Rev. Wm. Dobson, who stood "from his shoulders upward" above most of the members of the General Conference of 1902, is reported to be attracting very large congregations in Charlottetown. His style is logical, and there is just that touch of finality about his manner which is a great delight to the ordinary hearer. The fine old sanctuary is being filled. Mr. Dobson's success is recalling to the days of thirty years ago, when one who as since passed away filled the large church on Sunday evenings during the winter months to overflowing. After filling the aisles with extra seats, many had to be turned away. Methodism has a wonderful opportunity in Charlottetown. And Mr. Dobson seems to have come at the right hour. He is the first native of the Island that has ever being stationed in the First Church. Christian Guardian

On Wednesday evening 10th, the Cavenish Literary Society gave a concert to a full house. They were assisted by Mr Hall of Rustico with his gramophone and Miss Brown of Mayfield gave a recitation, "A Scotch Courtship." They both were applauded and received the thanks of the society. The rest of the program was rendered by the Society. Miss Montgomery deserves special mention. She was encored again and again. The receipts are for the purchase of new books for the library. This is quite an institution here and contains nearly 700 volumes. Last year $50 worth of new books were added, and this year will add a number more. Miss Emma Andrews of Ebernz is visiting at the parsonage. Friday evening Mrs. J. G. A. Belyea entertained nearly half a hundred. If the young people of this place. They had a good time. The political hot has not reached the boiling point here yet. So quiet an election here "has never been." Your editorial under the head "A Quiet Election," expresses the situation exactly. In fact The Guardian editorials are more largely quoted here than the labored deliberations of the pap-fell hide bound party organs. There is an increasing number of people here who distrust and disapprove of the attitude of both parties. They have no confidence in the Conservative party because of its former catering to the large manufacturer and monopolists and its present committing to increased protection to its monied patrons. On the other hand they have no enthusiasm in assuming a hundred million dollar liability for a railroad that runs they know not where, and stops a hundred miles from an ocean port, with a doubtful right to existence for a part of its route. They say "If the people pay the bills let them own the road," and why parallel the I. C. R.?" It is to be hoped this election will shake the people of Canada loose from party lines and lead them to consider politics not a game, but a business that should be conducted on business principles.
