Charlottetown is noted for the abundance of its pleasant drives, for according to the tourist saying "this is the Garden of the Gulf." While the above is true this Province can be more properly termed the "home of the beaches." In order to reach these resorts it is necessary to drive and in taking an outing will incumbent be to secure a nice team. It is exceedingly desirable that the means of conveyance shall harmonize with the finished work of nature. A visit to Robin's Livery will satisfy all desires in this particular line as the proprietor is a thorough believer in the best.

THE S. S. Halifax sailed from Boston on Saturday afternoon on her first trip of the season and will arrive here early Tuesday morning from Boston. The Halifax has undergone a complete overhauling. The Plant colors, yellow and Indian red, have been replaced with white, giving her a much more majestic appearance. The social hall has been enameled white with gold trimmings and new carpets have been laid. The main saloon and grand companion way have been enameled with white and gold trimmings. The upholstery is entirely new throughout. Cabins and staterooms have been thoroughly renovated. The Halifax is beyond a doubt one of the most popular boats in Maritime waters, and her many friends and patrons will be pleased to learn that she will take her place on the route again looking as handsome as a new steamer. Captain Pye and the genial officers of his ship will doubtless be accorded a cordial welcome to-morrow morning.

THE London Advertiser in referring to the appearance of Prof. McEwen in that city says: Prof. McEwen scored another success at the Auditorium last night, as was amply testified to by the delighted audience that attended the performance London has been visited by several other hypnotists of late years, but it is safe to say that McEwen is the peer of them all. He creates more interest and enthusiasm than the average hypnotist, which is no doubt accounted for by the way he presents the subject to his audience. He tries to give a correct understanding of the principle upon which he works, and in his short opening addresses and frequent explanations of his demonstrations throughout his entertainment, he convinces all interested that he not only understands his business, but makes others understand enough to prove that hypnotism—at least with him—is no "fake." That the entertainments are ludicrous in the extreme is true, but it is also true that there is no element of coarseness in the fun, and the most critical have only words of praise for the way in which he demonstrates what he calls "the power of mind over matter." Perhaps the most wondrous part of his work is shown in the beautiful tableaux or living pictures. [Professor McEwen will make his appearance in the Opera House to-night.]

In referring to the appearance of the Boston Sextette the Halifax Chronicle says: The Boston Sextette Club concert, in Orpheus Hall, last evening, was a complete success in every respect. The hall was filled to overflow with an audience of music-lovers, who came expecting a treat and went away abundantly satisfied with the feast of good things so liberally provided. From overture to finale the program was admirable in selection and execution. The concerted work of the Sextette was perhaps its most enjoyable feature, but the solos evoked the most applause, which they well deserved. Heavy demands were made in the way of encores and were responded to with almost lavish generosity. The violin solo of Mr. Loud and the cello solo of Mr. Landsman received the generous applause which they so well deserved. Both performers responded to two encores.

Langley's Evening Breeze, in the second number caught the fancy of the audience immensely and evoked an outburst of enthusiasm. Mr. Staat's clarinet solo was also received with great warmth. Miss Ellsbree has a rich and highly finished voice which was heard more effectively in her first than in her second number.

Mr. Hebb deserved the thanks of music loving Halifax for the treat which he provided for them last evening. He and the Sextette Club are each to be complimented on their joint success.—The Bostonia Sextette Club plays in Charlottetown on this afternoon and evening.

AMONG the 11 horses that Mr. Woodbury took across with him on Saturday was the three year old Israel Colt purchased from Mr. V. Douse of the Central Livery, Queen Street. This was one of the most promising colts ever sold in Charlottetown.

A RICH TREAT.—At the conclusion of the service last night in the brick church M. Loud of the Bostonia Sextette played several violin selections. For purity of tone, accuracy of intonation and delicate stopping it would be hard to find Mr. Loud's superior. Owing to a sprained ankle Miss Ellsbree was unable to assist at the service.
