THE PRINCE'S VISIT.

The visit of the Prince of Wales to the Quebec Tercentenary celebration serves to recall the visit of his father our present King forty-eight years ago, and the cordial and happy relations which have subsisted between British America and the crown for generations past. Under the monarchical system the people usually have their future ruler in prospect for years before he is called to assume his official duties. The Heir Apparent also has usually an extended period in which to become acquainted with his people. This is a great advantage on both sides. King Edward's visits as a prince to the different portions of the vast Empire over which he now reigns no doubt contributed much to the happy accord between the throne and people which have long been so much in evidence.

The Prince of Wales was able to speak of the present as his sixth visit to Canada. His reception by the multitude assembled at Quebec was most hearty and sincere. This is exactly what we would all have expected, and it appears to have strongly impressed the visitors from other countries, especially from the Republics of the United States and France. Vice President Fairbanks expressed himself as not only delighted with the celebration, but very deeply impressed with the fervor and sincerity of the reception to the Prince. This is something which our neighbors find it a little difficult to understand. To the Canadian people the Prince is the representative of a throne above all parties and belonging equally to all parties; and the fact that he is himself our prospective ruler, with a son who shall succeed to the same exalted station, deepens the interest and affection between the throne and the people.

The republican from of government is widely prevalent in North America and South America and has its attractions to many people. It has also its weaknesses, in that the elected head is the choice of one party rather than of the entire people, that the office is transient, and hence lacks both the permanency and the dignity which attach to a throne and a dynasty. And yet the people of Canada are not less free or less democratic than are the people of France or the United States. We make our own laws and govern ourselves as truly as they do. Our government is of the people by the people and for the people, as truly as theirs, and there is less of meddlesome interference by the head of the state under the monarchical system than under the republican system. These are among the considerations which make Canadian loyalty to the throne a strong and characteristic feature of our national life.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS IN THE UNITED STATES.

The latest official report of railway accidents for a year in the United States shows alarming figures. But it must be remembered that the railway system there is a vast one of 229,951 miles, employing and army of 317,800 train hands and carrying 873,905,000 passengers and 1,796,336,000 tons of freight. There are no fewer than 371,000 men serving as engine and train men, switchmen and watchmen, etc. who are in some way constantly in risk from their own or fellow employees' failure to do their duty effectively. A system so enormous and whose statistics are carefully kept, must of necessity report a very large number of casualties. These were of the following classes:

	Killed,	Injured.
Employees	4,538	87,644
Passengers	610	13,041
Other persons	6,695	10,331

In all such tables the large number of the killed is usually among those who are neither employees nor passengers. These include the large numbers killed at level crossings, the persons who walk or trespass on the tracks and the tramps and others who seek to ride on the trains without paying. It will be observed that more than half the number killed were in these classes, while the number of the injured was more than two thirds made up from railway employees, of whom trainmen, switchmen and section hands were the greatest sufferers. It seems painfully true that in proportion to mileage and the business done by our Canadian railways the number of railway casualties in Canada compares much more nearly with those of the United States than with those of the British and European systems. For these results our single tracks, level crossings and the absence of the block systen are largely responsible.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is reported in the Boston Transcript as saying that "the people of Canada are not given to being influenced by parliamentary charges and investigations." In this matter Sir Wilfrid is mistaken. He seems to have forgotten the action of the people in regard to the Pacific Scandal and the Ross Government in Ontario. The people of Canada profoundly resented the conduct, first of the Conservative Government and afterwards of a Liberal Government in these matters. It is true that Quebec was less moved by the Pacific Scandal than was the English-speaking Provinces. Ontario gave almost a two-thirds majority and New Brunswick and Nova Scotia gave still larger majorities against Sir John Macdonald in 1874 while Quebec divided afmost even. Sir Wilfrid will make a great mistake if he accepts the sentiment of Quebec at the present time as that of the people of Canada. He has in his favor in his home Province powerful influences of race and religion which do not operate in the same fashion in the east and west of the Dominion.

The statement of Hon. Mr. Fisher that because of the high price of good farming land in this Province he had not being able to secure a location for the promised Experimental Farm is but partly satisfactory. It is satisfactory to know that good land is valuable. But good land ought to be worth a good price to the Government as well as to the private owners. In view of the vast expenditures being made in the west there should be no hesitation in expending a few thousands for the promised Experimental Farm here. We hope yet to see the purchase made and the farm put in operation not later than next year.

Building Up a Young Man's Earning Power

I will
I can
I believe I can
I hope I can
I wish I could
I can't

Here is an illustration which depicts the life of the indolent young man to perfection. He starts out in his career with no thought of the future. If you gave him a chance to get an education he would say "I can't find time to study" or "I can't afford it." This level belongs to the simple mind or the drifting fellow who floats down stream with no object or plan. If he begins to arouse himself a bit and realize his aimless course he reaches a stage where he says "I wish I could". The next plan he reaches on the way up is where he says "I hope I can".

Our individual now has hope and as he looks about him, and gains strength he gets to the place where he can say "I believe I can" confidence helps some, but he must go still further before he can bodily declare "I can". One more step must be taken however before he stands on the highest level of all and asserts his real manhood by saying "I WILL."

If YOU have any pride at all, you will not admit that you belong to anything but the FIRST CLASS.

Secure an education through the International Correspondence Schools NOW. The Business of THIS place is to Raise Salaries.
