ISLAND INDIAN RELICS—Major May, St. Eleanor, who was in the city yesterday, showed a representation of the Guardian two fine specimens of flint rocks used by the Indians of bygone days in shooting duck. One is complete, ready for use, the other in course of completion. They were found by Major May's mother many years ago on Stanhope beach and have, with others, been retained as heirlooms in the May family. It would be well if some permanent museum, even on a small scale could be provided for such curios.

THE OLD CHAPEL CLOCK

The following verses which appeared in The Guardian over forty years ago, are reprinted through the courtesy of a subscriber who preserved them as a memento of old times

The old chapel clock,
 How it calls to my mind,
 The old church,
 The side railing,
 The board fence to the west,
 The red sandstone steps,
 And the spot I love best,
 The grave, the tree,
 And the old Chapel Clock
 Smiles down upon me.

How oft as a boy, when learning the time,
 And trying to decipher the ten from the nine,
 Would its hands help me out in their friendly way,
 At least I believe so—to this very day.

And later when running to school in the morn,
 It was not that we dreaded the sound of a horn,
 But scattered like sheep
 We rounded the block,
 To look up at the time
 On the old Chapel Clock.

How many it helped to boat and to train,
 How many have gone and ne'er
 How many again,
 Whom fortune did mock,
 Have sighed for the days
 Of the old Chapel Clock.

How many have looked on its bright shining face,
 How many have learned—their footsteps to trace,
 Engagements—supper—always on time,
 By a look at the clock or an ear for its chime.

I've seen its face cloud with a storm in its air,
 As though it were signalling man-kind to beware,
 Hardy and brave—though piled up with snow,
 The hands of the clock—continued to go.

Like the friends of its day, it stood honest and true,
 Tracing a record for me and for you,
 To look after the minutes allotted to man,
 To stand by that record as soon as we can.

And sometimes at night!
 When restless I'd be,
 Bring comfort to me,
 Like the hand of the mesmerist
 Over the face,
 The chime of the clock
 Would my troubles efface.

Like the oak and the ivy
 My thoughts they entwine,
 Round the old Chapel Clock
 And the men of its time.

A lesson we learn from inanimate things,
 As the tree that we look at
 From its embryo springs;
 To act out our part
 To be honest and brave
 This be our motto down to the grave.

From the lessons I've learned
 I'll stand firm as a rock,
 The lessons I've learned
 From the old Chapel Clock.

And when my day's run,
 To me time is no more,
 When I'm waited away to that far distant shore,
 One glint in the darkness,
 Sufficient for me,
 If the face of my Maker
 Shines down upon me.

ARMY BLOCKS EFFORT TO FORM CABINET

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) TOKYO, Jan. 23—The army standing virtually alone, tonight loomed as a formidable barrier to the formation of a cabinet by General Kuushige Ugaki, former Governor-General of Korea.
 Ugaki, although a retired General and four times Minister of War, was opposed by the present army command because of his moderate leanings, his friendly relations with political parties and because as minister he reduced the standing army by two divisions.
 Late today he interviewed the spokesman of his military opponent, Count Juichi Teruchi, the retiring War Minister. But War Office sources said Teruchi told the Premier-designate existing conditions in the army made it extremely difficult to supply him with a General for the war portfolio.
 However, the navy, the House of Peers, the press, major political parties, financial and industrial leaders and the public generally welcomed Emperor Hirohito's command to head the 68-year-old General to head a new ministry.
 Ugaki received the Imperial command at a dramatic palace interview early today. If he succeeds a Cabinet he will succeed Koki Hirota who resigned with his colleagues Saturday because of the crisis growing out of a rupture between the army and an anti-militarist parliament.
 The army, although isolated in its opposition to a Ugaki Cabinet, could block it. The law requires that a General or Lieutenant-General on the active list be Minister of War. The General, therefore could prevent formation of any ministry they disliked by refusing to permit any of their number to assume the war portfolio.

In Memoriam

MRS. JOSEPH FISHER

The news of the death of Mrs. Joseph Fisher of Fort Augustus which occurred at the Charlotte town Hospital on Saturday, January 9th was received with mixed feelings of sadness and genuine regret by all who knew her. Born in Indian River forty years ago, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. Gus McLellan, the late Mrs. Fisher received the rudiments of her education in her district school and entered Prince of Wales College from whence she received her teacher's license and taught school successfully for several years in this Province as well as in Western Canada. Since she came to this parish upon her marriage in June 1932 her gentle retiring disposition, kindness, real Christian charity and unflinching courtesy gained for her an ever-widening circle of friends. In her own home her generous hospitality and welcoming smile created an atmosphere of happiness, the memory of which her family and intimate friends will ever cherish.
 The sympathy of the whole community goes out to her grief-stricken husband and infant son also to the following brothers and sisters, Mrs. Everett Davine and Miss Amelia in Bath, Maine; Bernard, Gervais and Gussie in Indian River. The funeral was held on Monday, January 11th at St. Patrick's Church, Fort Augustus where a high Mass of Requiem was chanted by her pastor, Rev. D. P. Croken, who also conducted the services at the grave. Rev. Basil Croken and Rev. Henry Duffy, assisted in the sanctuary. The pallbearers were: Eugene Callaghan, Charles Kelly, Urban Curley, John Heron, J. J. McDonald and Joseph C. Fisher.

APPRECIATION

Mrs. John W. James and family are deeply grateful for the many kindnesses extended to them during the illness and death of Mr. James. L-3055-1-27-11

Restless Nights - Pepless Days
Take the Joy Out of Life

The potent cause lies in the hurried life we lead in the extreme nervous tension and fever heat with which we follow in the pursuit of wealth, position and pleasure.
 Late hours, want of necessary rest, excessive mental or physical exertion all put a strain on the system it is unable to withstand. No wonder then you pass restless nights and get up in the morning with no ambition to go about your daily tasks.
 Take Milburn's H. & N. Pills and see what they will do for you.
