THE COOK'S CORNER

LADY BALTIMORE

Not to show any favoritism toward the Baltimore family, we are going to give Table Talkers the recipe for a Lady Baltimore Filling this week and one for a Lord Baltimore Filling next week.

The base in each case is the same—a fluffy boiled icing of the general White Mountain type—or, if you prefer, a Seven-Minute Icing.

- 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
1 tablespoon white corn syrup
1/2 cup boiling water
2 egg whites
1-6 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-3 cup chopped candied cherries
1-3 cup chopped raisins
1-3 cup chopped nuts

Combine sugar, corn syrup and water and stir over low heat until the sugar dissolves. Bring to boil and cook at very moderate speed, stirring as little as possible until the mixture will spin a thread when dropped from the tip of a fork (temperature of syrup, 240 degrees F.)

Beat egg whites with salt until stiff but not dry. Pour the syrup in a thin stream over the egg whites, beating constantly meantime. Continue beating until the mixture is thick enough to hold its shape. Flavor, then halve. To half add the cherries or figs, raisins and nuts. Use the fruited mixture between layers of white cake and cover top and sides with the plain frosting.

If you prefer, make a white 7-minute frosting, using 1 1/2 cups sugar as basis; halve, add fruit to one portion for filling and leave other half plain for frosting.

GOOSEBERRYFOOL

This is an old English dish that is called Gooseberry Fool. It is a simple thing, just sweetened stewed gooseberries which, at serving time, are folded into stiffly-beaten cream. Here are the proportions we like.

1 quart gooseberries
1 cup water
1/2 cup sugar
1 pint heavy cream

A Morning Smile

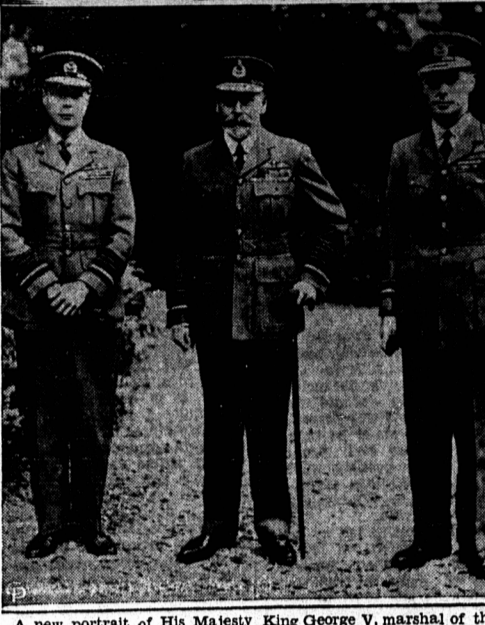

OVER THERE An old native, very simple-minded and religious, came up to his master one morning beaming with delight.

"Master," he said, "I had such a beautiful dream last night. I dreamt that I had gone to heaven, and there I saw master and missus, and many others from the farm." "And what about your old Liza? Did you see her there, too?" asked his master.

"Oh, master," said the old native, "how stupid of me! I quite forgot to look in the kitchen."

DAYS A school inspector was examining a class during one of his official visits. "How many days are there in the year?" he asked one of the young hopefuls. "Seven, sir," was the instant response. "Think again," said the inspector. "I said a year not a week. How many days in a year?" "Seven, sir," repeated the boy. "Perhaps you will tell me how you make that out," said the inspector. "Well, sir, there's Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and I don't know any more."

Special Services At Old Kildonan

WINNIPEG, July 29.—(C.P.)—Old Kildonan church built in 1853 has just celebrated with special services the 60th anniversary of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. The women saw to it that a manse was built near the "new church" of 1853, before even the minister had been seen, "that he might have a house to live in."

The original Communion service, old pewter vessels, is exhibited today by the caretaker. Gone were the "tokens" by which admission to the Lord's table was granted. They were small, like coins, made of pewter. Their use had to be discontinued because people took them away as souvenirs.

Some of the original Communion tables, small deal ones, made by hand, are still in the gallery, where the old box-pews used to be. Some of the old people still prefer the balcony, and won't sit anywhere else.

Visitors to Old Kildonan church are proudly shown a bullet hole. In February, 1870, the Portage Volunteers, under command of Major Boulton, were housed in the church one night on their march to Fort Gary to relieve the prisoners. "That hole proves ammunition was actually holed in a consecrated edifice; one gun must have gone off," says the caretaker.

Mexican Customs Please Visitors

LONDON, Ont., July 29.—(C.P.)—No need to go to Alaska to be cool or to Egypt to see the pyramids, according to Mrs. E. B. Flint, who with her husband, has returned from the Rotary International Convention in Mexico City. It's never too hot and never too cool down there and the Aztec pyramids are almost as interesting as the famous ones on the banks of the storied Nile.

Mexico, situated 7,500 feet above sea level, has an even temperature, never above 78 and never below 60, the visitors were told. It has retained many quaint customs and as yet has no large stores and few tourists, owing to the lack of good motor roads.

In a city of more than 1,000,000 inhabitants there are only two machine laundries, Mrs. Flint said; for the women still adhere to the primitive method of washing their clothes in the streams with a flat rock to rub on. The fruit and flower markets were a sight.

The pyramids built by the Aztecs several hundred years ago were of great interest. Mrs. Flint said, and not the least amazing feature was a primitive but effective shower installed in a niche in a wall. The delegates had a Mexican dinner in a restaurant made in a cave below the pyramids.

The Floating Gardens, where land is so valuable that no houses are built on it, was also another place of interest. It is possible to raise seven crops of corn a year in this land, and if a man sells a strip he merely digs another canal instead of building a fence to define the boundary.

Never To Late

DEWITT, Ark., July 29.—Mrs. Ruth Almond celebrated her 100th birthday here recently by bobbing her hair. The time she was in the hinterland.

The 48-year-old negro was wanted on a warrant committing him to serve six months in jail for an old claim-jumping offence, and the police broke up the couple's party soon after they returned to the city.

But the celebration was not interrupted for long. After hearing the prosecutor's story, Governor G. A. Stafford-Northcote today expressed opinion that Gay had made an honest mistake and ordered his release as a jubilee year gesture.

Silver's Fate Worries Folks Across Border

NEW YORK, July 29.—(C.P.)—Revival of the briefly dormant silver movement has brought to Wall Street metal authorities a renewal of fears and hopes entwined in the international fate of that commodity.

Many of those who traded in silver here before its nationalization in the United States and the imposition of a 50 per cent tax on profits are in favor of proposals by Senator McCarran of Nevada to ease restrictions on trading.

That segment of the financial community takes the stand frankly that they are in favor of gaining some of the silver profits, if any, for themselves.

At the same time, however, the metal experts declare that sharp increases in the price of silver from its present base of 67-75 cents an ounce in New York would entail the awakening of silver owners in India and China.

Another undetermined factor in the problem is the rate at which the government might buy silver in the open market to the end that American monetary stocks shall eventually consist of 25 per cent silver and 75 per cent gold.

In the past, the word that "the government's in the market" has been the signal for heavy buying by others. At one time it was proposed in the Senate that the government purchase 500,000,000 ounces a month.

Only recently it was reported that the London market was bolstered only because the government here bought heavily on the heels of sales by Chinese and Indian interests.

Many believe that the government is making purchases here and abroad at a satisfactory rate, and they point to the treasury report which shows purchases at the rate of 42,000,000 ounces a month, for the 10 months ended May 31, 1935.

By contrast it was shown that world production during that time average 15,700,000 ounces a month. Standard Statistics Company in a survey states, "While the next step in the program is difficult to forecast, because of the numerous political factors involved, the large potential purchasing power of the government, under the Silver Purchase Act, is an effective means of preventing any wide open break in foreign silver prices."

"By reason of an increase in gold holdings, the silver requirements necessary to meet the one-and-three ratio still exceed 1,100,000,000 ounces.

"At the moment there is nothing to indicate that the President will utilize his power to devalue the silver dollar, and thus drastically reduce the amount of silver that must be purchased."

Must Serve Six Months

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, July 29.—Striking it rich after eight years of digging in British Guiana's goldfields, Oscar Gay brought his wife into Georgetown to "go places"—only to find the police had been hunting for him all the time he was in the hinterland.

The 48-year-old negro was wanted on a warrant committing him to serve six months in jail for an old claim-jumping offence, and the police broke up the couple's party soon after they returned to the city.

Bright Clothes Makes Beauty Asset of Suntan

The woman who takes pride in a coat of tan and is happiest when her skin becomes a golden brown ought to wear colors that enhance her darkened skin.

There's not much sense in spending hours and using endless preparations to get an even coat of tan if you insist on wearing purple or black—colors that tend to make your skin look pale and white. Furthermore, the right shades can make the girl who has had time to acquire only a light tan look much browner than she is.

Shades of pink, including rose, coral, and dusty as well as clear tones, bring out shiny, flattering highlights. Certain blues, particularly greenish ones, and hard, vivid shades, heighten the sun-tanned effect you are trying to create.

Greens are good, providing they are rather light. White, of course, is the best of all. Nothing is more becoming to tanned skin than white sports, daytime and evening frocks. Purple won't do a thing for you and neither will black or very dark brown. Beige, lighter brown and lilac, however, are quite nice.

Sunshine addicts ought to strive for even coats of tan with no light spots and streaks. If you wear a halter top on the beach, unfasten the ties across the back of your neck to prevent a white space just below your hairline.

Islander Takes Charge in Pat Creek Flood Area

The following news item appeared in the "Northern Tribune," Grande Prairie:

"Perley Sharpe, distributor for the Oliver Limited, who returned from Peace River on Sunday, tells the following interesting story of Pat Creek which runs through that town and which threatened to play havoc. Mr. Sharpe said that he and A. E. B. Murphy, traveller for Burns Company in the north country, went over to the north side of the town and when they returned two hours later Pat Creek had overflowed its banks and a group of men were attempting to keep the creek within bounds. Mr. Sharpe and Murphy, who learned the art of laying sand bags in France and in his native province of Prince Edward Island, immediately took charge, laying the bags as one would lay bricks and tamping them in such a way that in short time the creek was under control and was flowing between the bags some two feet above the level of the street.

It is understood, observed Sharpe, that careful notes were taken and filed by the town authorities and should Pat Creek again become obnoxious to the creek within control and was flowing between the bags some two feet above the level of the street.

Mr. Sharpe further stated that the Hart River had backed up and the lower part of the town of Peace River was flooded as far as Boyd's house. Residents living on the south side were trapped to the business section in rowboats and canoes.

Man Has Passed Heat of Sun

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., July 29.—A discovery that man has surpassed the heat of the sun has been made with new cameras at the General Electric Company.

In the movie theatre you see your favorite star on the screen by virtue of the light from the temperature of a flaming carbon arc which is 400 degrees hotter than the surface of the sun. In some new welding arcs the heat flashes momentarily several thousand degrees above the sun.

The highest previously measured heat was that of the copper arc, about 6800 fahrenheit, compared with 9000 degrees of the sun's surface.

The common carbon arc, used in most movie theatres, for searchlights, and for illuminating the entrances at first nights, has a temperature of 9400 degrees.

The tungsten arc burns at 1,300 degrees fahrenheit. In certain welding arcs the hot core stands at 10,000 degrees. The noisy sputter of some of these arcs is made by heat waves which may jump to more than 13,000 degrees fahrenheit.

The camera reads the temperature by photographing a sound-wave in the flaming gas of the arc. The sound is made by a loud spark at one end of the arc.

The sound travels the length of the arc, visible as an extra glow, a real wave of light. The hotter the arc the faster the speed of the sound, it is based on.

Needlepoint Needlepoint is a popular modern art of needlecraft and dates almost from the beginning of weaving. It consists of crossing wool or silk on canvas. The fineness of the stitchery varies and the very close stitches done on an extremely fine canvas or on cloth of transverse threads are known as petit point. Work of this kind done on a coarse canvas is known as gros point. The revival and present popularity of needlepoint commenced about four years ago. The covered footstools, fire screens and pictures done by the early Victorians have been reinstated in the family drawing rooms. The modern chairs. An example of new work, in fact a chair of the ultra-modern type with a specially designed needle-point seat will be on exhibition. This chair is being made for the exhibition to show that the craft may be readily adapted to the 1935 home planned with simplicity and reserve. One of the oldest pieces to be shown is dated 1700 and has been preserved with great care. Many of the articles have been repaired with ingenuity and skill. Several needlepoint articles include the beaded pattern. Beads were used to bring out the highlights in the design. Combinations of beads, silks and wool were frequent in Victorian chairs and ottomans. The pictures which include landscape, figure studies and flower groups are of rare interest.
