMAL. There is a curious looking animal in South Africa that looks for all the world like a piece of toast with four legs, a bushy tail, and a head and ears, but its nose is distinctly that of a rat, while its tail is not very dissimilar to that of a fox. The strange animal is called the Havel Wolf and doubtless dwells in South Africa because judged by his looks, he would not be admitted into good animal society anywhere else.

QUEER HIMALAYAN BELIEFS. The people of Kulu are extremely superstitious, and go to extraordinary lengths for demolarity. Many trees are temples dedicated to them. The deities are supposed to live at the tops of trees, and if a tree falls in such a way that it is impossible to pass under it, as is often the case on the mountain sides, every man, before going beneath the trunk, will place on it a stick or a stone to propitiate its guardian spirit. Certain streams are also sacred, and no one is allowed to wash dirty clothes in them. During 1908 some strange events came into the valley of a river in India to pollute the water of a river in this manner. It changed to be a year of extraordinary rainfall, and the people implicitly believe that the excessive rain was sent by the outraged "deity" of the stream as a punishment.

H. S. Young, Long Reach, Statistician Secretary. During later sessions Dr. Borden presented the report on Mount Allison and several important reports and addresses on missions were heard.

SACKVILLE, June 15.—Reports received from the Methodist Conference show the number of members to be 1,200, an increase of 300. The missionary receipts were $12,250, an increase of $1,577. Rev. Dr. Campbell's leave is extended for another year. The station sheets show seventeen changes. Rev. Mrs. Crisp goes to Dorchester. Rev. Mr. Thomas to Grand Bay. Rev. Mr. McKie to St. David's. Rev. Mr. Marr to Portland Street, St. John.

The ministerial section of the Methodist Conference met this evening with the retiring president, the Rev. A. D. McCully, B. D., in the chair. The usual devotional exercises were engaged in, a service being held there, after which the roll was called and the regular business entered upon. As this was a minister's meeting the doors were closed against all others, and no authoritative account of what was done can be given until the official report is made to the full conference tomorrow. It is understood, however, all was smooth sailing, and the order of procedure was not interfered with. One of the duties of this body is to decide who shall be placed upon the list of supernumeraries. It is possible but not probable that others may be added later on, but at this time of writing the list is as follows: John S. Allen, Thomas Allen, Douglas Chapman, D. D. Henry, J. Clarke, J. Colter, S. T. B., James A. Duke, Edwin Evans, D. D., George Harrison, Isaac A. Parker, Joseph Pascoe, George B. Payson, Stephen H. Rice, Elias Stackford, Charles Stewart, D. D., Stephen T.
