Attacks On Dover Seen Confliction With Invasion Plan

By Kirke L. Simpson
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 30 —(AP)—A sudden concentration of German air attack on Dover stirred worldwide conjecture that Britain's hour of trial had come, with Dover as a prospective bridgehead for invasion of the tight little isle. Yet circumstances of the Nazi bombardment of that port, as officially reported in Berlin, sharply conflict with that impression.

Certainly, if the Germans plan to land masses of troops at Dover port, blocking its entrance by sinking enemy ships in the fairway would create more difficulties for the invaders than for the defenders. That is a step that the British plan of defence might well include in order to deny the enemy use of the sheltered waters of Dover or any other narrow-mouthed harbor on the English Channel.

Landing of siege guns, tanks and other equipment which the Germans would need to prosecute an invasion with any hope of success would be a difficult matter at best.

A landing on England's open beaches would be even more difficult. They are unsheltered from the swells of the shallow channel and North Sea— waters which are set rolling by even a minor conflict between wind and sea currents.

All this enhances the importance of the weather factor in the present military situation.

Though the Dover air battles furnish few dependable new clues as to the German plans, German propaganda on a world-wide front is doing its best to convince everybody that the assault on England will be over by Oct. 1 or thereabouts.

Rumors have been circulating in Buenos Aires that Germany is offering signed-sealed-and delivered contracts to Latin-American merchants for delivery of German goods in October in exchange for food stuff.

It is readily conceivable that this is merely axis propaganda designed to muddy the waters of Pan-American unity.

October delivery on such deals would be possible only with the British fleet eliminated from the Atlantic. It was still ruling the waves there at last accounts. Predicting its total elimination in two months is taking a lot of unexplored territory, even for the ambitious axis propaganda factory.

Many Children Among Passengers From Old Country

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, July 31—(CP)—More than 2,000 persons turned their backs tonight to the strife in Europe and looked to life in a new land.

They were the passengers of two liners which arrived here from Britain this morning. More than 1,500 of them were children, sent by their parents to friends and relatives in Canada and the United States for the duration of the war.

Of the others, many were widely known. To Canadians, Lady Byng, widow of Lord Byng of Vimy, former Governor-General and commander of the Canadian forces in the First Great War, was perhaps most familiar.

War duties drew a few of the passengers on the two liners to this side of the ocean. A half-dozen of them were high-ranking naval officers, led by Vice-Admiral A. E. Evans, who have not yet learned why they are here.

Included in this group were Rear Admiral R. P. Walker, Engineer Rear Admiral E. J. O'B. Croker, Captain Jeans, Engineer Commander Watson, Commander Crossman and Paymaster Commander Sutterthwaite.

Evans Interviewed

Admiral Evans, who has been acting as a commodore of convoys since the war began, said of the reason for his coming: "We know very little ourselves. I was merely asked if I would sail in an unknown ship for unknown destination to stay an indefinite time."

He indicated he would learn the nature of his duties when he made contact with naval authorities.

Admiral Evans expressed the personal belief the present war would not last as long as the 1914-18 conflict. "With the increased tempo, the speed and mobility of forces and the present rate of action," he said, "I cannot see how it can last as long as the last war."

A man with a military mission was General William Steffens, 59-year-old commander-in-chief of Norway's west coast forces during the German invasion last spring. He said he had come to Canada to organize Norwegian units to continue resistance against Germany. He was accompanied by his aide-de-camp, Second Lieutenant Finne.

FINANCE

By Frederick Gardner
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, July 31—(AP)—Depressed steels blocked rallying tendencies in the stock market today and prices moved over narrow, irregular paths.

Most issues in the Canadian section finished unchanged to fractions higher. Distillers Seagram, Dome, Brazilian Traction, Ford and Hollinger gained fractions while International Nickel and Walkers eased fractions. In the bond market Canada 4s were unchanged.

The Associated Press average of 60 shares gained .1 of a point at 42.8. Transactions totalled 555,860 shares compared with 673,620 yesterday. The months total, 7,306,720 shares, was the lowest since August 1918.

U. S. Steel slipped 1 1-4 points.

Leaders on the upside at the close included Eastman, Union Carbide, DuPont, Westinghouse, United Aircraft, Harvester, American Telephone, Western Union and International Paper. Among those lower were U. S. Steel Bethlehem, Republic Steel, General Motors, Chrsyler, Sears Roebuck, Chesapeake & Ohio, Pennsylvania Railroad and Phelps Dodge.

U. S. Steel Corporation Has Good Quarter

NEW YORK, July 30—(AP)—United States Steel Corporation reported today that its net income in the second quarter of 1940 aggregated $19,201,008, with one exception the best for an April-May-June period since 1930.

It was a sharp gain from 1939, when only $1,309,761 was earned in the second quarter, and a little better than the first three months of 1940, in which net came to $17,113,995.

It was only two-third of the total for the last quarter of 1939, however, when the steel industry felt the first flush of war-inspired buying, and 53 per cent of the excellent results of the second quarter of 1937, the exception since 1930.

The earnings of United States Steel—world's largest steel maker accounting for a little more than a third of the American ingot capacity—brought net income for the first 320 United States corporations to report for the second quarter to $364,126,000, a gain of 44 per cent over 1939.

Thrill Of Lifetime For Evacuees

(By Gladys Arnold, Canadian Press Correspondent)

A NORTHWEST PORT, July 30—(CP)—The thrill of a lifetime wiggled up the spines of the first group of children to be evacuated to Canada under the British Government's overseas evacuation plan, as they saw their own ship steam up to the dock from which they left Great Britain.

About 100 of them, including escorts, were led in groups of 12 down the wharves to floating docks. Each group was in charge of a qualified guardian. Each child had gas mask dangling, extra coats clutched, identity discs securely fastened.

The thrill reached its peak when the gun crews—sailors in steel helmets—marched on board and the children filed in behind them. One gunner clapped his hat on a delighted small boy's head and said: "You're in the blooming navy now, me lad."

The ship, an 8,000-ton passenger boat, left here the other day for an undisclosed Canadian port, the children singing "There'll Always Be An England." Boys and girls, ranging in age from five to 15, were in the group. All were from grant-aided schools in vulnerable English towns.

When they reach Canada, about 60 per cent of the children will go to relatives in Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Perth, Ont., Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary, Vancouver and Victoria. The rest do not know where they will live in Canada for the war's duration but consider themselves the "prize packages" of the group.

All were in charge of Miss Edith Cowans, a nurse experienced in group work with children who was welfare supervisor during the First Great War. Helping her were five assistants, along with a doctor, a Salvation Army officer, an Anglican padre and a Canadian Roman Catholic priest. Father Peter Jones, formerly fo Kingston, Ont.

The entire third class section of the ship had been laid out for the transport of the children.

One small girl looked around her quarters with satisfaction, asked "how many miles do we go?" she was told. "And how many days?"

After a moment's silence, she said: "Well, the girl across the street at home was always boasting about her travelling—and a simple ride she took on the Thames. Wait until I come back after the war, I'll have something to tell her."

Cod, halibut, haddock, herring, mackerel, smelt, sardine, swordfish, tuna, salmon, lobster and oyster fisheries are among the important fishing activities carried out on the Atlantic Coast of Canada according to the Natural Resources Department of the Canadian National Railways.
