Germany's Joy Is Not Unmixed

BERLIN, Jan 8.—Recent developments refocus German attention on the world period of Bolshevism with mixed emotions. Many Germans now are seriously convinced that Bolshevism is Britain's main enemy, and the real menace to the British Empire of today.

The Government organ Vorwaerts goes so far as to talk of "the Red advance on India," and says "Russian Bolsheviks have a good instinct for Britain's vulnerable Asiatic position. From now on we must pay closer attention to events in Central Asia. England's nervous watchfulness tells us of political events of weight taking place there."

The German belief that Bolshevism is bothering the British Empire may soon serve to brace up Germany to balk against the fulfilment of the most distasteful of the peace terms. German joy over the reports that Bolshevism is making headway in Persia, Afghanistan and India, with Egypt ripe. for a revolt, is dimmed, however, by the argument that the Russian Reds may soon be so strong as to prove a menace to the Fatherland as well. It is believed here that after the Bolshevists clean up Denekine and Kolchak they will concentrate on Poland next, and as the Germans credit the Poles with no great military power of resistance, the unpleasant thought is arising in German minds that Germany may soon be the battle buffer between Bolshevism and the Western world.

German military specialists are beginning earnestly to talk of East Prussia as destined to be the battle ground for a decisive battle between Bolshevism and kultur.

Threatened Food Strike In Germany Postponed

BERLIN, Jan 8.—The threatened general food strike throughout eGrmany, fixed for Jan 6, was postponed, but the negotiations with the Government have made no progress The hotel and restaurant keepers in Berlin, therefore, are forming an organization of all the hostelries in Germany to prepare for the general strike, according to the National Zeitung.

Several restaurants have been closed because they sold white rolls without cards, and the Government in other ways has thrown back the gauntlet cast down by the strikers in December. The Ashinger restaurants are beginning to close their branches. Within a fortnight five will be closed and others will be closed later by fives if conditions do not improve. Each group of five shut down means nearly 300 managers and waiters out of work.

The municipal heads of greater Berlin called on President Ebert today for the purpose of informing him of the threatened collapse of the flour and potato supplies of the capital, which, during the past week were severly curtailed owing to the difficulties of transportation. The Ministers of Economics and Agriculture, and and official of the Food Bureau, who were present at the conference, gave assurance to the city authorities that the Government was cognizant of the situaures to forestall the danger of a tion and was taking active meascompulsory shortening of bread and potato rations. They declared that sufficient deliveries had been vouch safed to protect the populace until the middle of February. They also expressed the hope that the payment of an added premium for wheat deliveries would prevent in the future the necessity to alter the established ration.

Board of Commerce On Sugar Prices

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—The Board of Commerce today issued a statement as to its reason for rescinding the order for limitation of sugar profits, made last September and for the issue of a new order fixing a maximum retail price for sugar and asking the same price of sixteen cents per pound at retail applicable throughout Canada.

In its statement the Board points out that when the previous order was made raw sugar was procurable at its place of origin at about six and one-half cents per pound. It now costs at place of origin eleven and one-half cents per pound. Granulated sugar was then selling for ten cents per pound in the United States and twelve cents in Canada. It is now selling at from eighteen to twenty-two cents per pound in the United States and is likely to go higher.

Neither United States nor Canadian refiners can control the situation. It is due to the advanced cost of raw sugar which is produced so far as Canada's supply of refined is concerned in Cuba, Peru, the West Indies and other warm countries. Canada's beet sugar production is only about one and one-quarter per cent of Canada's re-

BULGAR STRIKERS BLOW UP BRIDGES

Explosion and Fire Were Cause of Two Deaths

MONTREAL, Jan. 7.—One man was killed outright and one died tonight in the General hospital here while twelve others are suffering from severe burns following the explosion of an oil pipe and a fire which broke out afterwards at the plant of the Imperial Oil Company, Montreal East, this afternoon.

The dead are Charles Bryant, fifty five years of age, off 60 St. Luke street, Montreal, superintendent of labor at the oil company.

Ludger Herbert, thirty-six years of age, of 26 La Salle Road, Maisonneuve, laborer, died in the hospital tonight.

Three others on the injured list are reported at the Montreal General hospital as being in danger of death. All the others are reported to be doing well.

The explosion was not loud but the flames for a time were of a sensational character and could be seen over the whole east end of the island of Montreal. Not much damage was done and the outbreak was under control within half an hour of its start. Total damage is estimated at $10,000.

Nature has arranged things so that a poor man is able to display as many virtues as a millionaire.

BOLSHEVIK AGITATORS AT WORK IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Bolshevik agitators in this country are working energetically along lines similar to those projected by the radicals in America, namely the overthrow of the present system and the establishment of a soviet form of government.

It is thought probable that the plans on this side of the Atlantic have not yet reached the point achieved by those in the United States, but it is believed that the radicals here are rapidly reaching the point where they might seize upon some big labor strike as an opportunity for starting a revolutionary movement.

While these facts are common talk, according to close observers of the situation it is said to be impossible for the British authorities under the ultra-labor laws of free speech to do much more than watch the passage of events. The mere fact that an individual, or an organization is allied with the Moscow international and is preaching revolution by innuendo is declared to be insufficient ground for police action. In other words, it is declared, the British, broadly speaking, cannot make preventive measures, but must be content to deal with some actual event.

Great Britain can and does deport undesirable aliens, but in the case of British subjects the situation is more delicate. There are several extremist organizations in London and in various parts of the country—some political and other allegedly allied with the extremist Laborites—which avowedly are Bolshevist or Communist.

Individual agitators daily are spreading about huge quantities of written propaganda and also lecturing throughout the country. There are also some half a dozen periodicals which are out and out "Red," and some of them make no pretensions of hiding the fact that they are advocating soviet rule in England.

There are only a few big Red leaders, but they have a sufficient following to form a goodly sized nucleus for organization. Their whole effort now is centered in sowing the seeds of discontent and they are banking on the employment of mob physchology in starting trouble in the event of a widespread strike, according to the authorities.

PURITANS' BAN ON DANCING MISTAKE, SAYS CHURCHMAN

By Rev. D. Kennedy Bell D. D.

Prominent Church of England Dignitary, Well Known in the United States.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Dancing is a perfectly legitimate outlet for superfluous physical energy.

I cannot, for the life of me, see why people should not dance, if they want to. The mistake that the Puritans in all ages have made lies in supposing that the path to perfection is to be reached by fencing human life round with innumerable artificial restrictions. I believe that this principle is utterly unsound.

The policy of wrapping oneself up in cotton wool and shielding oneself from every breath of outside air may result in reproducing a kind of hot-house plant, but it is powerless to develop a strong human character.

It depends upon the view you take of the function and mission of the church. Some people seem to think that it exists merely to shut away a certain number of men and women in water-tight compartments and label them as being much better than their fellows.

Personally I am convinced that the better churchmen we are, the more we shall mix with the world in all its daily pursuits, for it is by personal contact in the rough-and-tumble of life that characters are molded and influenced. The only man who is worth his salt is the man who is ready at any hour of the day or night to hold out a helping hand to any one who needs it.

If dancing were a thousand times blacker than it was painted all the more need for us to say, "We must get right into the thick of this business and find out the real facts of the case and do all we can to raise the tone of public opinion."

You never do the faintest good to anyone by standing outside and trying to shout the things down. You'll never improve the world by act of parliament. It can only be done by the personal contact of man with man. Do all you can to raise the tone of pubic opinion, but you can only do it from the inside.

See to it that as many right-minded people as possible associate themselves with the movement, and the rest will soon catch the tone from them.

Moral strength lies not in absence of temptation, but in inner principle.

The man or woman who wants to leave the world a bit better place to live in stands more chance of having that wish gratified by moving about and even coming face to face with the seamy side of life than by standing on the housetops and denouncing the depravity and corruption of human nature. When you come to meet it face to face you find that human nature is not such a bad thing after all. People are very much what you help them to be.

Doubtless there are dancing halls where a very questionable standard of morality obtains. Even so, I contend that a minister — a parson —if he is the real manly sort, may be doing his duty far better by dropping in to visit these fairly regularly than by visiting his respectable parishioners.

GERMANY TO INTERN ALL FOREIGNERS

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—The Prussian Government is contemplating the erection of a concentration camp in which objectionable foreigners can be interned, the Vossische Veitung reports. Berlin, during the past few months, has been the mecca of thousands of questionable visitors, who are unable to offer the police satisfactory credentials. They are gradually becoming a burden on the municipality, and, therefore, it is proposed to gather them into a general camp until they can be repatriated. Russians, Poles, Hungarians and Jugo-Slavs predominate.

WILL BE TRIED UNDER TERMS OF ESPIONAGE LAW

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Eight officials and employes of the International Bible Student's Association, who were convicted under the espionage law in June, 1918, and later freed when the United States circuit court granted them a new trial, will be tried again, Leroy W. Ross, United States attorney announced today. April 7, has been set as the date for the new trial.

The defendants were charged with distributing literature tending to obstruct the operation of the selective service act.

SYDNEY WON FROM ANTIGONISH TEAM

SYDNEY, January 7.—The Sydney League of the Cross hockey team took a big fall out of the team of the Cathedral Town when they beat the Antigonish aggregation to the tune of ten goals to seven. It was a clean fast interesting game throughout. At the end of the first period the Antigonish boys led by five goals to one. The city team got working in the second period and piled on seven goals while the collegians off three, the score being thus eight goals to six in favor of Sydney. In the final round the city lads put up another brace, while the scholars added one notch the game ending ten to seven in favor of Sydney.

A coal dealer says: "As we go through life we must live by weigh."

The human understanding at this season of the year should consist of thick shoe soles.
