Trains Are Held Up By Locusts

(By Dominion News Service) CAPETOWN, July 19—Millions of locusts have recently been swarming into South Africa from the great central desert. Trains going to Rhodesia were held up by thick swarms of the pests on the rails.

Motor trolleys have been rushed to the infested areas with supplies of poison, which will be used to exterminate the locusts. In the meantime farmers have been forced to leave their farms and truck elsewhere with their cattle. There is hardly a blade of grass left in their land, and all the winter feed has been devoured.

The same conditions have prevailed in the Orange Free State, where the locusts eat all the sweet grass. This means starvation for herds of cattle. All schools have been closed, and children are helping to scare the pests.

It is reported from Naboomspruit that a swarm five miles wide passed over the district, the noise of the locusts' wings resembling the hum of an aeroplane.

Hearing With The Spine

(By Dominion News Service) GENEVA, July 19—The extraordinary case of a deaf mute hearing music through his spine is puzzling Swiss scientists. Eugene Butermeister, of Berne, a young man who was born deaf, recently entered the Kursaal at Berne during a concert, and was surprised to find that he could "hear" and enjoy the music, not through the ears, but through the spine.

"My spine seems to become a kind of lightning conductor, and I distinctly feel waves of sound passing upwards to the brain. The sensation is very pleasant," Butermeister explains. He has been tested with music by doctors and he can distinguish the name of the opera and the instruments played. He cannot "hear," however, if people stand between him and the orchestra. Butermeister cannot hear the human voice or a loud noise in his vicinity, and "speaks" by means of the finger alphabet.

NO SHICK FOR HER

It was in a Dorchester public school. The teacher, prompted by superior authority, had asked permission, by letter, of a girl's parents to have her take the Shick test. The permission was refused by the child's mother in a letter which ran as follows: "I received your letter asking to have my girl take the Shick test. I will not have my girl take no shick test. I have seen that Shick at the theatre, and I will have nothing to do with no test of his." And certainly no one could blame her.

ECZEMA

You are not alone. Miss Coody thanked the pupils for their gift and said she would look back with pleasure on the days spent among them. She then treated all present to candy and a special stamp for postage. On the 21st of July, 1924, the National Anthem was played and a very successful examination to a close.

JOYFUL GATHERING

On the evening of July 10th, the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Campbell, Park Corner, was opened to a large gathering of friends and neighbors, who assembled to extend their warmest felicitations to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Weeks, and to take part in a post-nuptial shower for Mrs. Weeks (formerly Miss Marion Campbell). During the evening a heavily laden basket of presents, including money, linen, silver and aluminum ware, was carried to the drawing-room by Irving Campbell and Roy Williams, nephew and cousin of the bride. The pleasant duty of opening and presenting the gifts was performed by Miss Adeline Campbell and Miss Myrtle Campbell. The bride read the accompanying verses amidst much merriment and good-natured raillery. After this part of the entertainment was over a dainty luncheon was served. The remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent with vocal and instrumental music, whilst the more light-hearted and lighter-footed had the opportunity of tripping "the light fantastic." At a late hour the guests departed after full shares of happiness and prosperity. The following day Mr. and Mrs. Weeks motored to their future home in Alberton, thus concluding their honeymoon trip spent among the beauty spots of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

The Government's New Bond Issue

A good deal of interest is being displayed by Canadians in the issue of the new Government bonds which will be issued soon. It is pointed out that the Government Deposits in the Chartered Banks have increased by about $3,000,000 since last September. This increase has taken place in spite of the fact that a Dominion Loan of $200,000,000 was sold in Canada last fall. Loans to United States by Canadian banks are also increasing each month and this seems to indicate that there are plenty of funds available for our own domestic requirements.

As to the ability of Canadian investors and private investors to provide money to buy the new bonds which will probably be issued soon, it might be pointed out that the Government Deposits in the Chartered Banks have increased by about $3,000,000 since last September. This increase has taken place in spite of the fact that a Dominion Loan of $200,000,000 was sold in Canada last fall. ### Girls Big Frauds

VIENNA, July 19.—Elfrida Knab, who has been convicted at Innsbruck of an astounding series of frauds, is only 22, and lapsed into crime a year ago. She was the adopted daughter of an official living in Tyrol and receiving a very small pension. She went to Prague last year to try to get her pension increased as he was in very bad health. Returning with stories of the wealthy friends she had made, of an alleged visit to President Hasaryk, and the like, she induced 24 persons to entrust to her sums ranging from $5,000 to $15,000 altogether more than $150,000.

She bought motor-cars, sent her "father" to Italy, and lived luxuriously until the bubble burst. The latter is bound, sooner or later, to be adequately met, and the operation of the various schemes will mean that for the next two decades, at least, the normal demand of the hardware market will be supplemented to a very extraordinary extent. The movement, no doubt, will be accompanied by hard price-cutting, but there, small profits, so long as they are certain to expedite returns, are not altogether unacceptable.

The Midland Hardware Outlook

The overseas hardware trade, so far as the Midland centre is concerned, is maintained at a fairly good level. Australia and South Africa receiving comprehensive and regular shipments, though the Indian market does not seem to be making a very good recovery. In the home trade business is Birmingham and Midland merchants it is slightly better on the whole. Trade is fairly steady, but in supplying the needs of the electrical and motor industries, Staffordshire lock makers have been moderately active during the last two months, but a lull has apparently set in, the same observation applying to enamelled and aluminium hollow-ware. Wire manufacturers, who are fairly busy both on home and export accounts, have recently revised their price-lists of finished wire for the export trade, reductions having been made varying from 10s. to £1 per ton. ### EAT AUSTRALIAN APPLES

The manner in which Australian apples are finding a first-class market in this country contains a hint to all the Overseas Dominions as to how their produce can best find the Home Market. The secret is the thoroughly efficient and skillful manner in which Australian apples are being advertised. The British public, in all our chief centres of population are being persistently and methodically urged through the medium of the Press to "Buy Australian Apples." In the metropolitan area, and also in the Liverpool district, the striking Australian apple poster, which is becoming well known, has been extensively displayed, especially on the Underground railways, and a large electrical sign has been flashing its exhortation to "Eat

TRADE AND COMMERCE

(From a Special Correspondent)

London, 4th July, 1924.

It was the writer's privilege not so very long ago to examine pretty thoroughly, and on the spot, the most important markets in Europe, and the impression then gained was that not only was the drift most decidedly in the direction of recovery, but there prevailed keen anxiety everywhere to bring it about. There were still, at that time however, many causes of political unrest to be dealt with, these all being retarding influences. From time to time it has since seemed as if the much desired recovery must be everywhere indefinitely delayed; but of late matters have been moving almost everywhere in the right direction, with the result that, at last, it seems as if the world's markets are developing activity and that we really have turned the corner. While all this may be of primary importance to the manufacturer and merchant, as the upward movement develops its good influence will communicate itself to all departments of trade and not the least to those sections with which hardware interests generally are concerned. Retailers, particularly we are well aware, have been of late experiencing some of the difficulties inseparable from "tight money" conditions and in a few instances the struggle to keep businesses intact has proved too severe; but better times are now well within sight. Prospects are improving in all directions. One is not already indicated, and the other is just as plainly discernible in the pressing need of houses in this and every other country. The latter is bound, sooner or later, to be adequately met, and the operation of the various schemes will mean that for the next two decades, at least, the normal demand of the hardware market will be supplemented to a very extraordinary extent. ### Black Hills Gold Discovery Will Be Marked by Pageant

(United Press) CUSTER, S. D., July 18.—Amidst a setting of crystal mountains that rank among the scenic wonders of the North American continent, this little city is astril with plans to entertain a host of visitors from over the nation at a historical pageant and gold excavation on the 50th anniversary of the discovery of gold in the Black Hills. What Sutter and the days of 49 mean in the annals of California is signified to South Dakotans in the name of H. N. Ross and the year '74. Ross made the first practical discovery of gold here July 27 of that year, and from the event has developed the greatest low grade gold producing mine in the world. The pageant, which contributes an average of one-tenth the annual output of this metal in the United States. For some years Custer, the oldest town in the Black Hills, named after the veteran Indian fighter who met death in the massacre of the Little Big Horn, has paid more than its share to the nation. The town of Custer dropped out of focus in the Dakota gold stampede as suddenly as it had risen to fame when, the year following the original discovery, far richer "diggings" were located near the present cities of Lead and Deadwood, but the community could not be deprived of its history-making experience. A monument of Black Hills speedway masonry was dedicated on the 1921 anniversary to the memory of the veteran Ross, who lived and died here. Also, a large fund was completed in June this year for a memorial to Mrs. Annie D. Tallant, who arrived with her husband and the initial band of prospector over the land in a prairie schooner in the late fall of that first year and set forth in the early life of the town. ### Masts With Lefts

(By Dominion News Service) LONDON, July 19.—So huge are the masts to be used in the construction of the world's largest wireless station at Hillmorton, near Rugby, that they will hold lifts to carry four men. There are 200 tons of steel in each of them, and the Railway Company, which is responsible for the transport of the material, has had to make special arrangements for conveying them. The great aerial—1½ miles long and half a mile wide—will be supported on 12 steel masts, each 220 feet high, or more than twice the height of St. Paul's. Several of the masts are already in place on the 950 acre site of the station, and sections, are rising skywards. It is hoped to begin a wireless service from the station by the end of the year.

Stone Age Relic

STAR GAZING FISH LATEST

(By Dominion News Service) LONDON, July 19.—Can you imagine a miniature hammer-headed shark clothed in golden armour, waving a pair of tails, and with eyes gazing fixedly at the heavens? This description will give you some slight idea of the pair of "Star-gazing Gold-fish" or "Star-gazers," just arrived at the Zoo Aquarium. The amazing thing about them is their eyes. Two big globes project well outside the head, and on the very top of these the eyes glare endlessly upwards. Should the fish wish to see anything right in front of him he has to do a queer abrupt nose-dive so as to bring his eyes to the right angle position. The rest of the body is fairly normal save for the tail—rather tails, for there are two of them, which wave in the water like a woman's veil in a gentle breeze. "Vell-tail," in fact, is one of the names given to these appendages. These "Star-gazers" come from China, and when they were first exported the theory was advanced that the strange eyes were the result of a skilful surgical operation. However, baby "Star-gazers" bred true to the parental type, so the thing has to be accepted as a family freak.

STERLING STILL HOLDS ITS OWN

The financial flotation within a couple of hours, of the Hungarian Loan for £7,902,000. Interesting was the marvellously quick response has been, it has a greater significance from the fact that the amount offered to British investors is five times as great as that offered in New York. This shows that, notwithstanding all the recent talk about the dollar superceding Sterling as the world's medium of currency, London still remains the leading money market of the world. One other significant feature is the great number of small investors who have subscribed for the loan, indicating that our leading power is by no means exhausted.
