Another Quake Felt In Los Angeles

(Dom. Press Special.) LOS ANGELES, June 23.—There was another earthquake shock in Los Angeles at 4.20 a. m. today. The shaking was violent enough to awaken the sleepers but did no appreciable damage to property.

21 BUILDINGS FELL IN QUAKE.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 23.—A survey early today of the damage done by an earthquake last night indicated that Inglewood, ten miles southwest of here, suffered much more severely than was at first reported.

Twenty-one business buildings in the town were practically destroyed, the town was deprived of light and gas and scores of dwellings were seriously damaged.

Many plate glass windows in Los Angeles were shattered by the shock, several buildings were otherwise injured and persons were struck by bricks shaken from chimneys. San Pedro, Long Beach, Santa Monica and Venice also reported minor damage.

The death of Mrs. Wm. Shipley of Los Angeles, at Venice, a beach resort was attributed to the earthquake. She jumped from an automobile following the tremor and fell dead from heart disease. The earthquake area was confined to Los Angeles county, Inglewood bearing the brunt of its severity. The front walls of the Inglewood hotel, a theatre, and undertaking establishment, a real estate office, three grocery stores, a pool meat markets, two garages, a furniture store and other downtown buildings collapsed. The steeple of the Episcopal Church toppled into the street and the buildings occupied by the

CROP ROTATIONS.

C. E. MacKenzie

This season of the year may not seem to be the proper one to discuss crop rotation but it has been my experience that the farmer has to look and work ahead and the up-to-date farmer should know where his different crops will be for at least three years ahead. So at this season we may as well plan as best we can for future crops. Therefore it is a necessity on well managed farms to be always looking ahead, planning ahead, and working ahead.

A beginner has to be made somewhere and there is no better time than the present to lay down a basis for a short crop rotation, so that when autumn comes on we may have definite plans for our 1921 crop.

There are many advantages to be derived from the rotation of crops and the shorter the rotation the better.

There is no more successful method of fighting noxious weeds than by changing the crop on each field each year and making the entire rotation not longer than from three to five years.

A number of years ago in fact about twenty on the old homestead owned by my brother there was a field that would yield poor crops, it was nothing but a mass of quack grass and he tried the following as a remedy; it was plowed after pasture and left rough for the winter, in the following spring it was sown to oats and seeded with about ten pounds of early red clover to the acre. The oat crop was light, being choked out, the following year there was lots of quack grass, and a little clover. This was cut for hay, it being a good summer the after math came along fair and in early autumn it was plowed under and seeded with spring it was again sown to oats and seeded to clover (no timothy used either times) the oat crop showed a decided improvement and the following year a good crop of clover was cut; the after math the second year was almost to the horses knees when plowed and again the third year the plan was

Half a Pineapple For One Dessert

In Jiffy-Jell desserts the fruit flavors are abundant. For instance, half a pineapple is crushed to make the flavor for one pint dessert. This is done in Hawaii from fruit too ripe to ship.

All Jiffy-Jell fruit flavors are made from condensed fruit juice. They come in liquid form—in vials—a bottle in each package. That is true of no other quick gelatine dessert.

A few cents will serve a real-fruit dessert for six people. No artificial flavor or saccharine. It is the most delicious fruit dessert available, and it comes in ten choice flavors.

repeated, and to the present time this field will give as good a yield as any on the farm and is entirely free from quack grass, weeds gaining very little headway on fields which carry a head crop once in three years, the other two years being devoted to clover and grain. This is a very short rotation, and may not be suitable to all methods of farming. The farmers must decide for himself the best rotation to follow.

Personally I am trying on one field a three year rotation as follows:—One crop of grain, one of hay and one of pasture. This field is about thirty acres purchased a few years ago originally good land but cropped out to oats until it would hardly grow anything. I am trying this as an experiment and hope for good results.

Very successful men have found a four or five year rotation quite suitable and in it the land is usually seeded down at least for two years out of the term, and produces at least one head crop during that period, so that it is obvious that in so far as keeping the farm free from weeds is concerned, crop rotation is of great importance and for this reason alone no farmer operating on a mixed farming basis can afford to crop his fields in a haphazard manner. It is a well known fact that different crops require varying amounts of the various plant foods contained in ordinary farm soil, and also that different crops feed in different ways and at different depths. This in itself is sufficient reason to follow crop rotation. Experience has taught many men that grain after grain, year after year, does not bring highest returns from the farm. The soil must be built up and its fertility maintained by a judicious cropping system in which the land is cleaned, rested and fertilized.

Besides this it must be remembered that practically the whole of the farming done in this province is mixed farming and must continue to be so.

It is necessary under such a system to provide plenty of feed of a wide variety as possible for a large number of farm animals. Only by a good crop rotation system can this be done to best advantage.

A rotation of crops closely followed insures good feed for all the farm stock which in turn provides an abundance of farm manure to be returned to the soil to maintain its fertility. Hoed crops clover and stock go together, and these crops must be prominent in any well-planned rotation.

Another advantage gained by rotating crops carefully is that the manure to be returned to the soil is of a great rush comes at any one time, while at the same time there is always plenty of work to keep the farm hands busy. This, where live stock is kept in abundance, also insures work for the men during winter. It is important in this particular because where men are hired by the year is no difficulty in obtaining help. Short rotations are easier on the land than any other system of farming. They provide a variety of sources of income which insure good returns from the farm each year. All the eggs are not in one basket, and there is not so much fear of failure. The farm produces on a smaller acreage than it would do under old time grain farming system. There is only one way to be a good farmer in this twentieth century and that is to follow a well defined short rotation system, and we should all think seriously about it and plan for a bigger and brighter future.

Rioting Quelled In Londonderry

(Special to The Guardian.) DUBLIN June 23.—The rioting in Londonderry yesterday was to some extent quelled by the presence of sentries who paced the city streets with fixed bayonets. After keeping an all night vigil on the scene of Sunday's and Monday's outbreaks, a recurrence of the shocking scenes of the previous forty-eight hours occurred spasmodically it is reported, and in the post office area there have been no deliveries of bread or milk and business is at a standstill.

DUBLIN June 23.—The food situation at Londonderry today was serious as a result of refusal of drivers to deliver milk, bread and other foodstuffs. The factional strike in city had calmed to some extent, although shooting and fist fighting continued in scattered sections, police and military authorities believe they had the situation well in hand and were expecting strong reinforcements from Dublin today.

Ritzen's Savings Bank and the First National Bank of Inglewood virtually were destroyed. Several persons in Inglewood were slightly injured by falling plaster and bricks and broken glass, but no serious injuries were reported.

The Edison building and the Laughlin building, formerly separated by a space of a few inches, were found to have become closely joined after the shock. Cracks over the main entrance to the O.T. Johnson building, on Broadway, showed the effects of the tremor.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

BY DELLA E. STEWART

Wasn't it honest Abraham Lincoln who once cautioned concerning knowing so many things which were not so? How few facts it takes sometimes to furnish foundation for weird tales which the fact-furnisher would never recognize as started by her!

If gossip were really confined to actual facts, how much less there would be! How much more kindly feeling communities and neighborhoods would enjoy! How much less of resentment and of injured feelings we should have to meet!

Why repeat things which we do not absolutely know are so? Why repeat them anyway, if there is the slightest danger of troubling or wounding any one? What do we gain thereby?

A formula was given in a government bulletin concerning the making of cottage cheese from buttermilk. Several farmers, who should have known better, laughed the idea to scorn. "Whoever heard of such a thing?" they scornfully asked. "What's the use of spreading such false ideas among folks?" Yet some of the very best flavored cheese was made from just that, by those who did know.

A certain city dweller was asked concerning the library facilities of her city. "I don't think that you can find any books on ( ) in our library" was the instant reply. A query to the proper authorities, at once brought out the fact that there were books galore, besides many magazine articles and newspaper clippings on the very subject in mind. Instances, both of being sure of things that are not so. "You'll never get that woman interested in such a movement." Another would-be sage remark. "All she cares about is dress and her own pleasure." Yet the venture was made, and a splendid, enthusiastic helper obtained. Another case of knowing what was not so. Let's learn to be more careful of our statements.
