

Three Records Broken By B. C. Golfers In Winning Two Titles

By FRASER MacDOUGALL (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

HAMILTON, Ont., July 12 — British Columbia golfers today stroked their way to two national titles and broke three records in the process.

The province's four-man team breezed to victory in the Willingdon Cup interprovincial championship with an aggregate score of 578 over 36 holes of medal play, five strokes less than the previous record set by an Ontario team at Montreal's Mount Bruno course in 1936. Mount Bruno, like Ancaster here, is a par-70 course.

Jim Robertson, 33, paced the British Columbians to victory with a two-under-par 138. He put together two rounds of 66, each one stroke under par, to better the previous individual Willingdon Cup record of 139 set in 1927 by Maurice Hodgson of Montreal over the same Ancaster course.

Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver captured the Canadian junior title with a 36-hole score of 147, one stroke less than the record set by Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Ont., in winning the title a year ago. Mawhinney had a one-stroke margin over Bobby Fair of Toronto, his nearest rival.

Ch'Ship Starts Today

Today was an augury of keen competition in the five days of match play for the Canadian amateur championship, starting tomorrow with 108 matches — 44 in preliminary round and 64 in the first round — to cut the starting field of upwards of 170 to 64 for second round play Wednesday morning. Two 18-hole rounds are billed for Wednesday and again Thursday with the semi-final Friday and the final Saturday over the 36-hole route.

In the Willingdon cup, British Columbia recovered from a bad opening on the first nine holes to lead Ontario by four strokes — 292 to 296 — at the 18-hole mark. Then the Pacific Coast brigade settled down to a dazzling clean-up on the second 18 where Walter McElroy joined Robertson in a sub-par round of 69.

Ontario's total of 590 — 12 strokes off the winning pace — was far better than the 614 they scored in winning the competition a year ago when British Columbia ranked second with 620. The B.C. team today was the same as in 1947.

Manitoba, headed by stage Allan Boes, ranked third with 604 and Quebec stood fourth with 610. Alberta carded a 614, the combined New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island team a 627, Nova Scotia 629 and Saskatchewan 637.

Following are the scores of the Maritime teams:

New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island: Cecil Dowling, Charlottetown 78-76-154.

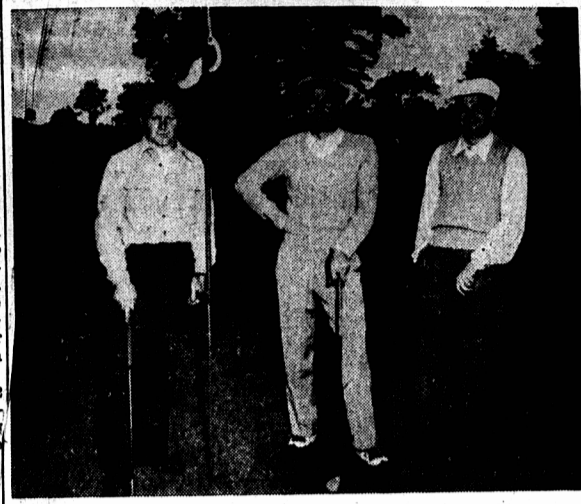

Nova Scotia: R. Harley, Moncton 79-76-155. B. Isner, Moncton 82-83-166.

Ontario: E.H. Crowell, Halifax 71-77-148. A.W. Carter, Dartmouth 83-75-158.

Quebec: Rex Joudrey, Dartmouth, 77-77-154.

John Cleworth, Dartmouth, 84-85-169.

SPORT BRIEFS

HALIFAX, July 12 — (CP) — Perishable goods will not be carried on railways serving the Maritimes except under special permit on short hauls, railway officials said today.

Shipments of perishables was suspended effective at midnight last night because of the strike of railwaymen scheduled for July 15. Both Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company took the step.

A C.P.R. official said only perishable foods which could be delivered before Wednesday could be taken.

National Sea Products officials here said no more shipments of fish could be sent today for points beyond Montreal and by tomorrow only Maritime destinations could be served.

Wholesalers said supplies that will be on hand in Halifax Wednesday will be sufficient to last only a week. By that time produce from the Annapolis Valley would probably be arriving by truck and would offset the shortage somewhat.

TO ICE CONGRESS

LONDON, July 11 — (CP) — Al Pickard of Regina, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and Prof. W.G. Hardy of Edmonton arrived in London Saturday en route to the International Ice Hockey Federation's congress in Zurich, Switzerland, July 23-26.

Prof. Hardy will officially take over the presidency of the Federation at the meeting.

WINS POWER BOAT VICTORY

DETROIT, July 11 — (AP) — Guy Lombardo piloted his Tempo VI to an easy first-heat victory Saturday in the Henry Ford Memorial Trophy power boat race on the Detroit River.

Only two of the eight starters finished the 15-mile heat.

Lombardo, band leader formerly of London, Ont., averaged 59.42 miles an hour as he came in more than a lap ahead of Ed Stair, Jr.'s Katy-Did, the only other finisher.

Fur Conference Delegates Entertained

A group of about fifty delegates who are attending the International Fur Breeders Conference here this week were entertained last evening at Government House by His Honour Lieut.-Governor J. A. Bernard and Mrs. Bernard. Lieut.-Gov. D. A. MacKinnon of Charlottetown and Mr. D. O. Stewart of Summerside were in charge of arrangements for the evening and introduced visitors from six different countries to His Honour and Mrs. Bernard. During the visits the guests were conducted on a tour of the building and they showed great interest in the many points of historical significance which are to be found within the residence.

Christianville, Va.; Fred Meyer, Lansing, Mich.; Miss Sylvia Peterson, secretary Norwegian delegation.

From Canada the following delegates are in attendance: D. O. Stewart, Summerside; Lt.-Col. D. A. MacKinnon, Charlottetown; Arnold Schoch, Winnipeg; J. E. Connolly, Bathurst, N.B.; Chris Lang, Winnipeg; H. J. Montgomery, Wetaskinw, Alta.; Chuck Ashwell, Thistletown, Ont.; Basil Madigan, Ottawa; George A. Calbeck, Summerside; W. M. Ritchie, chief fur inspector, Ottawa.

The following also were in attendance: C. Johnston, H.B.C. Montreal; Lowell W. Hancock, Summerside; W. R. Shaw, Charlottetown; J. K. Finlayson, Dominion statistician, Ottawa; P. G. Clark, P.E.I. Fur Pool, Summerside; Thomas Carruthers, Summerside; Vernon Matthews, Summerside; Douglas Bell, Carleton, Robert Clark, Summerside; Hon. W.F. A. Stewart, Stratgartney.

Delegates Welcomed

D. O. Stewart welcomed the delegates on behalf of the Provincial fur breeders and suggested that the chairman and secretary should be appointed, also other committees.

The following slate was decided on: D. O. Stewart, chairman and Joseph Francis, secretary. Publicity Committee: O. Brager-Larsen, chairman, Paul Reinhart, Victor Clouston, Chris Lang. Rules and procedure committee, Fred Meyer, Jhan Lindstrom, W. O. Douglas, Harold Reid, with J. E. Connolly chairman. Chairman W. O. Stewart then called on Premier J. Walter Jones to address the meeting and referred to Mr. Jones' book "Fur Farming in Canada" published in 1913 which was still a great source of information.

Premier Jones

Premier Jones on behalf of his government and the people of the Province welcomed the delegates and hoped they would have a most enjoyable visit and find a solution that would overcome the fur breeders' difficulties. He told stories of his trips around the country gathering information for his book and of his chats with the fathers of fur farming, Dalton, Oulton, James Gordon, Robert Tuplin and many others. He spoke of the difficulties that faced Dalton and Oulton and how by their study planning and ingenuity these were overcome. He mentioned the persistence of Robert Tuplin who knew about Dalton and Oulton's fur breeding experiments on Cherry Island and finally prevailed on them to sell him a pair of foxes for $340. The pair had not raised any pups but the following year gave the new owners four and this eventually led to the breaking of the monopoly.

The Premier said that his book had been translated into several languages and he tabled a copy that no one present could tell in what language it was printed. It proved to be Russian and it was written by an eminent Russian scientist Generoseff who visited this Province in 1915 and became one of the greatest enthusiasts on fur farming. The book was largely a translation of the Premier's "Fur Farming in Canada" with the same illustrations appearing in it. The Premier's concluding remarks were he hoped each and

Reports Submitted

Chairman Stewart then called for reports from fur farming organizations.

Victor Clouston reported for Nfld., W. O. Douglas for England, Paul Reinhart and J. E. Francis for the U.S.A.

Mr. Francis stated that 90 per cent of the fur farmers in the United States were members of the National Board of Fur Farm Organizations. J. E. Connolly, Bathurst reported for the Canadian Mink Breeders' Association, Jan Mesusaleonson, for Iceland, Jhan Lindstrom for Norway and Col. D. A. MacKinnon for Canada.

The information given by these parties was very interesting and showed a lot of care had been taken in its compilation. For instance, the mink breeders of Iceland had pretty well gone out of business during the war but in 1946 had imported 65 mutation mink from Canada and some silver foxes from Norway.

Mr. Lindstrom of Norway said that in 1939 there were 192,000 breeding foxes and in 1945 these had been reduced to 100,000. He said that Norway was an agricultural country, with the climate much like Alaska, and that fish offal and potatoes formed a large part of the fox's diet. He said that the farmer there was also a fur farmer, having a cow, a couple of pigs, a horse, 10 to 20 foxes, and 5 or 10 mink.

In 1929 the fox population of Norway was 300 silvers. In 1939 there were 370,000 silvers, 20,000 blue foxes, 12,000 platinum, up to 1938 Norway had exported 90 million dollars worth of furs, and the amount invested had only been five million dollars. From 1940 to 1945 it had been a struggle for life for the industry. Mr. Lindstrom concluded by saying the Norwegian fur farmer was a hardy individual who had a deep liking for fur farming and would not doubt overcome present troubles.

U.S. Authority Speaks

A most interesting speaker was Paul Reinhart, one of the leading authorities in the United States on fox farming who was called upon to describe the origin of fur farming in his country. An hour previously he had addressed the Rotarians from whom he had received a very hearty welcome. Mr. Reinhart traced the origin of fox farming from 1914 until it hit the depression years of 1929-1930. Then it came back, he said, and expanded tremendously. Two ranches had a total production of 70,000 when another bomb exploded in 1939. It was an address given in Chicago in which prediction of war with Japan was made. That set off the fireworks. An auction sale was being held in New York and the first two days the prices were good. Then the newspapers with the prophecy appeared and prices slumped as much as 40 per cent. There had been some improvement during the war years, only to have a return last season and this season to worse conditions than in 1939. There had been a great cut down of breeding stock, he said and an improvement in quality would naturally follow. He said he was an optimist and would by no means give up to despair.

Today's Meetings

This morning meetings will commence at 9.30. First item on the agenda is the submission of statistical inventory of the industry by countries for a 10-year period, 1938 to 1947. For instance, silver fox and various mutations of silver fox will be shown as: (1) number of fox farms; (2) average number of females per farm over above period; (3) average production of pups per female over above period; (4) percentage of breeding females at latest report date. Similar data will be submitted on mink and blue foxes. The afternoon session will be devoted to production study by countries, cost of production per pelt, in 1946 and 1947 or either year; also type and source of feed supply and cost of production by years from 1938 to 1947.

Notice To Horsemen

A meeting of horsemen will be held at Walker's Barn at 8:30 tonight when positions of horses will be drawn for Covehead races.

Both real horses are Punch, the giant Percheron weighing over a ton and the little chap between his legs, a 14-day-old Shetland pony. Both live on a farm at London Colney.

gates were received informally at Government House by His Honour Lieutenant-Governor J. A. Bernard and given a warm welcome. Each signed the visitors book.

Tonight a dinner will be tendered by the Government of Prince Edward Island to the fur farmers at the Charlottetown Hotel.

American Chances In All-Star Game Dim

By JACK HAND

ST. LOUIS, July 11 — (AP) — Injuries and hot words seared the American League's chances against the National League in major league baseball's annual all-star game here Tuesday.

Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, the junior circuit's top hitter, sat out Saturday's game between Boston and Philadelphia Athletics because of pulled cartilage in his side. He may not be able to play.

At Washington Joe Dimaggio of New York Yankees, also was on the bench, hoping that his tender heels would permit him to play.

Those two last minute developments were nothing compared to the blast of manager Stanley (Bucky) Harris of the Yankees, who will pilot the American League, when informed that Cleveland speed baller Bobby Feller had withdrawn from the squad.

Harris said that as long as he was connected with the All-Star selections Feller never would receive another bid.

A Cleveland club spokesman said Feller had suggested he be replaced because he would pitch for the Indians tomorrow and would not be of any use to the All-Stars Tuesday.

Harris said Joe Dobson of the Red Sox, would replace Feller.

Both Williams and Dimaggio were picked for the team by the fans. Feller, however, was named to the team by Harris.

The injury to Williams, suffered Thursday night, may rob the 16th annual game of its main attraction — the bat duel between Williams and Stan Musial of St. Louis Cardinals and the National League's most expert hitter.

had been that they were separated by a gap of 18 cents an hour.

That represented the difference between the 28 cents sought by the men and the 10 cents offered by the railways, at the point where they broke off negotiations last week.
