THE INTEREST TAKEN IN THE PEOPLE.

Under a September moon, and with the faint incense of field and hedgerow stirring through the streets, Blackwell looks to be the very best place in the whole world, if the adjective is applied in the right way. The wayfarer walks along, and only his footsteps break the stillness. No lights show in the fronts of the tiny houses, and this is soon explained when it is found that the occupants sit in their kitchens, so that the streets will not be garish at night.

SINLESS TOWN FOUND IN COAL DISTRICT.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—All America knows of the existence of a "Sinless Town," but who from Maine to Texas or from Washington to Florida ever heard of a "Sinless Village?" There is one in England, and it is a mining town, too—the little town of Blackwell, in the colliery district, where one would naturally suspect riotousness and vice. Instead of vice owning Blackwell, virtue triumphs, almost to a degree, the visitors say, of monotony.

Stock in the Murray River Proposition is Selling Fast

The most popular of all the younger fox companies is the Murray River Silver Black Fox Co. This organization, only fourteen weeks old, with its proposition before the public for less than a week, has sold nearly all the shares in its capital stock ($108,000, at $100 a share par), Every day sees a big block of stock go into private ownership and if you don't decide—act—today it will be too late. There are just a few shares left so act now—today—right away.

Prospects for the Coming Year

The prospects for the year are exceedingly bright. Twelve 1914 pups have already been optioned and 10 p. c. of the purchase price has been paid.

Options No. 1 and 2 sold for $12,500 each and options 3, 4, 5, and 6 sold for $12,000 each, a total of $73,000 for the six pairs.

This is an exceedingly good start for a young company. It is estimated that the six pairs of breeders will produce at least 18 pups or 9 pairs during the breeding season of 1914. The chances are that the yield will be much larger than this.

Just a few shares of capital stock remain uncovered. If you have not seen to your stock now is the time, for the books will soon be closed and after that you will have to pay a premium.
