The Central Guardian Surgeon Returns Prime Minister (By The Canadian Press) LONDON, July 18-Prime Minister G. M. Huggins of Southern Rhodesia, was the guest of an unusual banquet held in London. His hosts were the staff of St. Thomas' Hospital, where Mr. Huggins was staying before he migrated to Southern Rhodesia 25 years ago. James Wyatt, the gynaecologist, explaining that the affair was private, said it was being given "to show our appreciation of the fact that Mr. Huggins has become Prime Minister of Southern Rhodesia. It was attended by members of the staff of the hospital and a few of his friends who were with him at the hospital during his student days. One of them, Sir Maurice Cassidy who is now one of the physicians to the King, took the chair."

ON RETIREMENT LIST-In the recent report of the quarterly session of the Presbytery of P.E.I. at Cardigan, published a few days ago, the reference to the retirement of Rev. Allister Murray of Caledonia should have stated that Mr. Murray was retiring from his duties of the ministry with the permission of Assembly, on reaching the "age limit."

CEMETERY SERVICE-At Seven Mile Bay, Sunday, July 14th, a large crowd visited the cemetery in the afternoon to offer prayers for the departed. After service in the graveyard, Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given in the church. It is the intention of the parishioners to hold such services for the dead annually.

Mrs. Albert Hiscot and little daughter Lois, of Stanley Bridge, have returned home after spending a few days in Sea View, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Earle Adams.

BRAHMIN'S BOOTS COST HIM WIFE Suburban Vennar Bank, near Tanjore, India, was the scene of a marriage comedy recently when, just as the most important part of the ceremony was reached, the highbooted bridegroom refused to bare his feet, the wedding was called off and the respective parties separated in high dudgeon.

It was rather an unusual spectacle to see a Brahmin bridegroom in these parts walk in top-boots for the religious ceremony connected with the wedding. Sastis and priests were horrified and guests not a little amazed. The preliminary ceremonies were gone through without a hitch. Prior to the tying of the Mangalsutra or Thali round the neck of the bride the principal ceremony which makes the couple man and wife) it is customary to perform a minor ceremony with men from the feet of the bride and bridegroom and sprinkle water and milk. For this purpose the bridegroom was asked to remove his shoes for a while, but he refused. "Boots or no boots," cried the groom, "how do they interfere with the ceremony? On with the Thali ceremony or I quit."

"Mappilai (bridegroom) seems to be too westernized. At any rate, he is too modern for us!" exclaimed a wag among the women adding "what prevents him from showing his feet?"

Confusion and confusion prevailed for some time, the bride's people insisting on the removal of the shoes, and the bridegroom's remaining adamant. The brides relatives refused to go on with the ceremony and the wedding was called off.

INSULATE HOUSE AGAINST NOISES (By The Canadian Press) LONDON, July 18-Members of the Anti-Noise League of which Lord Horder is chairman, were guests recently of the chairman and his wife in their "sound-proof house," which is part of the Noise Abatement Exhibition at the Science Museum, South Kensington. The guests went up to the top of the house in the noise-proof elevator, which works by a "super silent speed-ring motor."

There an electric sewing machine and a vacuum cleaner were going at full speed, while a pianola ground out airs from "Cavaleria Rusticana" and a pair of mechanical top-boots went thumping from wall to wall, making a terrible din. Not a sound, however, penetrated to the room underneath through the floating floor, balanced on rubber insulators and the asbestos sprayed ceiling.

The house was planned to demonstrate that the luxury of peace and quiet was within the means of the great majority of people, if the material used not being expensive, it was stated.

POST STARTED BY CHARLES I LONDON, July 18-There was a letter post system in England 800 years ago and the proof of it is a document now being specially exhibited at the British Museum. It is a proclamation issued by Charles I, who was beheaded in 1649, to one Thomas Withering, authorizing him to "settle rates" in five days in the City of London. They are to collect letters left at post-houses along the various routes, and to "take them as near as possible they can" to their destination.

According to this document it was to cost Withering to send a letter under 80 miles, four pence between 80 and 140, and five pence over 140 miles, while the charge to Scotland was eightpence whatever the mileage.

Duke Good Driver Of Subway Trams (By The Canadian Press) LONDON, July 18-The Duke of Kent, who was on a private tour of inspection of the Hampstead and Highgate underground lines, was driving a train on the journey between Waterloo and Goodge Street station when he was warned of danger by the danger signal at the rear of a defective train block. He released the brake and brought his train to a standstill, few people on the train being aware that it was being driven by the King's third son. His Royal Highness was complimented on his good driving. The regular train driver accompanied the Duke in the cabin.

Verdiot Affects Scottish Jurors (Canadian Press) GLASGOW, July 18-Four women jurors broke down and sobbed when a verdict of "guilty" was returned here against five women and three men charged with perjury in support of the defence at a trial arising out of a street disturbance. One of the women prisoners, Mrs. Mary Kelly, collapsed in the dock. Counsel said Mrs. Kelly was expected a baby and her husband was in prison. If she were sent to prison, he said there would be no one to look after the family. The eight prisoners were all sentenced to six months' imprisonment. The sheriff said: "I am distressed about Mrs. Kelly, but arrangements will be made for the approaching birth so that the child will not be born in prison."

HAD METAL DIET BUT DIED YOUNG (By The Canadian Press) CHESTER, England, July 18 - Three hand knives, two large meat hooks, a button hook, a live revolver cartridge, a door key and two box keys, a large brass tap handle, three table forks broken in two, five spoons and the handles of eight others. These are a few of the 500 objects found in the stomach of a man aged 28 who died following an operation at the County Mental Hospital, Chester. The surgeon also found 218 screws and nails, some iron staples, nearly three dozen small drill bits, 12 needles and rings, 37 gramophone needles, 45 needles and pins, a shilling, six coppers and part of a necklace. Altogether they weighed 3 1-2 pounds.

The case is reported in the "British Medical Journal." The 500 articles were sent to the Royal College of Surgeons in London. The man's mother and sister had "considered the possibility" of his having swallowed things, as they have missed spoons and forks and other articles, but he had always denied it.

WALTHY SPINSTER'S MEMENTOES LISTED WITH ESTATE HOLDINGS NEW YORK, July 18-They lived in a mess of room in a Herald Square hotel, Ida E. Wood and Miss Mary E. Mayfield. Miss Mayfield died March 5, 1931. Her sister died March 12, 1932. A fortune estimated worth $800,000 was found packed in boxes, trunks and the folds of evening dresses. The estate was turned over to the public administrators. Yesterday they filed a transfer tax appraisal showing that Miss Mayfield's estate was worth $77,373. On 47 pages of the appraisal were listed 1,000 mementoes, including: Remnants of lace, a dinner menu for the banquet given February 8, 1896, to Richard Croker, former leader of Tammany Hall; an invitation signed by the then President-elect Grover Cleveland to the annual ball, March 4, 1885; 820 shares of Union Pacific Railroad stock.

Sea Adventures After a stay of six weeks in Hobart, the Norwegian cutter Ho Ho left on May 7 in continuation of its cruise round the world, which began from Oslo in November, 1933. The three adventurers on the cutter are Thorvald Oestmoen, Thorstein Schyberg, and Birger Bryhn, and they reached Hobart after a voyage of 103 days from Buenos Aires, which they had left in an unavailing search for the missing Danish training barque, were pleased with their reception in Hobart, and presented the Lord Mayor with the elaborate illuminated address.

Paper Pulp There is steady development towards the establishment of a paper pulp industry in Tasmania, although no definite statement has yet been made by those concerned with the U. S. companies which propose to operate in the State. An agreement was made recently between the three companies which hold concessions at Burnie, Kermadec and the Florentine Valley, and an expert with knowledge of the paper industry in Canada, the United States and Russia, is still looking into the possibilities. One company has indicated that three sites are being considered for the manufacture of fine paper - Kermadec and Burnie in Tasmania, and Twoford Bay in New South Wales. Another of the companies which has concessions in the Florentine Valley, states that it intends to manufacture fine paper as well as newsprint.

The Financial Record

The MacMillan Government's record of achievement is to the Liberal candidates like a red rag to a bull. There is nothing in all Liberal history to compare with it, and they dare not challenge comparison on this ground. Instead, ignoring the added burden of responsibility which the Government has been facing—they resort to misstatements regarding the financial record of the two administrations, in an effort to prove "MacMillan's extravagance."

Every school child in Prince Edward Island knows that no comparison of governmental financing is of any value without taking into account the conditions prevailing at the time.

The first three years of the Saunders-Lea Government, for example, were normal years; their fourth year saw the beginning of the depression so far as this Province was concerned. In that year they piled up a debt increase of over half a million dollars.

But the expenditures every year were steadily mounting. In 1928 the Liberal expenditure was $1,267,354. In 1929 it was $1,361,503, and in 1930 $1,455,670, or a total of $4,034,540 in their three full years. Out of that was paid on interest and sinking funds $540,193, leaving an expenditure of $3,541,347 which they incurred in their three years of plenty.

The task facing the Conservative administration was to help the people by giving as much employment and relief as possible, while at the same time keeping down the debt. How did they succeed? In 1932, the first full Conservative year, they expended $2,014,923; in 1933, $1,686,415, and in 1934 $2,026,359; or a total of $5,727,697, less interest and sinking fund payments of $948,066, leaving an expenditure for the three years mentioned of $4,779,631.

In other words, they paid out to the people of this Province in their three year period $1,238,264 more than the Lea Government paid in the corresponding time.

In doing this, one would expect them to incur a very much larger debt than the Liberals incurred. But what do the Public Accounts reveal? In 1928, the first full Liberal year, the debt increase was $192,645. In 1929 it was $176,540, and in 1930, $234,584, or a total of $603,766 debt increase in the three Liberal "years of plenty."

The Conservatives, with an increased expenditure of $1,238,264, increased the debt by $927,210—a difference of $324,000 which can easily be accounted for by the interest and sinking fund on the debt increase of $1,177,000 which the Lea Government left on going out of office.

But this only accounts for the Liberal financial record in their three "years of plenty" as compared with the three Conservative years of world depression. What does the record show for the fourth Liberal year, when the depression was setting in? In 1931 they expended $1,866,600, less $220,950 in interest and sinking fund, or a total of $1,645,650. The Conservative average expenditure for the three succeeding years of depression was $1,593,650. In other words, Liberal expenditure in 1931 was greater by $52,446 than the average Conservative expenditure for the three years immediately following.

But that is not the whole story. For they increased the debt in 1931 by $548,920, as against the average Conservative increase in the three succeeding years of $309,023.

The Liberal policy now is to starve the public services in an attempt to "balance the Budget" which they could not balance in their years of boasted prosperity.

Liberal Contract Regulates Health Dept. Expense Premier Answers Liberal Criticism By Showing That Liberal Agreement Controls Number Of Officials And Salary Increases. Granville Strongly Conservative

Liberal criticism of increased expenditure in the Department of Public Health was answered conclusively and with crushing effect by Premier MacMillan at North Granville on Friday night. At the meeting, overwhelmingly Conservative in sentiment, Mr. D. N. MacKay had the ill-judgment to criticize Conservative administration of this department. The Premier in replying stated that the department had been established by the Lea government, which had made an agreement with the Life Insurance officers as to organization, officials, salaries and automatic salary increases. The insurance companies on their part had agreed to pay, and had paid, one-half of the cost of administering the department. If Mr. MacKay was criticizing the department of Public Health, he was criticizing a work begun by a Liberal government, and carried out successfully by the Conservatives. One half of the cost of administration including officials' salaries and motor cars was paid by the insurance companies. Messrs. Thomas Wigmore and Theophilus Beaton were given a splendid reception. Mr. Benj. Taylor capably presided.

Metal Mines Dividend Records (Canadian Press) TORONTO, July 18-Compilations made by the Financial Post indicate a new record in dividend payments for Canadian metal mines this year.

In the first six months of 1935 dividend payments and declarations by metal producers totalled $29,000,940 as compared with $49,217,724 for the whole of 1934. The outlook is for a total of about $63,000,000 this year.

Disbursements in the first half of this year exceed the figures for the whole of 1932 and also of 1933 when the totals were $28,364,885 and $23,472,438 respectively. Gold mines continue to lead in the distribution of dividends, payments from that source in the first six months of this year totalling $18,807,058.

Where Was The "Bungling" In Provincial Bond Issue? A garbled statement appears in yesterday's Liberal party organ, purporting to give a comparison of bond issues made by other Provinces at the time of the $1,000,000 bond issue in this Province, the object being to show that this Province received less favorable terms.

The facts are quite otherwise. Following is a detailed statement of provincial and municipal bond issues from May to July, 1932, showing that no province or municipality received better terms with the exception of Ontario in a twenty-million dollar issue, at an approximate net yield of 5.90.

Autogyro For Use In Guinea Field KALGOORLIE, July 19-After having been stranded at Merredin, about 150 miles from Perth, because of a fracture in one of the blades of their autogyro, H. A. De Kanyzow and C. Gatenby, two young Australians, who brought the machine out from England six months ago, arrived at Kalgoorlie recently on their way to New Guinea. A new set of blades arrived from England three days after their arrival here, where they will use the machine for the conveyance of passengers and goods to mining centres. The plane has a cruising speed of 95 m.p.h., and a top speed of 130 m.p.h.

THE WATERMELON WAS STRONG Probably few people would care to water on the strength of a growing watermelon against that of the knot of a tree. Yet, at Grafton, in Australia, such a knot has just been split by a melon which had grown through the hollow center of the wood. As it grew it became twisted and distorted by the strength of the timber, but the knot was unable to withstand the growing pressure and was eventually split.-Australian Press Bureau.
