WARSHIPS GOING CHEAP

The millionaire who seeks a new outlet of his gold will soon have an opportunity without precedent, when a large number of ships which have done useful work in the war come under the auctioneer's hammer.

At one of the last Admiralty sales before the war, no fewer than fifteen ships were sold; and for £50,000 it was possible to become owner of a navy a South American State might have envied.

Amongst them was the Belleisle, a battleship of 4,171 tons, with armour plating from four to twelve inches thick, and equipped with engines condensers, etc. Originally built for the Turkish Navy, she had seen thirty years of service before she was made an experimental target for the Majestic's guns. But she was still a stout vessel, able to give a good account of herself in battle, and dirt cheap at the £8,600 she fetched in the Chatham Dockyard sale.

Another doughty ship of war was the Duke of Wellington, which, in the days of her pride, had carried 131 guns, and headed the line at a great Spithead review held by Queen Victoria. For this magnificant ship the paltry sum of £8,350 was paid.

The Algiers over which the admiral's flag had flown at Chatham for some years, was knocked down for £9,350. The Edgar, a battleship of 19 guns, fetched £5,100; and the Hassibal changed hands for £4,500—the modest sum of £35,900 thus securing five battleships which must have cost at least a million dollars.

Another Admiralty sale of the time included that fine first-class battleship, Collingwood, a vessel of 9,500 tons, armed with four twelve-inch guns and six six-inch guns, and built at a cost of £824,000, and the cruiser Pique of 3,600 tons built at Jarrow in 1890 for £184,00.

But these are only crumbs compared with the feast that will soon be spread for the buyers of warships that have served their day in the world's greatest war.

A HAPPY RELEASE

Basil looked dreamily at the charming girl on whom he was endeavoring to make a favorable impression.

"Did you ever long for death?" he asked, in a low and moving tone.

"Whose?" inquired the charming but practical young person.

—SERIOUSLY ILL.—Mrs. John Murphy, Claremont, is suffering from a severe attack of pneumonia. The many friends of the family hope for her speedy recovery.

—HORSE NOTE.—Mr. Hugh Morrison, Kensington, has sold to Mr. Jos. McGregor, French River, his superior filly sired by Seymour Dillon for which he received a handsome sum.

—ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING.—A meeting of the Directors of the Farmers Co-operative Association of Kensington was held in the Commercial Hotel on Tuesday evening. Business of importance was transacted which had in view the welfare of the Association.—Y.

—THE EASTER HIGH TEA and Bazaar which was held in Agricultural Hall, Summerside under the auspices of the Ladies of St. Mary's Church on Monday afternoon, was a very great success both financially and socially. The weather was not the best, but a large number attended and the wares at the fancy work and candy tables disappeared like the proverbial hot cakes. All the tables were gay with Easter flowers and all the decorations were artistically arranged. The sum of $350.00 was realized which goes in aid of the church.—L

—THE DRAMATIC SOCIETY of St. Dunstan's University of Charlottetown journeyed to Summerside on Monday and scored a hit at Market Hall, when it presented the three-act play entitled "Officer 666." The play proved of exceptional interest and furnished an evening of rare enjoyment. The music between acts furnished by the orchestra of the society was of a kind which proved very entertaining and the whole presentation was of a high standard. The St. Dunstan's Dramatic Society has appeared before audiences in Summerside on previous occasions, but it added greatly to its already good reputation Monday evening in the play "Officer 666." The hall was crowded. The cast of characters is as follows:

Bateato, Japanese servant—A. Gagnon
Michael Phalen, Officer 666 ..... P. McQuaid
Whitney Barnes, friend of Gladwin ..... N. Hughes
Travers Gladwin ..... P. Walsh
Helen Burton ..... J. Dalton
Sadie Small ..... J. Johnston
Alf. Wilson ..... A. O'Brien
Mr. Burton ..... R. McDonald
Thos. Watkins ..... A. L. Sinnott
Captain Stone ..... A. Reardon
Ryan, a Patrolman ..... M. Rooney
Policeman ..... G. McCabe
Kearney, detective ..... R. Howatt

THE HUN AT HOME

A soldier on the Rhine writes: 'The attitude of the Hun — he does not by the way, mind being called a Hun, though he jibes at 'Boche'—continues to puzzle the English soldier in the occupied region. I was at the opera in Cologne the other day, and into the rather trival piece were introduced all sorts of by-plays. Many of the jokes were on the designation 'Hun,' but others dealt with the occupation—last of all subjects for joking, one would imagine from the Boche point of view. A reference to half a century later, 'when we shall still be occupied,' brought shouts of laughter from the natives. It is an incredible attitude, and I do not know whether to attribute it to callousness, or to relief that Cologne is not Berlin.

Going back to work after the Christmas vacation is almost as much fun as having seven teeth extracted.

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that at this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catharral deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength.) Take this one and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one teaspoonful four time a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly a way quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing rumbling, missing sounds in their ears, should give this recipe a trial.

—BRISCOE the car with the half-million dollar motor. The "class" car amongst light weight fours. See me before buying your car. Colin H. Stewart, dealer, Queen St. Summerside. 5034-4-12Mtf.

—SERIOUS LOSS.—Mr. J. J. McKinnon, prop. of the New Annan Race Track sustained a serious loss recently which resulted in the loss of a valuable blood horse, two and one half years old. While gambling with other young horses the animal was brought in contact with a wire fence, which resulted in his severing the jugular vein and this caused death.—Y.

—GIRLS ATHLETIC ASS.—The young ladies of Kensington have organized an athletic association and have named it "The Allies Base Ball Club." The officers are Pres and Capt. Gladys Doyle; Vice Pres. Margaret Sutherland; Sec'y. Evelyn Shea; Treas., Jean McNutt. They will initiate practice as soon as conditions are favorable and the prospects are bright for ability to accept challenges.

COMING GIANT TRIPLANE

In secret, and with speed, is being completed in England an enormous aeroplane, which seems likely to be the start of a new period in aircraft manufacture. If the war had continued, this aeroplane would have been used as a weapon against Berlin, and would have been able to drop over five tons of bombs on that unapproached Mecca of all night bombers instead of the half ton of bombs carried by the four-engine Handley-Pages which were actually under orders to leave for Berlin on the night of November 11th. Our new giant is the Tarrant triplane, originated by W. G. Tarrant, of Byfleet, and Captain P. T. Rawlings. On its flight over London, which, if all goes well, will be made seven or eight weeks from now, it will carry 91 passengers. It weighs about 20 tons, and has a wing expanse of 175 feet, yet it will be flown by one man, whose strength will suffice to control and direct it. Its construction is secret, but its builders say they have an entirely new system, which simplifies and cheapens manufacture, and is essentially one of standardisation. Therefore, the whole future of the aircraft industry will be greatly benefited if this great experiment succeeds. The Handley Page Company, meanwhile, say that they are building giants, about twice the size of the commercial machine, with a span of 100 feet.

ADMIRED HIS PLUCK

"Well," said Uncle Si Bruggins after a solo by a fashionable church choir tenor, "if that ain't the rudest thing I ever saw. Just as soon as that young man began to sing, every other member of the choir stopped. But he went through with it, and I must say I admire his spunk."

Never punish children by striking them on the head. There are other places.

AMBITIOUS, BUT—

"I don't see why you find fault with him so much?"

"He's a blundering fool."

"That may be, but he's a young man, and he's very ambitious."

"Oh shucks. The Kaiser was ambitious."

HEAD AT THE CLUB.

"Poor Jones is troubled with hypo? ? ?

"What's that?"

"It's a sort of dyspepsia of the dome."

It is a wise old saw that cuts with its wisdom teeth.
