Funeral Services Of Sister M. F. Leard

Funeral services for Nursing Sister Margaret F. Leard were held in Alberton United Church at 2:30 p. m. on Wednesday, February 4th, 1948. Miss Leard's death occurred at Sackville, N. B. Sunday morning as the result of injuries received in a highway accident the preceding evening. Her body was brought to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman B. Leard in Alberton, on Tuesday, accompanied by Rev. D. T. Ross, Flemington, O. B. E., D. D., President of Mount Allison University, and four of her friends. Also among the mourners were several of her nurse friends. The flag-draped casket bore a wreath of poppies and was surrounded by a profusion of flowers which brought their silent messages of love and sympathy. Members of the Alberton Branch of the Canadian Legion attended. The service in a body, and a full choir was present to pay last tribute to one of their number.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. M. Fraser, minister of the church, assisted by Rev. Dr. Flemington who read from the Scriptures. Rev. Mr. Fraser based his brief message of comfort on the words, "The eternal God is his refuge and underneath are the everlasting arms." Paraphrasing the well known words of Ian McLaren, Mr. Fraser expressed in them the feeling of the large assembled congregation: "Lord, have pity upon us for we loved her and we were proud of her." "This is not the day for many words, but there is just one heart in this community and that heart is sore."

Dr. Flemington's message was divided into three parts. First, he read a touching tribute to Miss Leard which had, by his request, been prepared by Dr. Alfred Whitehead, Dean of the Mount Allison Conservatory of Music where Miss Leard was studying pipe organ. After expressing the shock and grief felt by the Conservatory faculty and staff in Miss Leard's tragic passing, Dr. Whitehead described her as one of the few ideal students of his long experience, gifted, earnest and with the type of mind which quickly makes for a complete understanding between pupil and teacher. "Had she been spared," said Dr. Whitehead, "she would have become, in a way unsuspected and unsuspected by herself, one of the best loved students of Mount Allison, as much for the beauty of her character as for her undoubted gifts."

Secondly, in referring to Miss Leard's experience as a Nursing Sister amidst the death and destruction of war, Dr. Flemington read a passage from Rev. W. H. Elliott, Precentor of His Majesty's Chapels Royal and Domestic Chaplain to the King, whose weekly messages in London newspaper were a source of comfort to thousands of people living in daily peril during the war years. In part the message read: "Those who die don't leave us. They have not changed their place of life but their state. They are never what we stupidly call them 'the departed,' but the change of state admits them to a much fuller revelation of what life is. For there are things that 'eye hath not seen nor ear heard.' 'The dead are not dead. They are much more alive than we, they are still themselves. They love as they are loved — and more. They are not gone. Still less are they lost. They are so near — if we only knew!'"

Lastly, Dr. Flemington described the funeral service which was held for Miss Leard this morning at Fawcett Memorial Hall on the University campus. This service was attended by over a thousand students and at its close, after they had sung the Veteran's Hymn, "O God, our help in ages past," those who had known her best formed a guard of honor from the Hall to the station and for a half mile her body passed between them. In doing so, Dr. Flemington left with the people of Alberton, as he had with the Mount Allison students, two terse statements for their own consideration and expansion. "I. We are thankful for Margaret's 30 years of life and service. She was a Nursing Sister during the war and this year was taking music in order that she might add to the joy of life. 2. She gave her life, chaperoning a sleigh drive. She died amidst happiness after living amidst war — and I think she would have wished it that way. Never forget — she lives on — and is another of ours in the distant scene."

Hymns sung during the service were chosen by Miss Leard's family and were great expressions of strong Christian faith — "I to the Hills Will 'Lit Mine Eyes," "I Know Not What the Future Hath," and "The Lord's My Shepherd."

Borne by six of her friends, Messrs. Perley Hardy, Charles Johnston, Alvin Ashley, Robert Hardy, Roy O'Meara and Walter Wells, Miss Leard's body was laid to rest in the family plot in Woodlawn Cemetery after the committal service conducted by Rev. M. Fraser, the beautiful farewell service of the Legion was carried out by members of the Alberton Branch.
